UNION ELECTRIC OFFICER TOOK 3 CHECKS TOTALING $27,500 TO HODGE'S OFFICE

PAYMENTS WERE FOR BROWNING AS PART OF FEE FOR LOBBYING

Three checks totaling $27,500, which were made out to Attorney J. Roy Browning, were carried to Springfield, Ill., by an officer of Union Electric Co. and left in the care of Illinois Auditor Orville E. Hodge, it was disclosed today.

At an inquiry here today in Union Electric's office information was developed that Hodge recommended the hiring of Browning as a lobbyist for Union Electric. Hodge also ascertained for the utility that Browning's total fee would be $35,000.

John S. Rendleman, counsel for the Illinois Budgetary Commission, identified Harry Williamson, Union Electric real estate and tax officer, as the man who took the checks to Hodge's office.

He quoted Williamson as saying, by way of explanation: "It seemed Hodge's office was a good place to leave the fee."

J. Wesley McAfee, president of the utility, earlier told the Post-Dispatch that 99 per cent of the company's checks are sent by mail. Browning has an office in Chicago but has no Springfield headquarters.

Williamson told Rendleman he had "a couple of lawyers in mind" to lobby for the Union Electric bill, but decided to go to Hodge for a recommendation. Hodge suggested Browning, he said. Williamson asked Hodge to learn if Browning were available and what his fee would be.

"Hodge ascertained Browning would be available and that his fee would be $35,000," Rendleman was told. "The retainer was to be $7500; $5000 was to be paid when the bill cleared the Senate committee and another $5000 when it cleared the House committee. A balance of $17,500 was to be paid when the bill passed both houses."

McAfee, amplifying Williamson's statement about taking the checks to Hodge, said the only way Hodge could obtain the money without Browning's knowledge was to forge Browning's indorsement.

"Hodge was an old friend of Williamson," McAfee said. "Williamson had full faith in him."

McAfee announced he planned to make a full report of the Browning-Hodge lobbying case to the board of directors of Union Electric at a meeting Friday. He said he will have some recommendations to make.

Rendleman, assistant to Albert E. Jenner Jr., chief counsel for the budgetary commission, questioned Union Electric officers for two and one-half hours.

He was following up a statement made yesterday in Chicago by Browning that both he and Hodge were employed to work for the utility's bill. Browning's statement was re-

SEC TO INQUIRE INTO CLAIM UTILITY EMPLOYED HODGE

Seeks to Learn if Union Electric Violated Law by Hiring Official as Lobbyist.

By ROBERT H. COLLINS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 14 —The Securities and Exchange Commission will begin immediately a full investigation of Union Electric Co.'s alleged employment of Illinois Auditor Orville E. Hodge to lobby for legislation the utility wanted passed in 1955, United States Attorney John B. Stoddart, Jr., told the Post-Dispatch today.

Stoddart made the announcement after talking with Thomas Hart, head of the regional office of the SEC in Chicago. He said he recommended the action to Hart who has jurisdiction in Stoddart's federal judicial district, the Southern District of Illinois. Hart said he was assigning agents to the case.

The SEC inquiry was touched off by a statement yesterday by a Chicago attorney, J. Roy Browning, that he and Hodge were to share a $35,000 fee paid by Union Electric which sponsored an amendment to the Illinois Public Utility Act.

Browning, who made his statement to Albert E. Jenner Jr., counsel for the Illinois Budgetary Commission, said he actually received no part of the $35,000.

He indorsed the first of four Union Electric checks, for $7500, and turned it over to Hodge, he said. He declared he never saw the three other checks which made up the balance of the fee.

Stoddart said his action in referring the Union Electric matter to the SEC meant he felt the facts developed so far were serious enough to warrant "an immediate and full-scale investigation." He based his request, he said, on information given him by the Post-Dispatch that the transaction took place in Hodge's office in Springfield and that Hodge received the money.

"The purpose of the SEC investigation would be to obtain evidence that would warrant prosecution of the responsible parties," Stoddart said. "Such a payment by a utility company, if it is a holding company or a subsidiary company, is prohibited under the definition of the Public Utility Holding Act."

In St. Louis today Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd said he was watching developments in the case to determine whether Union Electric had violated any Missouri law.

The bill which Union Electric wanted passed permitted the company to dissolve its Illinois

U. S. SCHOOL AGE POPULATION RISING 1,500,000 EACH YEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —This country's school-age population is increasing by nearly 1,500,000 children a year, the Census Bureau reports.

The bureau estimated yesterday that as of July 1 there were 38,756,000 children of elementary and high school age—a gain of 3,167,000 since 1950.

The six-year period also brought a rise of 4,000,000 in the number of persons from 18 through 64 years of age, with 80 per cent of that increase among those over 45. The number of those over 65 rose about 2,200,000, to a 1956 total of 14,426,000.

RUSSIAN EFFORTS TO GET BUDAPEST RIOT FILMS FAIL

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP)—A British newsreel editor reported today the Soviet Embassy had tried—and failed—to get hold of films that could be used to identify Hungarian freedom fighters.

G. T. Cummings, London editor of Pathe news, told newsmen "the films could incriminate thousands."

Cummings said the newsreels, taken by Hungarian cameramen at the height of the fighting in Budapest, "show Hungarians shooting at the secret police in the streets of Budapest and setting fire to buildings and Russian tanks. Some reels also show Russian troops fraternizing with Hungarians."

He said the Soviet Embassy asked Pathe for copies of the reels and was refused.

"At the public cinema the film moves too quickly for people to be identified," Cummings explained. "But anyone with the reels in their possession could enlarge photographs of individuals."

EISENHOWER PLAYS GOLF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (UP) —President Eisenhower took advantage of cool, sunny fall weather yesterday to play 18 holes of golf at Burning Tree Club in nearby Maryland.

The round of golf was the President's first in a month, and his first 18-hole round since he played at Gettysburg, Pa., Sept. 15.

Rifles, Cannon, Four Vacuum Cleaners Are Heard in Concert

LONDON, Nov. 14 (UP)—The rifle shots fired in London's famed Festival Hall echoed around the British musical world today.

Cartoonist Gerard Hoffnung's "concert to end all concerts" last night received a booming ovation in the London press despite, or because of, the fact that his instruments included rifles, a cannon, assorted beer bottles, hot water bottles and four whining vacuum cleaners.

The 31-year-old bassoon player presented "an extravagant evening of symphonic caricatures" to a jammed audience in the big music hall. It was music of a strange sort. Some listeners said it wan't even music.

Hoffnung's arrangements included the "Grand Grand Overture" in which four women played vacuum cleaners that lit up as they swept the notes aside. Next was an andante played by seven men blowing into the mouths of hot water bottles and empty beer bottles. There also were rattles, police whistles and sirens in the concert.

130 HERE URGE OPEN HEARINGS ON DANGERS OF ATOMIC FALLOUT

Washington U. Faculty Members Call for Congressional Committee to Review Findings of AEC.

One hundred thirty Washington University scientists and members of the School of Medicine faculty have signed a letter urging the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy to hold public hearings on the problem of fallout from nuclear explosions, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

Signers of a letter sent Monday to United States Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.) of New Mexico, chairman, and other committee members included Dr. Carl F. Cori and Dr. Gerty Cori, both Nobel prize winners, nearly 40 other medical doctors, and 13 physicists.

Disturbing Data.

"We have been increasingly disturbed by the Atomic Energy Commission data released in recent months which indicate a possibility that fallout from nuclear explosions may be approaching a level which constitutes a serious, world-wide threat to health," the letter to the Congressional committee said.

"We are further concerned that the greatly divergent interpretations placed on these data in the recent campaign may have resulted in widespread confusion. It seems that public decisions of the greatest importance may turn in part on the significance of the AEC's findings.

"It is therefore of immediate importance that a responsible agency of the Government review in public the complete findings of the AEC, together with their most authoritative scientific interpretations. We strongly urge that the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy undertake open hearings on these matters at the earliest possible date."

Nine-Man Committee.

The signatures were obtained by a nine-member factulty committee that circulated copies of the proposed letter. On the committee were: Edward U. Condon, chairman of the department of physics; Dr. Evarts A. Graham, professor emeritus and lecturer in surgery; Barry Commoner, professor of plant physiology.

Henry Primakoff, professor of physics; David Lipkin, professor of chemistry; S. I. Weissman, professor of chemistry; A. L. Hughes, professor emeritus and lecturer in physics; C. W. Rodewald, associate professor of chemistry, and T. A. Pond, assistant professor of physics, secretary of the group.

All of the nine except Hughes and Rodewald were among 24 Washington University scientists who made public a statement last Oct. 18 in which they called for "intensive scientific study" to determine the degree to which tests of nuclear weapons endangered human life.

The issue was a matter of political controversy at that time because the Democratic Presidential candidate, Adlai E. Stevenson, had called for efforts to halt H-bomb testing by the United States and other countries, while President Eisenhower had termed the tests "an indispensable part of our defense program."

Other Signers.

Signers of the letter urging a Congressional hearing on nuclear fallout included practically all who subscribed to the Oct. 18 statement. In addition to those already named, the signers of the letter sent Monday included:

PRESIDENT SAYS WORLD GROUP ISN'T CONFINED TO RESOLUTION

Recalls It Has Gone Beyond That, Apparently Referring to Korea — Hints at Break With Russia.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 — President Eisenhower, in a press conference devoted mainly to international questions, said today the United States would oppose the sending of Communist "volunteers" to Egypt.

A reporter had asked the President what American action would be taken if "new forces" such as "volunteers" were sent by Soviet Russia or Communist China to help the Egyptians. After the press conference it was learned that the Egyptian ambassador in Moscow had been instructed to ask for such military aid.

The President recalled that a week ago he had stated that the introduction of any new armed forces into Egypt "would violate the United Nations charter and it would be the duty of all United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

No Unilateral Action.

He noted today that he had not said last week that the United States would make unilateral determination on this issue. He added that as a member of the U.N., this government would oppose such a Communist move.

The reporter asked what form this opposition would take, whether it would go beyond subscribing to a U.N. resolution.

Somewhat grimly, the President replied that the U.N. action was not limited to resolutions. He said there was one case in which the U.N. had gone beyond the passing of a resolution. He did not follow this thought — apparently he was referring to the U.N. intervention in Korea.

Throughout his replies, the President clearly indicated that for the time being the United States would work within the U.N. on the Middle East crisis and the Hungarian rebellion. He implied, but did not say, that if conditions got worse consideration would be given to withdrawal of diplomatic recognition of Soviet Russia.

He ruled out for the present a summit meeting of the Big Four heads of Governments—the United States, Britain, France and Russia—and said that a Big Three meeting of the United States, Britain and France had been talked about but no definite plans made.

He said that after the present crises have eased he was determined that American friendship for Britain and France should be stronger than ever because good relations were vital to the western powers.

Friendly to Both Sides.

As to Israel and the Arabian countries, the President said the American policy is friendship for both sides. If these nations, he said, can attain a state of toleration and co-operation, American aid with no conditions attached will be given to increase their trade and raise their standards of living.

As to Hungary and Poland, both in rebellion against Moscow domination and exploitation, he said the United States does not now and never has urged or argued for armed revolts which would bring disaster to our friends.

He said that our hearts go out to the people of Hungary but their open revolt seemed hopeless.

The President, looking fit in a well-tailored brown suit, opened the conference — the first since his re-election—with a tribute to the United Nations and its Secretary General, Dag Hammarskjold. He cautioned reporters that while he would try to answer their questions, the last thing he wanted to do was to disturb or delay the delicate United Nations activities now in progress.

Hammarskjold, he said, had not only proved his great ability but had displayed a physical stamina to work night and day for weeks.

Asked About Reappraisal.

When a reporter asked whether the time had not come for the United States to reappraise its foreign policy toward Soviet Russia, Mr. Eisenhower asked whether the question included the breaking of diplomatic relations. The reporter said that it appeared that "peaceful co-operation had been killed."

The President said that Russia, a very great centralized power, had not complied with the standards of the U.N. In any review of relations, he con-

HAMMARSKJOLD ORDERS U. N. FORCE TO EGYPT

U.N. Secretary Acts Before Leaving for Mideast Himself to Arrange for Policing Truce.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 14—Orders to start moving the first units of the United Nations police force to Egypt were issued today by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold a few hours before he was to leave here on the first leg of his journey to Cairo.

He will arrange for disposition of the international troops for enforcement of the Egyptian truce with Israel, Britain and France on his arrival at the Egyptian capital.

The Secretary General is proceeding to Egypt by way of Italy, where the U.N. force is quartered at a military airport near Naples, a spokesman said. He is still awaiting a reply from the Hungarian government to his proposal to visit Budapest to discuss U.N. relief operations.

The spokesman said it was planned to quarter the U.N. soldiers in Egypt at Abu Souer airfield, near Ismalia, a city in the Suez Canal Zone. Egyptian officers were said to be "working on this pot" with U.N. staff officers to receive them.

First contingents of the international force would total about 1000 men, it was said, probably complements contributed by Denmark, Norway and Colombia. Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns is chief of the newly created U.N. command. He formerly headed the U.N. Palestine truce organization with headquarters at Jerusalem.

Before Hammarskjold made his announcement a spokesman for the Egyptian delegation reported that announcement had been made at Cairo that "agreement has been reached this afternoon" with Hammarskjold "concerning all points of detail" stipulated by Egypt in regard to receiving the U.N. force. Cairo had requested clarification of the functions of the troops.

RAID BY POLICE FAILS TO ECLIPSE 'HEAVENLY BODY'

Charges of presenting and permitting a "lewd and indecent act," against June Leonard, a dancer, and Ralph Lia, acting manager of the Grand Theater, were dismissed in police court today after their attorney argued that the human body is not indecent.

The dancer, billed as "The Heavenly Body," and Lia were arrested by morality squad detectives, who said the act began with Miss Leonard clad in an evening gown, but ended with her virtually in the nude. Attorney Francis O'Brien argued that the indecency "was only in the eyes of some people."

"The act undoubtedly helped the idea," Judge Robert G. Doyd observed. On dismissing the charges the judge ordered Lia to "tone down your show." Miss Leonard, 24 years old, appeared in court modestly attired in dark blue street dress. She said her next performance will be in Cleveland.

E. GERMANY EASES RULES FOR YOUTHS LEARNING A TRADE

BERLIN, Nov. 14 (AP)—Communist East Germany announced today it will no longer impose political indoctrination on youths who are learning a trade.

Western observers viewed the move as another effort to pacify the East German population, grown more restive since the anti-Soviet upheavals in Poland and Hungary.

The Communists' official youth newspaper, Junge Welt, said the indoctrination was being dropped because it had proved to be "damaging." The paper said more stress was frequently placed on political matters than on professional training.

'FAT MAN'S AMENDMENT' OPENS FRONT SEATS OF CABS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)— The "fat man's amendment" to a city law governing taxicabs was passed by the City Council yesterday.

The amendment permits passengers to ride in the front seat next to the driver when two passengers would overcrowd the back seat of the smaller-type cab. Previously the law permitted front-seat passengers only when three were riding in the rear seat.

The proposal got its nickname because overweight passengers are most likely to want the back seat to themselves. The amendment also permits paraplegics and other disabled persons to ride in the front seat at any time.

BURNS SAYS U.N. UNITS WILL TAKE OFF TOMORROW

Announces First Contingent Going to Egypt Will Number About 100.

CAPODICHINO STAGING AREA, Italy, Nov. 14 (AP)— The first unit of the international police force will fly tomorrow morning to Egypt, it was announced tonight.

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the force, reported this immediately after word was received here that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold had ordered the force to start moving.

Burns said "probably about 100 men" will make up the first contingent. They will be of various nations. Four nations now are represented here—Norwegians, Danes, Colombians and Canadians. Other nations will join later.

Earlier, take-off of the troops their number swelled to 300 by new arrivals—was postponed for the second time.

Supply and housing problems and disagreement between Egypt and Britain, France and Israel on the force's mission were seen as the reasons for the postponements.

While the U.N. troops stood by in Italy, a team of 12 U.N. truce observers from Palestine landed at Port Said and drove immediately to the front lines at El Cap, south of the port. They sped past the forward British and Egyptian positions and headed for Ismailia to talk with Egyptian officials on the movement of the police force into the area.

Until the arrival of the bulk of the U.N. force, the chief mission of the 12 observers will be to help keep the cease-fire along the 600-yard-wide no man's land in the canal zone.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Canada was delaying assignment of Canadian troops to the U.N. force, pending completion of U.N. negotiations with Egypt.

"Arrangement with Egypt are not completed and we have not yet been told what the United Nations wants," St. Laurent said.

Clouding the U.N. operation were conditions laid down by Egypt for the policing role and the conflicting British, French and Israeli positions.

CAIRO REQUEST FOR TROOPS IS REPORTED BY ARAB SOURCES

50,000 Soviet Citizens Said to Have Signed Up to Go to Mideast —No Obstacles by Kremlin Expected.

MOSCOW, Nov. 14 (AP)—An Arab source said today Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed El Kony has been instructed by his Government to request the immediate dispatch of Soviet "volunteers" to Egypt.

The Soviet Government has said it would permit Soviet citizens who volunteered for service to the Middle East to go there if their presence was requested. It was taken for granted the Kremlin would put no obstacles in the way of the volunteers' departure.

El Kony said this week more than 50,000 Soviet citizens had applied for permission to fight for Egypt.

U.N. Force Marks Time.

The report that Egypt is now asking for Soviet volunteers came shortly before United Nations police units were ordered to leave their assembly base in Italy for the Suez Canal Zone to patrol a cease-fire.

Egypt has been demanding immediate departure of all Israeli and French-British troops from Egypt, and insisting that the U.N. police army have no part in the control of the Suez canal. This has run counter to the stated intentions of the Israelis and the British and the French.

Reports that Egyptian President Nasser would decline to allow U.N. police troops to remain in Egypt, except on the 1949 Israeli-Egyptian armistice line, and then only so long as Egypt should decide, had been interpreted by Western sources in Moscow as bringing the possibility that Soviet "volunteers" would pour into the Middle East.

Thus could be started a situation something like Korea when Red China's "volunteers" went to the relief of North Korea's Communist regime.

Vicious Circle.

"If Nasser won't permit the U.N. to take over the Canal Zone it's unlikely the British and French forces will pull out," one Western diplomatic source said last night. "And if the British and French don't pull out the Soviet Union is already committed to send its volunteers to help Egypt kick them out. It looks like another vicious circle."

The United Press said a Moscow radio broadcast, heard in London tonight, again told the Arab world that "the Soviet Government would not prevent the departure of Soviet volunteers to Egypt to defend the freedom and independence of that country."

The broadcast, in Arabic and beamed to the Mideast, said: "The hearts of all the Soviet people are throbbing with anger. The U.S.S.R. with its 200,000,000 people, China with its 600,000,000, and many other peoples are behind you, our dear Egyptian friends."

Withdrawal Demanded.

The Soviet government, from Premier Bulganin down, has insisted "aggressors" must leave Egyptian territory immediately.

Moscow at one point offered to send naval and air forces, in liaison with the United States and under U.N. auspices. That move was rebuffed by the United States. U.N. resolutions on creating the police force barred participation by the big powers.

Red China has reported 250,000 "volunteers" registered to go to the aid of Nasser.

Rallies for the aid of Egypt also have been reported in Indonesia and Afghanistan. Indonesian diplomats here said yesterday 65,000 volunteers had enrolled in Indonesia for Egyptian service.

The Soviet people have been told little of the action of the U.N. in preparing to send a police force to Egypt. They have been told, however, of the enrollment of "volunteers."

For several days, also, the Russian people have been told that the cease-fire was a ruse to give time for the British and French to take reinforcements to Egypt.

CBS MAN CUT OFF ON 'VOLUNTEERS'

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)— A CBS correspondent in Moscow was cut off the air by the Russians today when he started to broadcast details of the Soviet "volunteer" force which is prepared to go to Egypt.

The correspondent, Dan Shorr, later was allowed to re-

Tax Boost Not City's Fault, Mayor, Bannister Tell Victims

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and Revenue Collector Del L. Bannister, in a move to maintain good public relations, are trying to make sure that the city does not get blamed for the 18-cent increase in this year's tax rate.

Accompanying bills being sent to St. Louisans for this year's real estate and personal property taxes are small folders emphasizing the city's tax rate is up only a cent over last year.

Blame for the higher rate, which went from $3.09 to $3.27 on each $100 assessed valuation, is laid squarely on the school tax, 17 cents higher this year than in 1955.

Mayor Tucker and Collector Bannister announce rather proudly that the city tax rate has been limited to only one penny despite sharply rising operating costs and an ambitious public improvement program.

They list for the taxpayer all public improvement projects completed or under way through approved bond issues. These improvements added 5 cents to the city tax rate, but the overall increase was limited to a cent because the 4-cent sewer tax was eliminated.

HUNGARIAN PUTS DEAD AT 27,500 IN EARLY DAYS OF REBELLION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (UP) —A 21-year-old student leader of the Hungarian revolt testified today that about 25,000 of his countrymen were killed in their fight for freedom as of Nov. 4.

The youth estimated the Red Army suffered 2500 dead in its bloody suppression of the Hungarian revolt.

The student leader, using the assumed name of Istvan Laszlo and wearing a surgical face mask and white cook's cap to shield his identity, testified before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

He escaped to the west Nov. 4 and arrived in Washington a few days ago.

Describing Budapest as "in ruins more than after World War II," he said that Red army tanks flushing out the rebels "turned their guns on the houses and fired into them."

He also said rebels had found "torture instruments" when they seized headquarters of the Hungarian secret police.

Aided Rebels at First.

Laszlo testified that the Russian occupation troops were "on the side of the rebels" when the uprisings started and refused to shoot them. But they were "terrorized" by their commanders into obeying orders after the Russians sent in two "Mongolian divisions" and other troops as reinforcements, he said.

Before Russia retaliated with force, he said, one Russian tank commander sent to Budapest to put down the revolt turned his tank over to the rebels. Another, he said, fired on his own tank formation.

Laszlo, a short, dark-haired youth, testified through an interpreter, Marion Low, Hungarian-born graduate student at Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass. He wore a red, white and green band of Hungary's national colors on the sleeve of his gray suit.

Laszlo, who lives in Sopron county in western Hungary, commanded a unit of about 5000 students and workers in his town. The town was not identified for security reasons.

Causes of Revolt.

Laszlo, a university student, said the chief cause of the revolt was an "idealistic" desire for freedom. However, he said, dissatisfaction over economic conditions added to the Hungarians' decision to rebel.

He said the Hungarian police gave arms to his student units and that Hungarian army divisions later furnished larger equipment.

"Many (Russian) soldiers told us they were sent to fight a Fascist uprising," he said. "When they saw they were fighting against the people they refused to shoot at them."

He said the Soviet commander told him the troops "actually had been sent to prevent Western help from coming in."

Laszlo also testified that the rebels found "torture instruments" when they took over headquarters of the AVH, the Hungarian secret police.

In his town, he said, they found a small chamber with a roof that could be pushed down to crush anyone in it. He said he saw a crematory in AVH headquarters in Budapest and a device to hang people by the feet with steel plates which would crush their hands if their arms dropped.

Prediction on Elections.

Laszlo said he does not believe Hungarian Communists could put the nation back into the Soviet orbit in free elections which would follow withdrawal of Soviet troops.

Senator Olin D. Johnson (Dem.), South Carolina, acting subcommittee chairman, said he "personally" believed the United Nations should form a committee to hear Laszlo's story.

The subcommittee plans to take testimony tomorrow afternoon from another Hungarian rebel who escaped more recently. Counsel Robert Morris said the witness is expected to provide documentary evidence.

EGYPT REQUESTS RUSSIA TO SEND VOLUNTEERS NOW

sume after all such references had been eliminated.

Shorr predicted the Russians would comply with the reported Egyptian request for troops if their "statements of recent days mean anything."

Shorr said in the broadcast:

"The Middle Eastern crisis has taken a grave new turn tonight. I am reliably informed that the Egyptian Embassy here has received orders from Cairo to ask for volunteers that Russia has offered and that this request is being relayed to the Soviet Government.

"If the Soviet statements of recent days mean anything, the request will be complied with.

"Many things are still unclear. How many will go? The Egyptian Embassy says that it has more than 50,000 applications on hand. Whether they would take their own arms? And whether heavy equipment such as planes and tanks will be furnished to them from here?

"But there's one indication. A reserve lieutenant colonel was quoted in the Soviet press today as saying, 'I'm ready with weapons in my hands.' There's reason to believe the volunteers will be formed into units here and receive their equipment here.

"An Egyptian source told me, 'We don't have equipment for them in Egypt.' The volunteers include 265 . . ."

At this point Shorr was cut off.

SOVIETS REPORT BUILDING OF TWIN ATOMIC TOWNS

MOSCOW, Nov. 14 (AP) — The magazine Ogognek reported today the Soviet Union is building twin atomic towns in the central Asian republic of Uzbekistan.

The weekly publication said that at Troitskoye and Pervomaiskoye, not far from the republic's capital of Tashkent, the Uzbek Institute of Nuclear Physics is constructing two settlements to house laboratory personnel under Institute Director Ubai A. Arifov.

Facilities are to include a powerful experimental reactor and other advanced equipment for atomic research. One of its primary projects, the magazine reported, is completion of a sort of Isotope factory to supply radioactive isotopes to Asian areas of the Soviet Union and to "friendly Asian and eastern countries beyond our frontiers."

ENVOY URGES U.S. TO PULL OUT TROOPS FROM EUROPE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14 (AP) —Eric Johnston proposed today that the United States take the initiative for peace by offering to withdraw all our troops from Europe if Russia will do the same.

Johnston, movie industry chief and United States special ambassador to the Middle East, said in a speech that he made the suggestion knowing the risks.

"Perhaps the Russians would refuse outright," he said, "but such a refusal would find them guilty before all world opinion. If they accepted, however, two great prospects would open up—the true road to liberation in Europe and the open road to genuine peace."

TWO BOYS TRY TO SAVE THIRD IN RIVER, ALL DROWN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 14 (UP) — Two small boys attempted to save a friend from the Mississippi river and all three drowned.

Bodies of Lyle Altman, 7 years old, and his brother Eugene, 8, sons of Raymond Altman, and Robert Carroll, 7, son of Mrs. Elaine Carroll, were discovered from the river yesterday about 20 feet from shore in downtown St. Paul. The boys had been missing since Sunday.

Police indicated two of the boys drowned trying to save the other. They said a bank apparently gave way and one of the boys tumbled into the river. They said the other two boys apparently entered the icy water in a vain attempt to rescue their companion.

HERTER SAYS STATES MUST PLAN MORE ACTIVE FUTURE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., No. 14 (AP)—Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts said last night that states must plan a more active future or they may see the Federal Government "assume their responsibilities by default."

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the National Conference on Government, he said he believes the role of the states should become increasingly important.

However, he said, "this growth will be successful only if state level planning on a large and reasonably uniform joint scale comes to be realized as the key to effective action."

ANYWAY, IT WASN'T ARMY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)— Sgt. Henry D. Patterson's "welcome" talk to 20 new arrivals at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here was repeatedly interrupted by a waving arm. Patterson was forced to acknowledge the persistent recruit.

"Sir," shouted the recruit, "I'm supposed to be in the Navy!" Stunned, Patterson checked the roster and found that 18 of the 20 men were prospective sailors. They had boarded the wrong bus at the airport.

TIE-UP CONTINUES IN HUNGARY; TITO ACTION HINTED

Speculation Rises That Yugoslav President May Have to Act to End Stalemate.

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Nov. 14 (AP)— Passive resistance against Russia's puppet Hungarian government continued today throughout the battered nation. Speculation grew that Yugoslavia's President Josip (Tito) Broz may have to intervene to solve the stalemate.

Much of the revolution-wrecked country remained idle in the throes of a virtual general strike. Factories were crippled, workers stayed away from their jobs, transportation was broken down, food was desperately short, and Russian tanks remained on the streets.

Opposition to the Soviet-installed government of Premier Janos Kadar spread even to the Communists' own newspaper, Szabad Nep.

Journalists and printers at the paper's printing shop joined the nation-wide strike and refused to put out today's issue. The newspaper had been the only one printed in Budapest since Russian tanks rolled into the capital Nov. 4 and put the Kadar government in power.

Many middle-of-the-road Hungarian politicians looked to Tito as the only man who might solve the dilemma in which the Kadar government has been rendered impotent by the passive resistance of the rebellious Hungarians and even of diehard Communists.

The Yugoslav ambassador to Budapest went to Belgrade yesterday, while the former Hungarian Communist premier brought to power briefly by the revolt, Imre Nagy, remained in refuge here in the Yugoslav embassy.

Nagy sent word from his refuge that he was not negotiating with Kadar, on Hungary's political future. There were reports that Kadar was seeking the co-operation of Nagy, who was forced out of the premiership by Russian armed might.

(In Belgrade, informed sources expressed belief Tito wishes to steer clear of any involvement in the Hungarian situation. It was believed that Yugoslavia has not decided finally whether to support Kadar, or the nationalists demanding a reinstatement of Nagy as premier.

(The attitude of the Yugoslav Communists was said to be that the situation in Hungary can best be saved by the Hungarian Communists themselves without foreign interference.)

Hungarian journalists, mainly Communist party members, adopted a resolution fully supporting the government Nagy formed Nov. 2 and which the Russians forced out two days later.

The journalists declared that the Nagy government was the "only legal government of Hungary" and they swore to support the Kadar regime "neither with pen nor with words."

They joined other intellectual groups in declaring that the withdrawal of Russian troops is the absolute prerequisite for internal peace in Hungary.

So far there was no sign of any major change in the situation. The Kadar regime sat in impotent isolation in the Parliament building, protected by Russian guns.

There was complete secrecy over the reported visit of a top Soviet delegation to Budapest, possibly headed by Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

RUSSIANS DEPORT HUNGARIANS IN SEALED RAIL CARS

Budapest Radio Makes Admission in Telling Why General Strike Is Continuing.

VIENNA, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Budapest radio said today that Hungarians were being deported to the east in sealed railway cars by Russian troops trying to end the rebellion in Hungary and get the workers back to work.

The radio station, controlled by the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar, made the admission in a broadcast telling why the general strike was continuing.

Reporting on the situation late today in Szolnok county, southeast of Budapest, the radio reported that about 40 per cent of the workers had returned to work and that some rail traffic had started.

"But," the station added, "according to the latest reports prisoners have been transported to the east in locked railway cars and for that reason railwaymen started to strike again."

The station added that various plants had been notified of the deportation of Hungarians and that "workers, therefore, now are leaving their jobs in increasing numbers."

(The United Press quoted a reliable source as saying Hungarian farmers freed more than 500 captured freedom fighters from a Siberia-bound train by blowing up a railroad bridge northeast of Budapest. The informant said the resistance fighters were liberated shortly before the train was to cross into Russia yesterday afternoon.)

Rumors that the Russians were rounding up rebellious youths for deportation have circulated on the Austrian border for several days.

The Vienna newspaper Der Kurier quoted Hungarian refugees as reporting the Russians also have started deporting the wives and children of rebels in order to stamp out the last vestiges of the anti-Communist revolt.

The refugees, who crossed the Austrian border last night, said the deportations began simultaneously four days ago at the towns of Szolnok, Debrecen, Nyiregyhaza and Puespoekladany. In each place hundreds of women and their children were dragged into heavily guarded freight trains which afterward left in an easterly direction, they said.

Attempts of the insurgents to stop these trains broke down in heavy Russian fire, the refugees said. Some of the trains were reported to have left the country for the Soviet Union at the Zahony border checkpoint.

State Department Expresses 'Revulsion' at Deportations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —The State Department said today it has information that Hungarians "are being deported to the Soviet Union." A spokesman expressed "revulsion" at such action by Russia.

Department Press Officer Lincoln White told reporters the deportations are "under urgent consideration" but he rebuffed all efforts to find out what the United States might do about it, if anything.

He said the information that Hungarians are being deported to Russia came from independent sources, not press reports.

Poland's Communist Party Boss Ignores Warnings That It Might Be Wise to Forego Visit.

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW, Nov. 14 (AP) — Communist party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka and three other Polish leaders left by train today for consultations in Moscow, ignoring warnings from some party members that it might be wiser to forego the trip.

Gomulka is said to be seeking a reduction of the number of Soviet troops stationed in Poland. The uprising in Hungary against Russian domination is expected to be a prime argument in his case.

He was accompanied by Premier Cyrankiewicz, Maj. Gen. Alexander Zawadski of the Politburo, Chief Planner Stefan Jedrzchowski and a large group of economic and military advisers.

The party boss, who has taken the lead in shaking off a large measure of Soviet interference in Poland, had received resolutions from a number of Communist party branches warning against the trip.

The pro-nationalist faction had finally won the ouster of Soviet-trained Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky as defense minister and deputy premier.

Better Trade Relations.

The Russians undoubtedly will take advantage of the visit to attempt a closing of the recent breach in Polish-Soviet relations. The Poles hope not only to bring about a reduction in the number of Russian troops in the nation, but to improve trade relations.

The talks are expected to end with a declaration that relations between the two governments and parties will be conducted on a basis of equality and sovereignty.

Informed sources said it was unlikely that Gomulka would demand complete withdrawal of Soviet troops from Poland. Some Russian troops are stationed here under the 1945 Potsdam agreement which authorized Russia to maintain supply line in Poland for its forces in East Germany.

Others are garrisoned in Poland under the 1955 Warsaw Pact, the military alliance linking the Communist states of eastern Europe to the Soviet Union.

On the economic side, talks are expected to cover a reported Russian offer of 1,000,000 tons grain he help Poland survive a current agricultural crisis. The Poles also may ask for payment of their 15 per cent share of World War II reparations from Germany, taken by the Russians but never paid to Poland.

Target of Demonstrations.

Rokossovsky, born in Warsaw but long regarded as the Kremlin's top representative in the Polish Communist leadership, was removed from the Polish Communist Politburo Oct. 21. He was a chief target of demonstrations in the October unrest that resulted in the election of Gomulka as head of Poland's Communist party.

Since being booted from the Politburo, Rokossovsky had officially been "on leave" from his posts as defense minister and deputy premier. His removal had been expected.

Premier Cyrankiewicz announced the resignation at the first televised session of the Polish Parliament. He said Gen. Marian Spychalsky had been named to succeed Rokossovsky.

Spychalsky was arrested in 1950 in a Stalinist purge and gained his freedom early this year. A close associate of Gomulka, he was appointed deputy defense minister Oct. 23.

Also removed was Ednund Pszczolkowski, minister in charge of the security committee which controlled the secret police. Parliament approved a government decree dissolving the committee and placing security under the interior ministry.

Rokossovsky was absent from his usual seat in Parliament when his resignation was announced. There had been rumors he had gone to Moscow last month, but reliable sources insist he has not left Poland.

Spychalsky's first act in his new post was to attend a lavish farewell party last night for Soviet officers displaced from command in the Polish army.

Rokossovsky Said to Be in Command of Soviet Troops.

VIENNA, Nov. 14 (UP)—Russia has concentrated 14 new divisions along the Polish-Soviet border, Western diplomatic sources said here today.

They said the new Russian forces are under the command of ousted Polish Defense Minister Rokossovsky, who is deputy chief of the Warsaw Pact.

Five of the divisions are stationed in the area of Lvov (Lemberg), six at Brest-Litovsk and three near Grodno, the sources said.

Rokossovsky was said to have established his headquarters at Lvov.

Unconfirmed reports said seven to 10 Soviet divisions crossed into Poland from Lithuania in the last week, ostensibly en route to East Germany. Some or all were reported to have remained in Poland. They were reported massed along with the main Soviet troops on the Russian-Polish border.

Another cause of the unrest in Poland was the reported mass deportation of Jews and Poles from former Polish territory taken over by Russia after the last war.

The reports came mainly in letters to friends and relatives which said the deportees were making preparations to go to Central Russia or Siberia.

U. S. ENDS PROBE OF TAX SCANDALS UNDER TRUMAN ADMINISTRATION

Brownell and Moore Agree to Closing Investigation, Olney Says—Judge Has No Comment.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The Justice Department's long investigation of tax scandals in the Truman Administration was at an end today, with no further plans for presentation of evidence to federal grand juries in St. Louis or Omaha, Nebr.

Announcing the decision to terminate the inquiry, Assistant Attorney General Warren Olney III said: "We have gone as far as we can go and do not contemplate anything further at the present time."

The Justice Department, he told reporters yesterday, has obtained "all the evidence that we can get, and we know of no way to get additional evidence."

Olney, head of the department's criminal division, said the decision was concurred in by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. and United States District Judge George H. Moore of St. Louis, who originally pressed for the investigation.

In St. Louis, Judge Moore declined to comment on Olney's statement.

Ends 5 Years of Work.

The action brought to a close five years of work by Justice Department and Internal Revenue Service investigators, federal grand juries and two congressional committees. Many top officials in the Truman Administration were questioned and thousands of pages of testimony were taken.

Begun as a result of disclosures by the Post-Dispatch, the investigation culminated in the conviction of Matthew J. Connelly, appointments secretary to President Truman, and T. Lamar Caudle, former Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Justice Department's tax division, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Justice Department and Internal Revenue Service attorneys and investigators will be withdrawn from St. Louis, except for those needed to wind up the final phases of the Caudle-Connelly case, Olney said.

Offices in the Federal building used by the investigating team will be vacated, and the files accumulated over the years will be sent to appropriate government agencies, he continued. "We have a tremendous number of files out there," Olney said.

The investigation, he declared, "has been carried as far as you can carry an investigation." But he added:

"That does not mean that we have the conviction that we have arrived at the facts in each case."

Referring to the income tax cases which were reviewed and reinvestigated, Olney said the decision to terminate the inquiry "is not a clearance for anybody and neither is it a black mark against them."

'Learned Not to Prophesy.'

Asked if there was a possibility the investigation would ever be resumed, he replied with a smile: "I've learned never to prophesy."

Olney said he and Wyllys S. Newcomb, who directed the St. Louis phase of the tax-fixing inquiry, conferred with Judge Moore in St. Louis on Oct. 31 and reviewed the present status of the investigation in detail.

In the conversation, which lasted more than four hours, "we went over everything" with the judge, Olney said: "We gave him the results of all the investigative work and discussed the unfinished inquiries.

"We told him we felt every useful lead for investigation had been run out and that we did not have anything more that could be profitably investigated, either by investigators or a grand jury."

Olney said he asked Judge Moore if he had any additional matters warranting investigation or presentation to a grand jury and "he told us he had no suggestions to make in that regard."

"The judge," Olney went on, "told us he was satisfied that the investigation had been conducted as energetically and completely as possible, and he agreed that nothing was to be gained by going further at this time."

"After the trial of Caudle and Connelly ended last June, Newcomb and other Justice Department attorneys 'reviewed everything that had been done' on the other cases involved in the investigation, Olney said.

The review continued after the federal grand jury ended its term in July. All the cases were re-evaluated and reinvestigated and it was found that in none of them did the evidence justify continued work, Olney added.

In response to a question, he said there was no instance in which obstruction of justice or time delays were factors in deciding against reopening the cases.

At Least 19 Cases.

Olney said at least 19 tax cases "and possibly double that number" were involved in the investigation. He declined to list them and said he did not think some of them had ever been made public.

The income tax case of Irving Sachs of St. Louis and Shu-Stiles, Inc., a wholesale shoe firm which Sachs headed, "obviously was one of the cases," Olney said.

It was this case that was involved in the Caudle-Connelly trial. Sachs and Ellis N. Slack, suspended chief of the appellate section of the Justice Department's tax division, were named as co-conspirators but not defendants.

Included in the investigation, Olney said, were income tax cases involving Fred M. Saigh of St. Louis, former owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, and the late Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, former Postmaster General.

Olney declined to say, however, which of the several Saigh cases was actively a part of the tax-fixing investigation, or if all of them were. Saigh served six months of a 15-month prison sentence in 1953 for income tax evasion.

In letters to Judge Moore and the late Judge Rubey M. Hulen last April 2, Attorney General Brownell asked that the grand jury investigation of other tax-fixing cases be suspended until after the Caudle-Connelly trial was concluded.

Grand Jury's Complaint.

This was Brownell's reply to the grand jury's complaint, disclosed by the Post-Dispatch, that the inquiry had been stalled because the Justice Department had refused to seek indictments against other high officials of the Truman Administration.

Brownell said at that time that he fully intended to press the investigation "to a conclusion" and to investigate all allegations of delays and obstruction of justice in handling income tax cases.

But the Attorney General said the government attorneys handling the investigation would also have to prepare and present the case against Caudle and Connelly. He asked, therefore, that the grand jury suspend its work until the trial was over.

Olney denied a charge made by Slack, the suspended justice Department official who is seeking reinstatement, to the effect that Newcomb threatened to prosecute Slack in a new criminal case unless Slack admitted conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Shu-Stiles case.

Olney said he had made a "careful inquiry" into Newcomb's actions. He declared: "Mr. Slack is not correct in what he says about Mr. Newcomb."

At the height of the tax-fixing investigation, there were "35 to 40" investigators and attorneys from the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Service in St. Louis, Olney said.

The investigation centered around reports, disclosed by the Post-Dispatch in a series of stories beginning in 1951, that Government officials had sought to obtain favorable treatment for defendants in income tax cases and had attempted to hamper the grand jury in its inquiry.

The frightened youngster, who didn't know how to dial, had reached the insurance firm while trying to phone his mother, Mrs. Norvis Smith Sr., a checker at a laundry.

In three fast calls the operators located Mrs. Smith and then dispatched an ambulance. The Smiths are Negroes.

Davis was suspended for a year after the pay-off charge was brought against him, and the board decided he should not be paid for the time when he was under suspension.

In his suit today he said the decision was made without any evidence to show him guilty of inefficiency, was unconstitutional and violated the Administrative Procedure and Review Act.

S.P. ROSENBLOOM INDICTED ON TAX EVASION CHARGE

Accused of Filing False Returns for Self and Partners in Monument Firm.

Solomon P. Rosenbloom, a partner in the Rosenbloom Monument Co., 7501 Olive Street road, was charged with filing false income tax returns for himself, his four partners and the company in an indictment returned today by the federal grand jury.

The indictment contained five counts charging Rosenbloom with filing false returns for himself, his wife, his brother Louis and Louis's wife for the years 1950 and 1951.

Wayne H. Bigler, assistant United States attorney, who presented the case to the jury, said Rosenbloom, in a joint return with his wife, showed an income for 1950 of $6114 and paid a tax of $759 when in fact their income was $10,544 and the tax should have been $1672.

In a similar return in 1951, Bigler said, Rosenbloom listed the joint income of himself and his wife at $6331 and paid a tax of $936. Actually the prosecutor said, their income was $11,301, on which a tax of $2117 should have been paid.

Another count in the indictment charges that in 1950 he listed the partnership's income at $25,543 when it actually was $49,294, and in 1951 he showed the partnership's income at $26,750 when it actually was $53,082.

In a joint return he filed for his brother and sister-in-law in 1950, Rosenbloom placed their income at $5885 when in fact it was $10,289, and the following year, Bigler said, he filed another return for the pair showing an income of $7174 when in fact it was $12,212.

Bigler said the partners, including Louis's son, Sidney, and Solomon's sons, Samuel and Leon, took $10,000 each out of the business for those two years and partly covered up the $50,000 by including in their books a $25,000 expense item for the purchase of monument stone. The government contended this was an erroneous account. Civil action has been started, Bigler said, to collect taxes on the $50,000 for each of the two years.

Hastings P. Cox, 114 Manlyn drive, Kirkwood, was charged with income tax evasion on two counts of an indictment returned today by the grand jury.

The true bill stated that in 1950, Cox reported only $439 net income, with no tax; when actually his income was $14,674 on which a tax of $3892 was due. In 1951, the indictment charged, Cox reported $3213 net income and paid $410 in taxes. His net income was $6505, on which a tax of $1270 was due, it was stated. The income, officials said, was from a tavern at Grand boulevard and Dodier street and "other sources."

EISENHOWER SEES VICTORY AS ORDER TO PUSH POLICIES

President Says He Will Work Incessantly for His Concept of the 'New Republicanism.'

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—President Eisenhower said today that he regards his victory at the polls Nov. 6 as a mandate from the people to keep pushing the domestic policies and programs which he advocated in his first term.

The President was asked at his news conference how he planned to advance the cause of what he has described as the "new Republicanism" in view of the election of a Democratic-controlled Congress and recalcitrants within Republican branks.

He replied that in the four years ahead he intended to work industriously and incessantly for his concept of the new G.O.P. and that he would have to convince any opposition groups within his party that some change in what the public thinks about the Republican party is necessary.

The President referred to these recalcitrants as an unspecified group, but there was little doubt that he had in mind such Republican Senators as Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, William E. Jenner of Indiana and George W. Malone of Nevada, who have been in the vanguard of Eisenhower opposition on the Republican side of the aisle.

View on Leadership.

A reporter noted that there has been criticism of the President for his alleged failure to exercise personal leadership in his first term.

The President replied that leadership was a word that had different meanings for different people. As for himself, he said he was not the type who likes to pound the desk, jut his jaw and try to appear to be bossing things.

He said he would rather use persuasion on a man, adding that if he used persuasion the man would stick with him, but if he scared him he would stick just so long as he stayed scared.

The President was asked how he interpreted the election of a Democratic-controlled Congress in view of his opinion that the voting was an indorsement of modern Republicanism. He replied that the United States had not yet become convinced that modern Republicanism is with us and is going to be the influence that guides the Republican party from now on.

On Democratic Congress.

The President was reminded of statements he made in the 1954 congressional campaign that failure to elect a Republican Congress would mean a "cold war" between the executive branch and Democrats on Capitol Hill. The reporter noted that in this year's campaign the President had not repeated these statements and asked if this meant that the President had foreseen the election of a Democratic Congress.

The President said no he hadn't foreseen such a result but added that the congressional races looked close from the start. He went on to say, however, what he has said many times, that he believes it is much easier to fix the responsibility for governmental actions when Congress and the executive branch are controlled by members of the same party. He said he had expected that a President elected by such a margin as he was would carry a Republican majority into the House, at least.

Discusses Election.

In discussing his interpretation of the election result as a mandate to go ahead with the program he has charted, the President said that to regard it otherwise would be attributing to himself a personal magnetism which would make him the most egotistical man in the world.

He defined new Republicanism as a political philosophy that recognizes the responsibility of the central government to take the leadership in seeing to it that productivity is so distributed that no one suffers from privation or disaster through any fault not his own.

When the question of inflation was raised, the President said he believed the increase in consumer prices ought to be checked and added that a sound dollar must be maintained if the value of pensions and other benefits provided for elderly persons is to be preserved.

The President was asked if he intended to intervene with Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, a Democrat, who supported Mr. Eisenhower both in 1952 and 1956, to try to appoint a Republican to succeed Senator Price Daniel, a Democrat, scheduled to leave the Senate Jan. 15 to succeed Shivers as Governor. Mr. Eisenhower said jokingly that he had no intention of becoming involved in the internal affairs of Texas, but that if he had been asked if he wanted a Republican Senator from Texas the answer would be yes.

The President's eyes lighted up when a reporter inquired whether he was planning to take a vacation. The Chief executive, confronted with an international crisis arising near the end of a long, hard campaign, said he certainly would like to have a vacation but that he will not be able to until the situation aboard clears up somewhat. He indicated that it will be quite a while before he will be free to get away from Washington.

FISHER BODY PLANT SHUT BY STRIKE OF 3000

Workers Charge 'Overloaded Operations' in Production of New-Model Cars.

Production at the Fisher Body plant was halted today by a wildcat strike of 3000 union automobile workers in protest against alleged "overloaded operations" in the production of new-model cars.

Interruption of the passenger body lines halted production of passenger automobiles at the neighboring Chevrolet plant, Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue, a company spokesman said. Truck and sport car line continued operating in the Chevrolet plant, which has 2000 production workers on two shifts, it was reported.

The walkout began when the night shifts at Fisher Body left the plant for the supper break at 8:50 p.m. Pickets appeared at the gates, and the men failed to complete their shift, which ends at midnight.

The pickets were withdrawn during the morning, after arrangements were made for a meeting with management.

Raymond C. George, secretary of Local 25, United Automobile Workers, said the walkout was unauthorized. "It was a wildcat strike, and we are asking the men to report for the afternoon shift," George told reporters.

George described the cause of the walkout as "work problems and overloaded operations." "We did not get all the story but it appears the trouble is based on too heavy a work schedule," the secretary said.

Frank E. Simpson, director of industrial relations at Fisher Body, said the company was not advised of the specific grievances causing the walkout.

"Grievances are pending all the time," Simpson remarked. "There is a regular procedure for handling them, as well as prescribed procedure for going on strike. The latter certainly were not complied with."

Checks in Union Electric Inquiry

ported by Jenner after a conference.

Rendleman said Henry F. Driemeyer, East St. Louis counsel for Union Electric, participated with Williamson in negotiations with Hodge and Browning.

Those attending today's inquiry in a Union Electric office included McAfee, Williamson, Driemeyer; A. H. Schlettler, vice president and comptroller, and John A. Woodbridge, vice president and general counsel of the company.

Cites Contradictions.

Rendleman pointed out two contradictions between what Williamson and Driemeyer had told him and what Jenner had been told by Browning.

One of these, he said, was in the circumstances of the initial payment on April 21. The two Union Electric officers said Hodge was not present at the meeting and was not to share in the fee or do any of the work.

The second, Rendleman said, was over the work to be done by Browning. Browning had told Jenner he was to do the legal work and appear before legislative committees while Hodge was to do the lobbying.

"This was obviously a lobbying fee and not a legal fee," Rendleman observed.

At this point, McAfee remarked that all the legal work on the bill had been done.

Rendleman said he planned to talk to Jenner and obtain Browning's statement from him. Then he said they would determine the contradictions revealed in the statements of Williamson and Driemeyer on the matter in controversy, attempt to clarify them and make a full report to the budgetary commission.

"I never felt we were obligated to Hodge in any way and when Hodge asked for more insurance business from us for having supported the bill, we turned him down," McAfee said.

Asked whether he had ever been advised that ... aided in the passage of the bill, McAfee said: "Williamson and Driemeyer told us it was not discernible but they did not question Hodge's statement of support when he asked for the additional business."

Says Utility Loses Out.

McAfee, defending the Union Electric bill, said that from a tax standpoint U.E. is losing by consolidation of the Illinois and Missouri companies. When there were two companies, he said, the utility was entitled to deduct all bond interest on its Missouri state income tax return.

But in the case of a company doing business in more than one state, he said, the Missouri Revenue Department has a formula for apportioning deductible interest. U.E. Statisticians have calculated that the company will pay more than $50,000 additional in Missouri income taxes. The tax savings in Illinois is about $36,000 annually.

U.E. wanted the change, McAfee said, because it allows the company to better its financing transactions.

"Bond buyers will give best consideration to bonds secured by a mortgage on property," he said. "When there are two companies U.E. could give mortgages on Missouri property but could only pledge stock of the Illinois affiliate. Stock is not as good a security to bond buyers as on property, obviously."

See 'Any Official . . .'

McAfee said he was aware Williamson had seen Hodge in connection with the 1953 bill, which failed to pass the Legislature. The company had suggested to Williamson that he see "any Illinois public official who would listen to him" to plead for the legislation, he said.

The utility president warmly praised Driemeyer, who is employed by the company on a fee basis. He said Williamson took the lead in causing Hodge to enter the lobbying picture.

McAfee said Union Electric never saw any evidence that Hodge actually lobbied for the bill. A reporter pointed out that legislators interviewed by the Post-Dispatch said they could not recall that either Hodge or Browning worked for the measure.

McAfee nodded and said: "It looks from what has been published that we were taken for a ride on the thing."

McAfee earlier told the Post-Dispatch he was convinced his company did not hire Hodge to lobby for it.

"Certain" of Opinion.

When asked whether in view of Browning's statement he was still of the opinion that Hodge had not been employed by Union Electric, McAfee said: "I certainly am of that opinion."

As to who first suggested Browning as a good man for the job, McAfee said it was his recollection that it was Williamson who made the suggestion.

The company president said Williamson and Driemeyer recommended Browning to Dudley Sanford, a company executive vice president.

"I was attending a meeting in Arizona and Sanford later joined me there and we discussed the recommendation," McAfee said.

"I called Driemeyer about Browning by telephone. I had never head of him. We also discussed the fee. We had a good talk.

"It was not usual for us to employ a legislative reprsentative and I was a little reluctant to do so at this time, but Driemeyer told me the 1955 session was one of the most difficult sessions of the Legislature and if we wanted to get the bill out of committees and onto the floor for a vote we would have to get osmeone behind it. I agreed to the employment of Browning then.

"Woodbridge afterwards told me that Williamson and Driemeyer took the first check for the legal fee to Springfield (Ill.) and delivered it to Browning," McAfee said. This was in accord with Browning's version given to Jenner.

Asked how the three remaining checks representing the $27,500 balance of the $35,000 fee were paid, McAfee said: "Probably 99 and a fraction per cent of our checks go out by mail but I seem to recall Woodbridge saying the three checks were given to Williamson for delivery."

He added that Williamson, who has been attending a convention in Los Angeles, had been summoned back to St. Louis to explain his part in the matter.

Woodbridge Backs McAfee.

McAfee's belief that Hodge was not employed by Union Electric was echoed by Woodbridge who told the Post-Dispatch: "I can't believe that we ever hired Hodge to work for this bill."

"Driemeyer told me the meeting in Springfield was for the purpose of posting Browning on the details of the bill and he was given a check for $7500 to hand to Browning and he did so," Woodbridge said. "I want to make it very clear that what we did, we did in good faith."

He went on to explain that while the bill was not considered a controversial measure, it had been defeated in 1953 because it did not contain an amendment preserving certain capital stock tax benefits to an East Side school district in which the Illinois affiliate of Union Electric maintained its headquarters.

"Therefore, because the bill was coming up again, already tagged with a previous defeat, and because the Legislature last year was badly divided over a number of controversies, we were afraid that without someone to handle it it might get sidetracked. Browning was hired for that purpose."

As to why the meeting between the Union Electric representatives and Browning was held in the offices of Hodge, Woodbridge said he could only speculate. He said he assumed Browning, a close friend of Hodge, had asked for the use of the State Auditor's office because he, Browning, did not have a Springfield office.

This was confirmed by Driemeyer who told the Post-Dispatch the place for the meeting was chosen by Browning who had no Springfield office.

Asked why Browning had not suggested some other place, Driemeyer said: "I'm not a mind reader nor do I have a crystal ball."

Driemeyer said he could not remember whether Hodge was present at the meeting but he denied there was any understanding that Hodge was to share in the fee.

"Any such insinuation is erroneous," he said.

The bill, which was passed in 1955 with few dissenting votes, was an amendment to the State Public Utility Act. Its effect was to permit a public utility to do business in Illinois without having to incorporate an affiliate in that state.

McAfee and other officials have pointed out that railroad, telephone and telegraph companies were not restricted in this way under the pre-existing law which thus worked a discrimination against power and gas companies.

Although Union Electric was able, through dissolution of its Illinois affiliate, to operate its Illinois properties as part of its main system and thus save a $36,000 annual franchise tax in Illinois, McAfee said he had not been aware of this saving at the time.

"The tax saving was not nearly as important to us as the simplification of our corporate structure and the elimination of duplication in our accounting procedures," he said.

Browning, a former state's attorney for Williamson county in southern Illinois, is a member of a Loop law firm in Chicago—Browning and Parkin. He was the unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Illinois attorney general in 1952, being defeated in the primary by Latham Castle, who won re-election to that post in this month's general election.

A close friend of Hodge, he was employed by him in 1953 to assist in the closing and rehabilitation of three banks in Chicago. One of these was the First State Bank of Elmwood Park. In the process of organizing a new bank, the Bank of Elmwood Park, Browning acquired 3500 shares of stock in the new bank for Hodge but the stock was placed in the name of Paul Fleming, an employe of Browning.

As Williamson county state's attorney, Browning prosecuted some members of the notorious Charlie Birger gang of southern Illinois for the murder of State Patrolman Leroy Price and his wife.

Browning also was allowed a $15,000 fee in the widely-publicized will contest over the estate of Montgomery Ward Thorne, Chicago heir to a large fortune, but he has said the fee has not been paid.

Browning replied to rumors that he had gone to Europe to avoid testifying before the Senate Banking Committee in Chicago last month by saying the committee staff had questioned him for five hours last Aug. 6 and that before leaving on Aug. 23 he had advised Robert A. Wallace, staff director, who made no objection to the trip.

SEC TO INQUIRE IN CLAIM UTILITY EMPLOYED HODGE

subsidiary, Union Electric Power Co. of Illinois, which had its corporate headquarters in Cahokia. This saved Union Electric $36,000 a year in franchise taxes and simplified its corporate operation.

All the $35,000 payment for lobbying went into a secret "brown envelope" account kept for Hodge by Edward A. Hintz, president of Southmoor Bank & Trust Co., Chicago. Hodge later went to prison for looting his office of $1,400,000 in state funds and Hintz was imprisoned as a conspirator.

Stoddart said he recommended that the SEC investigation include all phases of the Union Electric payments.

"The purpose of the law is to protect stockholders from the use of corporate funds for political purposes, thus decreasing their equity in the company," Stoddart said.

"I feel that the facts, as I have them now, indicate a section of the Public Utility Holding Act forbidding political contributions may have been violated. The penalty upon conviction of this section is a $10,000 fine and two years in prison."

Stoddart then read from Section 79 of the United States Code, which defines the word "contribution" as meaning "any gift, subscription, loan, advance or deposit of money, or anything of value, and includes any contract, agreement or promise, whether or not legally enforceable."

Information developed by the SEC would be included in a report which would be made back to him, Stoddart said. If the evidence should warrant prosecution, he said, he would then present the case to a federal grand jury.

Stoddart recalled that Union Electric Co. was convicted in 1940 of violating the same section of the act. He said the utility was convicted of developing a "slush fund" of $500,000 to $600,000 annually through kickbacks from attorneys in its employ. The sums were used to "pay off every jackleg politician," he added. Three Union Electric officers went to prison in the 1940 case.

A spokesman for the SEC in Washington, who said the Union Electric matter had been under study before yesterday's disclosures, differed with Stoddart as to which sections of the Public Utility Holding Act may have been violated.

Expressing doubt that the section prohibiting contributions to candidates for political office had been violated, the spokesman said he believed two SEC regulations under the holding act may apply. These apply regardless of what the money was paid for, he said.

Fiji Islands Resemble Patches Of Paradise, but All Is Not Well

British Protectors Face Thorny Problem in Vast Growth of Indian Population, Which Now Outnumbers Natives.

By WILLIAM K. ZINSSER
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

SUVA, Fiji, Nov. 14—It is popular to think of the South Sea islands as little patches of paradise scattered across the blue Pacific, where men can idle away their days on tropical beaches while honey-colored girls fan them with palm fronds.

Certainly there is much in Fiji to fit this image. The islands of this British colony are unusually beautiful. They have graceful mountains and lush green valleys. They have miles of breath-taking white beaches, fringed by palm trees that sway slightly in the trade winds and toss down an occasional cocoanut.

Above all, there are the Fijians themselves. It would be hard to find a more engaging people. Their first instinct is to smile. It is a pleasure to talk with these bushy-haired men and women or to drive about the country, watching their responsive faces and their pure enjoyment of life.

But ironically, all is not well in Fiji. Here the British face one of the thorniest problems in the empire today. And the tragic thing is that it has no fair solution. The pot won't boil over this week or next, but there are many old settlers who feel that it will blow sky high in the next decade. It has been bubbling since the turn of the century, and now the simple laws of arithmetic are catching up with the British.

Began in 1874.

It all began in 1874 when Great Britain annexed the islands at the request of Fiji's King Thakombau, who felt that the British could end the tribal strife that was dividing his people.

Queen Victoria promised to protect the Fijians' land and guard their interests, and the British have made a sincere attempt to do this in their 82 years here. But they also wanted to develop Fiji's resources, and they started a sugar industry that has grown to immense proportions.

The Fijians did not want to work in the white man's cane fields. They felt, understandably, that they had a nicer way of making ends meet. They know how to live off their own land.

So the British began importing sugar workers from India. The plan was to repatriate them later, but this was not done, and in 1917 the indenture system was abolished. Most of the Indians chose to stay in Fiji, and thousands more streamed in voluntarily to work in the fields.

This is the mistake that has come back to haunt the British today. The Indians have multiplied far more rapidly than the Fijians, and they now outnumber the Fijians. They still work the sugar fields, but they have also taken over most of the small businesses.

Dominate Capital.

Here in Suva, the capital, a colorful city of 35,000, the Indians own almost all the small shops. They drive the taxis and run the movie theaters; they are the clerks in banks and shipping offices. On the docks you can see them checking off the bales which barefooted Fijian men unload from the ships that clog Suva's harbor.

Obviously, at this rate of birth, the Idians will soon outnumber the Fijians by a huge margin. The future clearly belongs to them. They are industrious and ambitious, and they are demanding a voice in Fijian affairs. (They now have a small representation in the legislature.)

But the land—90 per cent of it—belongs to the Fijians. They don't use it all; quite a bit is idle. Still, the British are pledged to preserve the Fijians' land, and they mean to keep the pledge. Meanwhile, the Indians are clamoring for land, too, and since they are British subjects, their cause is hard to ignore.

Sentiment, of course, is with the Fijians. It is no secret that government officials and the white population much prefer these laughing people to the solemn Indians. White business men also resent the fact that the Indians are now their competitors in many fields of trade.

This is the painful dilemma that the British have inherited from their colonial grandfathers. It is a moral issue in which both sides have just claims. Pessimists say that it will be solved by violence, that there will be riots and strikes. Extremists say that the British will be booted out completely. That would be the final disaster for the Fijians; the Indians would quickly engulf them.

Present Policy.

Sir Ronald Garvey, governor of the colony, has no patience with the talk of violence. "In a multi-racial society," he said in an interview, "our policy is to establish a system in which both the Fijians and Indians can understand each other's needs and live together harmoniously."

It was suggested to Sir Ronald that this is easier said than done, since the two races have nothing in common. They never intermarry, they attend separate schools, and their religious and cultural backgrounds are widely different.

Sir Ronald explained that the crown is launching certain projects to soothe the feelings and create a kind of perpetual balance between the two races.

One is to set aside large portions of land as pure Fijian reserves, where they can continue their happy community life. The remainder would be leased by the Fijians to anyone who wants it. This would open more land to the Indians, develop idle country, and profit the Fijians financially.

Another plan is to train the Fijians in certain "Western" skills so that they can keep pace with the Indians on an economic level. The Fijians are quite happy with their own skills—many don't particularly want to learn the white man's industrial techniques—but, as Sir Ronald and the other British officials here say, "It's good for them; they've got to learn modern trades or they'll perish." One can only hope that the cure won't kill them.

HUNGARY INVASION MAY HAVE AVERTED WAR, PEIPING SAYS

HONG KONG, Nov. 14 (AP)—Red China's rulers today told the Chinese people the Soviet Union possibly prevented World War III by sending troops into Hungary to crush the revolt there.

The Peiping Peoples' Daily, official voice of China's Communist party central committee, made the statement in a blistering attack on the United Nations for recommending withdrawal of Soviet forces from Hungary.

It said: "It is not difficult for any cool-headed person with political understanding to see that if Hungary had not requested the assistance of the Soviet troops and if they had not assisted, Hungary today could only become a fascist state, an imperialist outpost for the overthrowing of various other east European peoples' democracies and engineering a new world war."

Israel Tightens Civil Defense As Mideast Crisis Worsens

Brownout Rules Enforced and Other Preparations Made for Possible Air Attacks.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TEL AVIV, Israel, Nov. 14—Tightened brownout restrictions today added to the tension and anxiety that has developed here in the last few days.

Police are canvassing the city, ordering shopkeepers to shield bright lights in their show windows and paste crisscross strips of gummed paper on the glass to prevent splintering in the event of a bombing attack.

Streetlights that went on for a few days after Israel's conquest of the Sinai peninsula now are off again. Pedestrians must find their way around at night by using flashlights or else by waiting for the dimmed lights of passing automobiles.

Office workers have pulled down some of the desk blotters that were glued to windows during the week-long Sinai campaign, but the regulation remains that no light may show that cannot be turned off instantly if an alert should be sounded.

Ben-Gurion Signaled Change.

A change in mood began last Friday when Prime Minister Ben-Gurion reversed himself and announced that Israel would withdraw from the Sinai peninsula without waiting for the long sought stable peace with Egypt based on direct negotiations between the two countries.

Ben-Gurion's statement, made in a radio address to his people, was generally taken as an unconditional agreement to withdraw, although it was in fact conditional. He said Israel would pull back "upon the conclusion of satisfactory arrangements with the United Nations in connection with this international force entering the Suez canal area."

With new pressure being brought by the United States and Britain to persuade Israel to withdraw also from the Gaza strip, people see a possibility they may have to give up even that prize. The narrow coastal zone, which Egypt carved out of Palestine in the Arab-Israeli war of 1948, is regarded here as useful to Egypt only as a forward base to attack Israel.

Victory Reduced.

Now that a general withdrawal is in prospect, many Israelis see their brilliant desert victory over an important part of the Egyptian army being reduced in importance to a large scale retaliatory raid.

When the battle for Sinai was on, many thought a lightning Israeli attack on Jordan was sure to come next. But Russian threats, prompt action by the United Nations and British second thoughts have made any Jordan attack seem out of the question, even though Arab raids from Jordan would provide as much justification as there was for the invasion of Egyptian territory.

An Israeli business man, asked whether he thought a new outbreak should be expected, said: "Who would start it but Israel? And Israel is in no position to start new fighting."

Asked to appraise the Sinai invasion, he said:

"With the kind of partners we had, I think it worked out to the maximum. We showed Egypt that its army is not strong enough to fight us. We showed Jordan and Syria that they cannot rely on Egypt as an ally. And we broke up the military alliance of Egypt, Jordan and Syria."

LONDE FREE ON $500 BOND AFTER FIGHT WITH POLICE

Isadore Londe, notorious gangster, was at liberty on $500 bond today on a charge of resisting arrest as a result of a fight with police yesterday in which he suffered jaw and rib injuries.

Londe was released from Homer G. Phillips Hospital last night. He was taken there by Detective Capt. John Doherty, head of the hoodlum squad, and Detective Robert Richters, who wanted to question him about recent robberies.

The officers said the hoodlum started a fight with Richters on the steps of the Page boulevard police station, tore the detective's shirt and threatened to kill him and his family. Doherty, a husky former Marine, went to Richters's assistance. Londe was hurt when he and Richters tumbled down the concrete steps of the police station.

ROBERT N. ARTHUR ELECTED HEAD OF INSTITUTE FOR DEAF

Robert N. Arthur, a vice president of Mercantile Trust Co., was elected yesterday as president of the Central Institute for the Deaf, succeeding the late Edwin B. Meissner.

Orrin S. Wightman Jr. was chosen vice president of the organization to replace Arthur in that post. All other officers were re-elected.

New board members elected were Mrs. Sidney R. Baer, Mrs. John G. Burton, F. Wendell Huntington, Peter H. Husch and Edwin B. Meissner Jr.

Simple directions for making the tests are inclosed. Strips may be obtained from co-operating drug stores or from the association's office at 3839 Lindell boulevard. The strips will be mailed upon request.

Dr. Henry E. Oppenheimer, chairman of Diabetes Week here, said he expects more than 1,000,000 testing strips to be distributed in the current drive to detect unknown diabetics.

4 ASIAN CHIEFS URGE RUSSIA TO LEAVE HUNGARY

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14 (AP)—The prime ministers of India, Burma, Indonesia and Ceylon called in a joint communique today for the speedy withdrawal of Soviet forces from Hungary.

They also voiced "strong disapproval and distress at the aggression by the great powers against weaker countries" in the Middle East.

The communique was issued after a three-day conference convened at the suggestion of Indonesia to consider Israeli's attack on Egypt and British-French operations in the Suez Canal Zone. The final text, however, by mentioning "the great powers" could be taken to apply to Russia as well.

Regrets Over Hungary.

Reminding the world that these South Asian prime ministers represent 475,000,000 persons, the communique said of Hungary:

"They regret that Soviet forces, which had been withdrawn in accordance with the policy laid down in the statement issued by the government of the Soviet Union on Oct. 30, were reintroduced into Budapest a few days later. The prime ministers consider it the inalienable right of every country to shape for itself its own destiny, free from all external pressures.

"They are of the opinion that the Soviet forces should be withdrawn from Hungary speedily, and that the Hungarian people should be left free to decide their own future and form of government they will have without intervention from any quarter.

Hope for Changes.

"The prime ministers hope that after the terrible strife through which Hungary has passed, necessary changes will be brought about peacefully and in accordance with the wishes of the people."

In addition to Nehru, the prime ministers were Indonesia's Ali Sastroamidjojo, Burma's U Ba Swe, and Ceylon's Solomon Bandaranaike.

The communique was issued after the three visiting prime ministers had witnessed a celebration of Nehru's sixty-seventh birthday at the national stadium. Smiling and waving, Nehru circled the stadium in a flower-decked jeep and received the cheers of 100,000 school children. The children showered him with garlands and rose petals and shouted "long live Chacha (uncle) Nehru."

At the time of his birthday, Nehru's foreign policy has come under more fire than at any time since India became free.

India Under Criticism.

Newspapers, some Government officials in private comment and informed private citizens have widely attacked India's vote in the United Nations against a proposal which included withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary. The critics said India's vote made it appear India was on the Communist side. India alone voted with the Communist bloc on the U.N. resolution.

Nehru met criticism of India's position in Parliament today with a promise to issue a foreign policy statement Friday.

Opposition members of Parliament charged the Government had caused the situation in the Hungarian rebellion to deteriorate by not taking a strong position against the Soviet military moves. They contrasted it with the firm position India took against the British, French and Israeli action in Egypt.

Nehru cut off an adjournment motion with his promise of a policy statement and "an early debate" on foreign affairs.

WARNS OF DECAY IN PUBLIC MORALITY, CITES HODGE

Deposed Illinois Auditor Orville E. Hodge's theft of $1,400,000 from his state was used last night by a college president as an example to disprove the theory that an education in itself guarantees solid citizenship.

Pointing out that education is only a tool which must have direction and quality, L. Vernon Caine, president of Illinois College at Jacksonville, asserted that while an uneducated person may steal a ride on a bus, "an educated one may steal the bus line."

Caine, addressing the Collinsville Women's club's annual "Guest Night" at Collinsville High School, said America is in mortal danger of decaying from within.

"Civilization cannot be saved by good plumbing, television and automobiles," he said. "It's what we do in the homes, churches and schools that counts."

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO LESTER E. HEITGRAS

Lester E. Heitgras, traffic manager for Kimel Lines Inc., died of a heart attack yesterday shortly after starting his automobile in the 200 block of North Fifth street, East St. Louis, police reported.

Police said Heitgras, 57 years old, and Davis C. Nagy Jr., traffic manager for Forbes Tea and Coffee Co., had just finished lunch at an East Side restaurant and were returning to the machine when Heitgras complained of a chest pain.

Nagy said Heitgras, who lived at 5432 Eichelberger street, was pulling away from the curb when he was stricken.

HAMMARSKJOLD ORDERS U.N. UNITS TO GO TO EGYPT

subject of the U.N. resolutions calling for the withdrawal of "aggressive Anglo-French-Israeli forces" from Egypt.

The Responsibilities of the U.N. Command also was discussed, the statement set forth, concluding: "The director confirmed that agreement has been reached this afternoon concerning all points of detail previously demanded by Egypt."

Before making public his decision, Hammarskjold met with the advisory committee established by the General Assembly to assist him in outlining the functions of the U.N. force. Members of the committee include representatives of Canada, Brazil, Ceylon, Colombia, India, Norway and Pakistan.

Reports on Talks.

The Secretary General gave the committee a full report on his negotiations with Egypt concerning implementation of the U.N. Assembly's decision on the emergency force, the Hammarskjold spokesman related.

Under Secretary Ralph Bunche, who won the Nobel prize for his earlier efforts to establish Arab-Israeli peace, reported on the progress made in the military arrangements.

"Immediately following his meeting with the advisory committee, the Secretary General cabled instruction to the commander of the U.N. emergency force at Capodichino, Naples, to start moving the first units of the emergency force into Egypt," the spokesman said.

Hammarskjold previously declared his intention of flying to Egypt with one of the first units.

Hammarskjold's departure for Egypt planned for yesterday, was delayed 24 hours because he considered it necessary to give personal attention to a communication from Hungary dealing with relief problems there.

Hammarskjold offered yesterday to go to Hungary to organize relief of the victims of Russia's action in crushing the anti-Communist revolt there.

Permission has not yet been granted, it was announced. Hammarskjold met during the day with Imre Horvath, Hungarian foreign minister here for the U.N. General Assembly meetings.

New Message to Hungary.

Meanwhile, the Secretary General sent a new communication to Budapest, asking the Hungarian Government to give second thought to its flat refusal to let U.N. observers enter that country under the recent resolution of the General Assembly calling for an investigation of Russian oppression.

"I would invite the Government of Hungary to reconsider this judgment in the light of the opposite view, so widely expressed by member governments in the General Assembly and reflected in the vote (on the American resolution) and, as a member of the United Nations, to co-operate with the great majority in the clarification of a situation which has given rise to such concern in the General Assembly." The communication from Hammarskjold said.

A U.N. spokesman said that as soon as a reply from Hungary has been received, "the reply will be transmitted to the Secretary General wherever he may be . . . , so as to enable him to go to Budapest on his return journey from Cairo if there is agreement on such a visit at this time."

Through a spokesman, Hammarskjold issued two statements to clarify the rapidly shifting situation yesterday.

The first said:

"The Secretary General has just concluded a talk with Imre Horvath, foreign minister of Hungary. He counts on having a further talk with Mr. Horvath before lunch tomorrow. If circumstances permit, the Secretary General intends to proceed tomorrow afternoon on his trip."

In the second, issued last night, he declared:

"The Secretary General confirms that, in the course of his conversation with Mr. Horvath, he offered to go personally to Budapest during his forthcoming journey, in order to establish the basis for the U.N. humanitarian assistance to Hungary in accordance with the General Assembly resolutions."

Hungary Put on Agenda.

The General Assembly overrode Soviet objections 62-to-9 last night and agreed to debate the Hungarian question. The delegates also voted to take up the issue directly, without first clearing it through the political committee.

United States Deputy Delegate James J. Wadsworth said the United States believed the Assembly had not only the right but the duty to handle the Hungarian issue.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov and Horvath repeated the Communist assertion that Hungary's situation was strictly an internal affair and none of the U.N.'s business.

India's V. K. Krishna Menon agreed the Hungarian question should be on the agenda, but he declared it should be sent to a committee for action instead of going directly into the Assembly.

Mideast to Be Discussed.

Discussion of Middle East conflicts and the remedies, based on resolutions establishing the U.N. force calling on the withdrawal of Israeli, British and French soldiers from Egyptian soil, was placed on the Assembly agenda without debate or dissenting vote in the 79-nation world organization.

The steering committee today was to resume consideration of the provisional assembly agenda which included the application for U.N. membership submitted perennially by Communist China, this year with backing by India. Previously the Soviet Union ha taken the initiative in demanding the seat for the Peiping Government now occupied by Nationalist China.

U.S. NEGOTIATING TO BUILD 31 TANKERS

Three, for Onassis Interests, Would Be 100,000 Tonners.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Maritime Administration said yesterday negotiations are under way with private interests for the building of up to 31 new tankers, including three 100,000-tonners.

Maritime Chief Clarence G. Morse estimated these vessels and others already on order may provide American shipyards with $660,000,000 worth of business.

The 100,000-tonners are being planned by shipping interests controlled by Aristotle and Socrates Onassis, Greek shipping magnates. They would be too big to go through the Suez canal, maritime sources said, but would be able to negotiate the Panama canal with about a foot to spare.

Morse said 30 new tankers, of which 7 are being built for the Government, already are under construction or on order in United States shipyards. Nearly $270,000,000 is being spent on them he said.

Twenty-three of these vessels being built for private order would cost around $223,000,000, with the rest going for the Government tankers.

Morse said proposals for as many as 31 more new tankers have been approved in principle and plans for construction are being worked out. The cost of those new ships, if building is carried out, would run about $390,000,000. They would provide a big boost to the nation's economy through $145,000,000 in shipyard wages and $178,000,000 in non-shipyard labor and materials.

As part of this contemplated program, Morse said about 55 war-built vessels, including old tankers, Victory and Liberty cargo ships, would be transferred to foreign flag operation by the concerns planning the new ships.

RHEE ALERT ORDER TIED TO ANTI-RED ACTS IN N. KOREA

SEOUL, Nov. 14 (UP)—President Syngman Rhee said today he had placed the Korean armed forces on an emergency alert because of anti-Communist incidents in North Korea that could lead to Soviet intervention.

Rhee, in a statement issued through the government information office, said "several bombs" had been exploded recently in North Korea and there is danger of "drastic steps" by Russia to hold on to the satellite.

Rhee said the Korean people should not become "over excited" as a result of the military alert, because all measures necessary to assure security has been taken.

In Tokyo a high United Nations military source said today he knew of no evidence in either North or South Korea which would indicate a new outbreak of war in the divided nation.

Gen. Burns Says U.N. Units Will Take Off Tomorrow

sisted that the international force be restricted to policing the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice lines, that it have no duties in the Suez canal zone and that British-French forces pull out of the Port Said area immediately.

Views Conflict.

These demands run counter to stands taken by the British, French and Israelis when they agreed to a cease-fire in Egypt.

A French foreign ministry spokesman reaffirmed the French view, saying France expects the police force to occupy "at least symbolically" the entire Canal zone, not just the northern third held by Britain and France.

The spokesman added that he was "confident" Hammarskjold would insist on enforcing all decisions of the U.N. General Assembly, and that these included the reopening of the canal and freedom of passage for all shipping.

A major supply and housing headache was building up for the hurriedly assembly U.N. command. It has been estimated the international organization eventually will total 10,000 men, and the troops being hurried into Naples already were straining local accommodations.

No logistics base has been set up. No one knew where the bulk of the troops were to be billeted, either in Italy or in Egypt, and no one knew where next week's rations would come from.

Beds for About 200.

"We are sure these problems will be solved," said one Scandinavian colonel, "but until they are, the task of moving troops into the canal zone and taking over police duties is now a military impossibility."

There were beds in the staging area for just over 200 troops, and U.N. officials hurriedly scouted for extra billets.

"We hope to get some of them looked after by the NATO command here," a U.N. spokesman said. "Others will just have to double up until we can get tents pitched and other accommodations lined up."

"Even when we get to Egypt," said one U.N. officer, "we still have a problem on our hands. We cannot expect to land troops on foreign soil and operate efficiently within 48 hours. It will take some time.

"We have not been advised yet who is going to send us supplies in Egypt. We have only light weapons. One enemy tank could play havoc with such an outfit. And there is the language barrier and the problem of command."

Sinking after Cease-Fire.

In New York French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said Egypt had sunk ships in the Suez canal after the U.N. cease-fire.

He made the statement to reporters upon his arrival from Paris.

He said this action had engendered "grave doubts about their (Egypt's) good will toward restoring freedom of navigation of the canal."

Also aboard the plane was Golda Meir, Israeli minister of foreign affairs. Both ministers went to New York to attend United Nations' discussions on the Middle East.

Mrs. Meir said that before Israel will agree to withdraw her troops from Egyptian soil, "many details in connection with a general settlement will have to be discussed and the Gaza strip will be one of them." An absolute condition will be unhindered passage of Israeli ships through the Suez canal, she added.

Action at Syrian Border.

In Jerusalem's Israeli sector, an Israeli army spokesman charged Fedayeen (commando) activities had flared up near the Israeli-Syrian border. He said one Israeli was killed and three were wounded.

The nine-nation Arab summit conference continued in Beirut, Lebanon. A conference source said the agenda includes four main points: Financial aid to Jordan in the event Britain cuts off its military subsidy; withdrawal of Iraq from the Baghdad pact made up by Britain, Iran, Turkey, Pakistan and Iraq; financial and military aid to Egypt and designation of Lebanon as negotiator to bridge disputes between the West and Middle East.

SILKWORM'S BRAIN STUDIED

ITHACA, N.Y.—A Cornell University zoologist is trying to find out what turns the brain on and off in silkworms. Prof. William G. Van der Kloot has found silkworms enter a state of suspended animation called diapause when their brains stop releasing a hormone that controls growth.

He has been measuring electrical activity in the brains of the worms by inserting tiny glass or stainless-steel electrodes into the cells and watching the activity on an oscilloscope.

SCIENTISTS SAY NEW JERSEY'S CLIMATE ISN'T CHANGING

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — Two Rutgers University meteorologists have chilled hopes of New Jerseyites that climate changes on the North American continent eventually might transform the state into a tropic paradise.

A Vaugh Havens and W. E. Marlatt said a continuing study of state-wide weather records fails to bear out predictions of weather prophets that, what with the climate supposedly growing warmer yearly, the Garden State may be on its way to adding palms and frangipani to the landscape.

In fact, reported Havens and Marlatt, New Jersey's climate actually may be taking a slight turn for the cooler.

For evidence, they cited records for the first half of 1956 showing an average temperature of a chill 47 degrees, one degree lower than the 1955 figure and about average for the last 80 years. Twenty inches of rain fell during the six-month 1956 period, six inches more than last year and half-an-inch above the 80-year average.

As for the annual snowfall, Havens and Marlatt say there will be a big market in New Jersey for galoshes and cold remedies for a long time to come.

MONEY ORDER PLATE, PRESSES FOUND IN GARAGE

Paper, Ink, Slot Machine Also in Building Used by Suspect Held in Texas.

Equipment which could be used for counterfeiting and forging was seized yesterday by police and Secret Service agents in a garage in the 4400 block of Lindell boulevard used by Rayford Peter Smith, who is under arrest in Texas.

The equipment included two small printing presses, a quantity of paper and ink, and a metal plate designed to print money orders of the Bank of America.

Also in the garage, which Smith had rented, were a slot machine, tires, boxes of canned goods and cigarettes.

Smith, who gave 17 aliases, was picked up last Saturday night at Pasadena, Tex., when he aroused policemen's curiosity by tossing two dressed chickens from an automobile.

He explained the chickens by saying he bought them at supermarkets with bona fide checks to establish credit at a local bank where he had opened an account. He said he planned to use his credit rating in passing forged money orders.

In his automobile were found $19,500 in counterfeit $100 bills; $11,000 in fake Bank of America money orders, and payroll checks, drivers' licenses, social security cards and credit cards. The car trunk also yielded two pistols and a blackjack.

Smith, 61 years old, said he lived here.

FIVE U.S. AGENCIES HERE CITED IN BOND CAMPAIGN

Five federal agencies in the St. Louis area received Treasury Department citations yesterday in recognition of outstanding results achieved in the current United States Savings Bond campaign.

Presentations were made at the monthly meeting of the Greater St. Louis Federal Business Association to the following agencies: St. Louis Ordnance District, Market News Branch of the Agricultural Marketing Service, Atomic Energy Commission and two Social Security District offices at 8003 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton, and 3633 South Grand boulevard.

Also awarded were individual citations to 10 employes of the St. Louis Ordnance District for their exceptional efforts in the drive.

GRAND JURY HEARS CONNOR ON CRIMINAL CASE BACKLOG

James W. Connor, director of the St. Louis Crime Commission, testified yesterday before a circuit court grand jury investigating the blacklog of cases in the criminal division of the circuit courts.

Connor has advocated that some of the criminal cases be assigned to judges sitting in the civil division as a means of alleviating the backlog.

U.S. Will Oppose Entry Of New Forces in Egypt

But first of all, he emphasized, the urgent task is to get the Egyptian situation out of the way and the solution of such problems as the care of Hungarian refugees and the victims of Soviet attack before bringing up broader subjects.

Irked at Mention of Drift.

Mr. Eisenhower appeared annoyed when a reporter asked whether the situation in the Middle East had been caused by the American policy of "drift." The reporter said many people felt there had been a failure to work out a basic policy for the Middle East which would take care of the 900,000 refugees there and define the boundaries of Israel and the Arabian states.

Mr. Eisenhower said the reporter should go to the State Department if he thought there had been drifting. He said the refugee problem had been one of the first put in his lap after his election and that Eric Johnston and State Department officials had worked on it.

Up to the point where Egypt accepted arms from Russia, he said, we had reason to believe that we had succeeded in the Middle East.

Asked directly about the chances for peace in the world, Mr. Eisenhower replied to the effect that it requires two to make a peace.

He said you could not speculate too much on the subject but the question certainly related directly to the depth of our faith and the earnestness of our efforts.

If men can develop weapons which make the thought of global war almost automatically include the thought of suicide, he said gravely, you would think this would also include ability to find the solution for a peaceful world.

The world unquestionably faces a dilemma, he said. On the one hand there is a greatest future with development of atomic science so that we cannot possibly dream of what it will bring; on the other side, if we don't find a solution, there is something very terrible.

A reporter said that even if warfare were stopped in the Middle East the "sorry fact" seemed to be that the West had suffered a tremendous loss there and the Russians had made a tremendous gain. He asked whether the United States proposed to redress the balance or accept permanent Russian influence in the Middle East.

Should Be Careful.

Again most gravely, the President said he did not know whether the Russian influence could be entirely eliminated. The free world, especially the small nations, he said, should be very, very careful about coming too closely related with Russia.

The United States, he continued, has tried and will continue to try to be friends with every single nation in that area and stand ready to help them in the future if they live or abide by the general charter and directives of the United Nations.

A nation such as Russia, under a dictatorship, he said, picked the side it wants to woo for the moment and cared nothing about the other side. Every movement we make, he said, must be balanced by a consideration of justice for both sides.

By the Associated Press.

The President said he knew of no reason why a carefully qualified offer of frontier guarantees made by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in August 1955 should be withdrawn. This suggested that the offer still stands.

In a speech at that time, Dulles declared United States readiness to underwrite the security of frontiers between Israel and the Arab states provided that the refugee problem was solved and permanent boundaries were agreed on as part of the peace settlement. The offer had no relationship to the kind of emergency situation which now exists in the Middle East.

FAMILY DAY OBSERVED AT CONTINENTAL CAN CO.

Family day was observed today at Continental Can Co., 7140 North Broadway. Families of employes toured the plant and observed operations there.

Items of equipment were identified by signs, which also explained what they do. Normal operations of the plant went on as usual.

Since insurance regulations prevented bringing small children in the plant, a special room with entertainment was provided for all children under 8 years old.

U.S. MILK INQUIRY IN CEYLON

COLOMBO, Nov. 14 (AP)—Ceylon's education minister today ordered an inquiry into milk distributed by CARE, the American welfare organization, after hearing that an 11-year-old schoolgirl died after drinking a glass of milk.

The minister, W. Dahanayake, said he had received reports from all over Ceylon of children being taken ill immediately after drinking CARE milk.

Aldrich Reported Resigning As U.S. Envoy to Britain

Suez Crisis Pointed Up Ex-Banker's Inability to Get Close to Right People in London.

By ERNIE HILL
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1956.

LONDON, Nov. 14—Winthrop Aldrich, 71 years old, formerly chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, is quitting as United States Ambassador to Britain. The veteran banker, it is understood, has resigned, stating that he wishes to be relieved at the end of his four years here.

John Hay (Jock) Whitney, the race horse owner and investment banker, is among those mentioned to succeed him. Whitney has a stable of thoroughbreds in England. As ambassador, he would find himself frequently in the paddock with such other important racing enthusiasts as Queen Elizabeth, Sir Winston Churchill, Lord Derby and Lord Astor.

In Dark on Suez Move.

Aldrich's inability to get close to the British people and to leaders in the Tory government has been regarded as a drawback. This shortcoming was demonstrated when Britain and France decided to issue an ultimatum on Oct. 30 demanding that Egypt allow troops to move into the Suez Canal Zone or face military landings and conflict. Aldrich knew nothing about these plans.

He met with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd at 10 a.m. on the day the ultimatum was announced in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Eden. That morning Aldrich was told only that Britain was interested solely in a peaceful settlement of the Suez crisis. About noon he was asked to return to Lloyd's office at 4:45 p.m. Eden issued the ultimatum at 4:30 in the House. Aldrich found out about it only after it was on the news wires.

Aldrich, in leaving, has arranged the job here so that only a millionaire can afford to take it over. Back at the end of World War II, Barbara Hutton gave the United States Embassy her Regents Park mansion which is called Winfield House. Three American ambassadors in a row declined to occupy it because of the personal expense involved in keeping it up and maintaining the ten acres of lawns and gardens around it. The United States Air Force used it for an officers' club.

But Aldrich decided to move in. He had the Air Force ejected. Then the State Department spent $200,000 remodeling the place. Aldrich is reported to spend some $25,000 a year of his own money maintaining Winfield House. The State Department does not allow ambassadors money enough to keep it going.

MARINE PLEADS GUILTY OF MISTREATING RECRUITS

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., Nov. 14 (UP)—A 19-year-old former Marine Corps drill instructor today pleaded guilty to two charges of maltreatment of recruits, including a charge of forcing a recruit to "suspend himself by his elbows and toes" over a naked bayonet for five minutes.

Pfc. Frederick A. Renton, of New York City, entered the two guilty pleas when his court-martial opened here today. He still faces 20 other specifications of mistreating recruits.

Renton, formerly a corporal, confessed to forcing Pvt. Douglas P. Ploof, a recruit, to "suspend himself by his elbows and toes for a period of about five minutes while Pvt. Edward R. Juneau Jr., another recruit, held a naked bayonet under the stomach of Pvt. Ploof. . . ." That incident occurred last Sept. 19. On Sept. 27, Renton said he "caused recruits to participate in assaults against each other, and to inflict unnecessary pain and injury to themselves."

Road Program Economic Impact Outlined to Real Estate Group

Federal Highways Administrator Says Arteries Will Help Develop Industrial Sites in Outlying Areas.

The vast new interstate highway program financed by Federal and state governments will have a "revolutionary" impact on every phase of the American economy, Federal Highway Administrator John A. Volpe said here today.

Volpe addressed a luncheon meeting of the National Society of Industrial Realtors at Hotel Park Plaza. The society is an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which is meeting at Kiel Auditorium.

A bold program of highway improvement was assured, Volpe said, with passage of the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956 on President Eisenhower's recommendation. The program calls for spending $24,800,000,000 in Federal funds over a 13 to 15-year period.

Volpe said modern expressways not only would bring relief of traffic congestion but would bring about "the transformation of outlying areas from raw land to busy industrial sites, commercial centers and residential sections." He forecast that the long-term outlook for real estate values would be "immeasurably improved."

Senator Speaks.

United States Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.) of Arizona, told a luncheon meeting of the Enlarged Realtors Washington Committee at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson that the nation's business men could not afford to relax their political vigilance, now that the election had been won.

Business men, the Senator warned, must remain active politically and "try to overcome those powers in this country who are dedicated to the destruction of those freedoms we hold dear. They never rest."

Singling out labor leader Walter Reuther and the Americans for Democratic Action for attack, Goldwater said their so-called "liberalism" was not in the historic American tradition of Jefferson and Jackson, who sought more freedom, but was in fact a movement toward less freedom for all.

"They don't like initiative," Goldwater said, adding that one of the worst aspects of the present-day liberal trend was its effort to divide the people. He said: "I don't think they are liberals. In all kindness, I call them revolutionists."

Not Against Labor, He Says.

Goldwater said he was in no sense against union labor or the working man. He said that in the 1930s unions needed Government help because of the shortsightedness of business men. Now, he said, union leaders have great power and try to use it for political purposes.

At a general session of the N.A.R.E.B. in Kiel Auditorium Opera House this morning, Joseph B. Haverstick of Dayton, O., president of the National Association of Home Builders, expressed hope the Eisenhower Administration would make "diligent efforts" to improve the credit situation on housing mortgages.

Haverstick said 1956 would be the lowest profit year for homebuilders since 1949. He predicted that 1,000,000 new homes would be started in 1957.

"Homebuilders," he told the organization's forty-ninth annual convention, "are exploring every possible angle to relieve the money tightness and bring houses to middle income families at fair prices."

Savings Encouraged.

He said the efforts included encouraging more savings by Americans, more rapid payment of home motagages, investment in mortgages by pension funds, and a "more truly competitive" interest rate on VA and FHA housing loans.

Haverstick suggested that the White House or appropriate federal agencies sponsor a National Conference on Community Facilities. As homebuilding extends beyond limits of cities, it was explained, the construction of adequate streets, sewers and other facilities becomes a serious problem.

In another address this morning, Miles L. Colean of Washington, an economist, said real estate activity could show an increase in 1957 over the current year if dealers met the "virgorous competition" of the lending market, and if prompt action were taken to adjust interest rates on government-backed mortgage loans.

Industrial Field Promising.

Colean said 1957 looked particularly promising for real estate dealers concerned with industrial and commercial property, adding that it should be good for residential dealers, too, although the latter were apt to face many frustrations. He said most problems of 1957 would stem from the credit situation.

"We need to keep in mind the peculiarities of this situation," Colean emphasized. "It is far different from the situation in the early 1930s when money was hard to get because of a shortage of the supply. Now the tightness is due to the greatness of the demand, which keeps perennially ahead of the constantly growing supply."

In general, the economist said, next year should be one of general prosperity "higher than 1956, which is making records in gross national product, industrial production and personal income." The convention, being attended by more than 5000 persons, ends tomorrow.

GEN. GRUENTHER SAYS NATO MUST BE KEPT WORKING

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 14 (AP) — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the Atlantic alliance's supreme commander in Europe, bade farewell to 250,000 United States service men in this theater today with a declaration the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must be maintained "regardless of the strains that come up from time to time."

"We must keep it working," he said, because its "No. 1 mission is to deter war, to make an act of aggression so destructive and so expensive that it can never happen."

His remark about strains on NATO was an evident reference to the split between the United States and Britain and France over Middle East policy.

Nehru Celebrates Birthday.

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14 (AP) —Prime Minister Nehru celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday today by attending a meeting of 100,000 school children in New Delhi's national stadium. Nehru, watched by the premiers of Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia, released a white dove signifying his love of peace.

FAMILY LIVES 15 YEARS WITH BOMB IN BASEMENT

SINGAPORE, Nov. 14 (UP)—S. Stewart moved today from the house he and his family had occupied for 15 years and he left a warning for the new tenants.

". . . And by the way, mind the bomb in the basement."

The 250-pound bomb was dropped by the Japanese 15 years ago. It plunged through the roof and buried itself in the basement but did not explode.

"We felt it would never explode so long as we left it alone," Stewart said. The new tenants did not share his equilibrium. A Royal Air Force demolition team gingerly began digging for the bomb this morning.

Oil Running Out in Europe, Immediate U.S. Action Needed To Prevent Production Stoppage

Plan to Rush Supplies From Western Hemisphere and Around Africa Must Be Put Into Effect and Canal Cleared Quickly to Avoid Disaster.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright 1956 The Publisher Publishing Co.)

LONDON, Nov. 14.

THE SUPPLY OF OIL for the industry of Western Europe is beginning to run down and this gives Soviet Communism its greatest opportunity since the end of World War II to paralyze and subvert this center of production second in scope and skill only to the United States.

The urgent need is for American initiative in measures to counter the stoppage of the flow of absolutely vital oil through the Suez canal and the major pipelines. Officials at the highest level in the beleaguered Eden government say frankly when they talk in private that if such measures are not taken on American initiation the economic — and political — consequences to the position of the West are incalculable.

These same officials are quite aware of the feeling in America that Britain and France have brought the disaster down on themselves by their attack on Egypt and, once the attack was launched, by the failure to move with sufficient speed and force. Punish us and we shall understand, they say, but you must understand that you will also be punishing all of Europe.

In Scandinavia, in neutral Switzerland, in West Germany, in Italy, Greece and Turkey the shortage soon will grow acute, since in some countries the reserve supply is sufficient only for a week or two.

Immediate Action Needed.

The positive steps that must be taken by America at once, in the view of responsible officials here, are above all the following:

The putting into effect of the plan which has been worked out in detail for bringing Western Hemisphere oil to Europe and helping with the long haul around the tip of Africa instead of through the canal. The first essential step is for the Department of Justice in Washington to waive the anti-trust laws so that the oil companies may work together to carry out the plan. They could work, not with Britain and France as such, but, with the oil supply committee of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation which includes practically all of Europe this side of the Iron Curtain.

Second and equally important is American insistence in the United Nations, and in Cairo that the cleaning up of the canal and its approaches be carried out by British and French task forces working, it could be under United Nations supervision. This is the key to the entire situation since if President Nasser can by delaying tactics keep efficient Western repair crews out of the Canal Zone this lifeline of the West will be closed for an indefinite time. That would perfectly serve the purposes of Soviet Russia whether Nasser would act merely as a pawn of Communism or out of his own hatred of the West.

Time to Clear Canal.

Estimates of the time required to reopen the canal under the most favorable circumstances vary widely. One high official told this reporter that at the most optimistic guess it could be done in six weeks but that it was likely to require three months. The latter figure is also considered highly optimistic by most objective observers who believe six months is a conservative estimate.

Those who talk in terms of unconcealed anxiety of the great urgency to get measures started for relieving the imminent shortage of oil have little to say about the added cost that must be met out of Britain's dwindling reserves of gold and dollars. That can somehow be managed, they say, if only the necessary steps can be started to avert a larger disaster.

Brave Front Put Up.

For public consumption the Eden government is keeping up a brave front with Chancellor of Exchequer Harold Macmillan even saying in House of Commons that the government would achieve its promised budgetary surplus of $1,300,000,000. But privately they spell out the unadorned truth of Britain's dilemma.

It is now recognized that the government will be unable to meet the payment of $180,000,000 due at the end of the year in interest and principal on the four billion dollar loan made by the United States in 1946. This will be the first time that the government will have had to invoke a waiver clause in the loan contract which is drawn in such complicated legal language that no one is quite sure what the effect would be of invoking the waiver period but officials hope it would mean a year of grace during which Britain's gold and dollar position might be strengthened.

Visit to U. S. Considered.

Macmillan had considered going to Washington to put some of these matters before the Government there on an informal basis, but he was well aware that such a trip would have been taken as a distress signal and it would have fed the reports of a devaluation of the pound now current.

To let the British and French stew in their own juice seems at the moment the prescription of Washington, reflecting the sense of outrage that resulted when America's two principal allies started out to go it alone. But the melancholy truth is that all of the West — all of Europe and America, too — is in the same stew and the present prescription quite conveniently serves the masters of the Kremlin.

U.S. Holds Up Plan to Supply Oil to Europe

Will Wait Until U.N. Establishes Order in Suez, Officials Say.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP).

THE United States has decided not to put in action its standby plans for supplying oil to Europe until the United Nations police force has established order in the Suez area, informed officials said today.

Although this leaves western Europe facing a critical oil shortage and rationing, it was disclosed that the United States is determined to do nothing which might endanger U.N. efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Middle Eastern crisis.

The Government was described as particularly anxious not to give the appearance of aiding the British and French in their conflict with the Arab nations by replacing the crude oil shipments cut off by the blocking of the Suez Canal and the closing down of some Mediterranean pipeline facilities.

Increases Pressure.

This policy inevitably heightens the pressure on Britain and France to co-operate with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold by withdrawing their troops from Egypt and clearing the way for a U.N.-supervised restoration of the vital crude oil flow.

Ine the two weeks since French-British military action began in Egypt, the United States Government has not even called together the petroleum industry's Middle East emergency committee. No meeting has yet been scheduled, although previously it had met weekly or oftener.

The industry committee, formed when Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized the canal, has worked out with the Government complete plans for a vast increase in Western Hemisphere oil production, as well as for the pooling of storage and tanker facilities, in case the canal was closed.

The blueprint called for the shipment of up to 1,100,000 barrels daily of oil from the United States gulf states and Venezuela to Britain, France and other European countries.

Put on Standby Basis.

But when the British and French moved without consulting the United States and precipitated the military action, that led to the blocking of the waterway, officials here hastily reconsidered the policy. They relegated the plan and the committee to standby status, and turned to the United States for a settlement.

However, the United States Government has no control over private purchases of oil from American companies made by Europeans. It is understood that some few orders already have been placed. These may increase, but Europe is short of dollars and, even if such private transactions attained a considerable volume, they could not provide as much oil as could be obtained by the coordinated efforts contemplated in the emergency plan.

The organization said its "family message service" will broadcast lists of names on the 41.61 meter wavelength. Replies will be made through the Hungarian Red Cross, it said.

RESTON

Mideast Crisis Most Serious Since Korea

Russia Now Dominant in Vital Oil Region — Debate On in U.S.

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.

AT NO TIME since the Korean war, and perhaps even since the Communist conquest of the China mainland, have United States officials been confronted by a more serious situation than faces them in the Middle East.

What faces them is that the Soviet Union has now emerged as the dominant power in that area, with the possibility, amounting to a probability, that it will be able to establish its authority in Syria and Egypt between Western Europe and the vital oil supply of the Middle East.

This gloomy prospect, and how to dispel it, are preoccupying official Washington more than the shorter-range questions of how to establish a durable cease-fire under the United Nations along the Suez canal.

Consequently, a debate of momentous proportions is going on here behind the scenes. Some officials are taking the line that Britain and France, and not the United States, are responsible for the sudden deterioration in the West's position and that Washington can do nothing more than keep pressing for a United Nations solution to the immediate situation.

Contrasting Argument.

Other officials, in contrast, are contending that only if President Eisenhower makes absolutely clear to Moscow that the United States will not tolerate the entrance of Soviet "volunteers" into the Middle East—indeed that Washington will counter any such move with similar moves of its own—can the situation be kept from declining into a disaster for the West.

No decision has been reached. The White House did announce on Nov. 5 that the introduction of Soviet forces into the Middle East "would violate the United Nations Charter, and it would be the duty of all United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

When Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. was asked by members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday, however, what the United States would do if the Soviet "volunteers" did enter the Middle East, he replied that his personal opinion was that this would be a question for the United Nations to decide.

Remark Causes Concern.

This remark has produced great interest and some concern within the Government and the Washington diplomatic corps, for there is strong feeling here, in the Pentagon and elsewhere, that, without the President's personal warning that the United States will use its power to oppose any such movement of Soviet "volunteers" into the Middle East, the Russians may not be deterred.

There is little doubt about what the Administration would like to do. It would like to avoid any unilateral warnings to the Soviet Union. It would like to see the United Nations police force established in Egypt in the hope that this would be a deterrent to the introduction of Soviet "volunteers" in the area. In the event of Soviet intervention anyway, it would like to take whatever action it did take in the Middle East under the authority of the United Nations.

Those in the Government who want bolder action point to the U.N. record in the Middle East as evidence that the world organization does not have the power to force Egypt to accept an effective U.N. police force, and argue that the President's insistence on operating only through the United Nations has minimized Soviet Union's unilateral threats.

Russians Encouraged.

The main objective of United States policy in this crisis, these officials feel, should have been to neutralize the intervention of the Soviet Union. Instead, they point out, the President, by constantly repeating that the United States would not become involved in the Middle East, partly neutralized the United States and encouraged the Soviets to believe that they could intervene with impunity.

Thus, it is generally conceded here that the U.S.S.R. and Egypt have scored a tremendous victory. Britain and France have resorted to war and have failed to achieve their objectives of destroying the Egyptian dictator, Col. Nasser, or establishing their authority in the Suez Canal Zone.

Meanwhile, they have tarnished their moral position in the world, split with the United States, brought the United Nations down on themselves, and withdrawn in the face of what amounted to a Soviet ultimatum to halt their military activities or face the prospect of Soviet military intervention.

Defenders of the Arabs.

As most observers here see it there has not only been a decline of the West's power in that area, but the Soviet Union has emerged as the defender of the Arab world, and the cry is already going out from Moscow

U.S. Helped Russia Win Big Mideast Gains

Pressure Caused British-French-Israeli Drive to Cave In.

By STEWART and JOSEPH ALSOP

THE Soviet Union has now scored a gigantic victory in the Middle East, more than important enough to compensate for the Kremlin's severe setback in the satellite area of Eastern Europe.

So much is clear. Even among the Administration policymakers, the almost hysterical emotions generated by pique against the British and French are now beginning to subside. In this calmer atmosphere, the magnitude of the Kremlin's triumph is beginning to be reluctantly and ruefully admitted. The admissions are all the more rueful because the Kremlin's triumph was altogether needless.

The British-French-Israeli intervention in Egypt may have been mistaken. It may have been immoral. It may have been ill-planned. But, in fact, the operation was succeeding rather brilliantly when everything that had been gained was lost again by a premature ceasefire.

Success Due to Israelis.

The main success was owing to the Israelis, rather than to the British and French. The foundation stone of Egyptian prestige and influence throughout the Arab countries has always been the belief that Egypt's Col. Nasser possessed serious military power. The belief was vastly strengthened, and Nasser's influence rose proportionately, when Nasser made his arms deal with the Kremlin last summer.

However, in a few short days last week, a small, relatively poorly equipped Israeli expeditionary force showed that Nasser's vaunted military power was the most transparent sort of busted flush.

In the Sinai peninsula and the Gaza strip, 12,000 to 15,000 Israelis took on 25,000 to 30,000 Egyptians. The Egyptians enjoyed the double advantage of defending prepared positions and possessing better and more ample equipment. In the outcome, the Israelis won a total victory. The whole Egyptian

Crises Pose Question: Is Russia Responsive to World Opinion?

Shepilov's Report to Kremlin on Feelings at U.N. Session Is Likely to Affect Soviet Policies.

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 14.

THE CRISES in Hungary and Egypt, as seen from the vantage point of the United Nations, have simmered down today to a single question: Is Soviet Russia responsive to world opinion?

The resolution of events in both Eastern Europe and the Middle East depends on the policies adopted by Russia.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, able although he is, is powerless to bring peace to a world in turmoil if Russia decrees otherwise.

In Hungary, clearly, it was Russia's decision to continue the blood bath, or withdraw its troops. What course Russia chose in Hungary would affect all of Eastern Europe and the balance of forces in the whole of Europe and the world.

Nasser Pulled by Strings.

In the Middle East, likewise, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt was pulled by long strings leading to Moscow, which could encourage him in obstruction of peace by talk of sending "Soviet volunteers" and more arms, or could allow him to subside while the many problems there were tackled by the United Nations in an orderly way. Here, too, the balance of forces in the world was involved.

Dmitri Shepilov, Soviet foreign minister who attended yesterday's session of the General Assembly and sat hunched over and silent, was the key Russian observer at this show window of world opinion. His report to the Kremlin was expected to go a long way in determining whether Russia is in fact responsive to what delegates like to refer to in their speeches as "the conscience of mankind."

Connection Noted.

At least one delegate representing a country located too close to Russia and the scene of Eastern European conflict for comfort—said today he thought he saw a connection between Shepilov's presence at the U.N. and the slightly hopeful softening of the attitude of Russian-dominated Hungary toward acceptance of a U.N. mission in Budapest.

It was significant, this delegate said, that whereas Hungary had flatly refused United Nations observers previously, a day after Shepilov arrived on the scene a new and unexpected note from Hungary was received by the Secretary General.

Talks With Horvath.

On the basis of this note, Hammarskjold subsequently talked to the Hungarian Foreign Minister, Imre Horvath, here for the General Assembly meetings. If and when Hammarskjold goes to Budapest, to "organize assistance" it will be the Russians who decide to let him go, in response to pressures of world opinion being brought to bear to a great extent at the United Nations.

And in the Middle East, it was obvious that the Russians were involved in negotiations for the conclusion of arrangements for the new U.N. police force to take over. Frequent and earnest consultations were taking place here almost hourly between the Russian delegation and the head of the Egyptian delegation, Omar Loutfi—with the Russians doing most of the talking.

Behind the immediate world crises was a deeper issue. In the opinion of a great many delegates here. That issue was made evident by the enlargement of the United Nations, which now includes 79 nations. Sixteen new nations were admitted last year and three at the present session.

Of these new nations, nine are members of the Asian-African group, which now has a total membership in the United Nations of 26, or nearly one-third. Since important issues are decided by a two-thirds ma-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Speaking of Shaw's Garden

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The "confidential" report on Shaw's Garden by A. T. Kearney and Co., a business consulting firm, was ordered by the garden. The public is the owner of the garden and the thousands of dollars the report will cost will have to be paid for by the garden.

If the garden is public property why should the public be kept in ignorance about everything concerning the property it owns?

There is a great deal of conversation about "economy" and the director has just announced that he has been granted a leave of absence for six months which will save the garden half his salary, which I understand is about $15,000 per annum.

Housing three directors and paying them a total of something like $35,000 is a burden very few concerns can afford. If the director is not needed why not dispense with him entirely and let his associate director continue to do the work instead of granting the director a leave of absence?

If "economy" is so important cutting at the top is always a good way.

Possibly the garden has been run as a rich man's club too long for the public at this late day to be entitled to any facts about the property it owns.
READER.

What goes on at the Missouri Botanical Garden — firing Bielmann, transferring land to the ladies' garden clubs, hiding the Kearney report? Is poverty the excuse or the answer?
O. BURKHAM.

If Shaw's Garden is in serious financial difficulty, perhaps an effort should be made toward producing self-income.

As a suggestion, the Friends of the Garden, together with other fine civic-minded groups, might sponsor a shop on the grounds, where cut flowers, seeds, bulbs and garden supplies could be sold to the public.

Also, why not more garden-sponsored events for nature-loving St. Louisans with an eye toward fund-raising?
SHAW'S GARDEN VISITOR.

Defending Union Electric

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In one of your editorials you called upon the Union Electric Co. to explain why it had employed J. Roy Browning to steer its tax-saving bill through the Illinois Legislature. You intimate that the company has done something underhanded and unfair and not in the best interests of its customers.

I think that your readers are entitled to know some of the facts which have so conveniently been overlooked. For instance, of the $100,000,000 paid to the company in bills by its customers, $25,000,000 is for state, local and federal taxes. This means that if it were not for taxes paid by the company, our bills would be only three fourths of what they are now.

It is unfortunate that the money paid to Mr. Browning found its way into the hands of Hodge. However, you yourself have stated that all the actions taken by the company were legal.

I for one would be very disappointed if the company did not do everything within legal and moral limits to keep its taxes and therefore our bills as low as possible.

An Issue to Be Resolved

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A story in the Post-Dispatch Oct. 30 indicated some women are asking the Health Department to check our milk for radio-active strontium. Good for them! It's time we found out just how much of this poison, if any, we may be feeding our children.

According to some of the scientists, this substance will be coming down for years and getting into our food just from the H-bombs already exploded. It's one thing to say the danger point has not been reached. I hope this is so. But the time to do something about it is now, not after we have passed the danger point.

Taller Than K-2

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Listening the other night to the final ballyhoo of the soap-opera fraternity's effort to "sell" us four more years of ostentatious piety, I recall a little guy from Independence.

I disagreed with a lot of things Mr. Truman did, and I said my say about them at the time. If he were in the White House today I would still disagree with him about the same things. But just the same I wish he were there—for another four years!

The "Eisenhower Team" looks very small and grubby, when compared with Harry. He looks like a Rolls-Royce when you stack him up against the "Cadillac Crusade."

And you could depend on him. Maybe you didn't want to go the way he was going—but he never left you in doubt about which way that was, and he stuck by his friends. He never stood by and grinned like a wooden Punchinello while some thug kicked his benefactor in the teeth.

I don't know how tall our Harry is, in feet and inches, but in personal integrity he makes K-2 look like an ant-hill.

For a Better Board

Doubtless the most important issue still facing the St. Louis Charter Freeholders revolves around the Board of Aldermen. It is, of course, whether the present 29-member legislative body is the best tool for the creation of municipal policy. In our opinion it is not. Substantial changes are clearly indicated.

One especially serious flaw in the existing system is that it is subject in a marked degree to the pernicious legislative abuse known euphemistically as "aldermanic courtesy." This is a vicious device by which a majority of the 28 Aldermen elected by wards agree to permit each other complete control over legislation affecting their individual wards.

"Aldermanic courtesy" is indefensible. Even in a Board of Aldermen composed of 28 saints it would be highly undemocratic since it sets up 28 legislative autocrats from whose individual decision there is no appeal. And in a board of mere mortals it creates an atmosphere conducive to the rapid growth of corruption in the form of shakedown and bribery. The board's recent history makes that all too clear.

If at least half of the Aldermen were elected at large and therefore responsible to all the people of the city, as is the Board President currently, the temptation to clique together and invoke "aldermanic courtesy" would be substantially reduced. The at-large Aldermen would have little to gain by such an arrangement.

But what is even more important, it seems to us, is that in such an event at least half of the Aldermen would be personally concerned with the good of all the city, not merely a part of it. For example, the at-large Aldermen would not be likely to see eye-to-eye with the ward Aldermen whose pet bill for an unnecessary stop sign would inconvenience thousands.

On the other hand, half or slightly less than half of the Aldermen ought to continue to be elected by wards. This will give direct representation to neighborhood and other interests, and would assure that minority views would always have a voice in the board.

As to the size of the board, it seems to us that a smaller, well-paid body would be desirable. Not only should this encourage "a large sense of individual responsibility" among the Aldermen, as the League of Women Voters has pointed out; it also might attract first-class candidates. And of course, the smaller the board the easier for the average citizen to follow it.

A board of 15 members, seven elected by wards and seven others and the Board President elected by the city as a whole, might fit that prescription. Each of the seven wards could be drawn by combining four of the existing 28 wards, or by making use of the city's seven state senatorial districts. Or the Freeholders could draw entirely new boundaries.

In any event, the aim should be to create a legislative body that will be more responsive to the good of the total city. This can best be done, in our opinion, by substantially reducing the size of the existing board, and by electing at least half of its members at large.

In Behalf of Justice

Week in and week out the Supreme Court is striking sound, solid blows on the side of fairness and justice and equality under the law.

By a brief order of only 11 words—"the motion to affirm is granted and the judgment is affirmed"—Chief Justice Warren and his eight associates put the final stamp of unconstitutionality on racial segregation in busses. This case came up from Montgomery, Ala., scene of the widely-noticed bus boycott.

The Supreme Court order, which upheld a ruling of the Fourth Federal Court of Appeals, dealt also in effect with racial segregation on busses in all states which have enacted Jim Crow transportation statutes. Here is the reversal of the celebrated railroad segregation case of Plessy v. Ferguson to which Justice John Marshall Harlan took historic exception in 1896.

If it is good to have the Supreme Court clarify the bus segregation issue, it is also good to know that it will now hear the case of John Stewart Service, suspended career diplomat. The Service case was so complicated, so full of State Department convolutions, that the citizen cannot be expected to hold an informed opinion about it. Yet Mr. Service, who seeks reinstatement with back pay, is entitled to a fair determination, all the more so beeause part of his claim is that the State Department violated its own rules on discharges in dismissing him.

Still another case in which the Supreme Court is properly active is that of Steve Nelson, the Communist leader in Pennsylvania. What the court has done is to order a new trial for Nelson and four co-defendants, who had been convicted of conspiracy to overthrow the government by force and violence.

This order for a new trial represents no sympathy for Nelson or his cohorts. What it reflects is vigilance for fair trial procedures in the United States. The Department of Justice has admitted that one of its principal witnesses, Joseph D. Mazzei, probably testified falsely in the trial which brought about the conviction of Nelson and the others. Obviously a just conviction cannot be based on perjured testimony.

There is no such thing as justice if it does not extend to bus riders in Montgomery and to defendants in conspiracy trials in Pennsylvania. The Supreme Court members know this and that is why these orders have been handed down from our highest bench.

Since Jan. 21, 1953

A reader concerned about the H-bomb sends us a copy of the New Yorker magazine for Jan. 24, 1953, containing comment on President Eisenhower's inauguration. "Eisenhower," said the New Yorker that week nearly four years ago, "is our first H-bomb President, the first President of the United States to be clearly charged with the task of saving sea, sky and land for a habitat group. . . . The thing that has not been perceived, we think, is that competitive scientific work, here and behind the Curtain, can knock out the planet even without our engaging in a war. The damage can be done in sufficient quantity merely by exploding the bombs experimentally."

Our reader, Mrs. Julia Collier, writes us that on reading this editorial comment by the New Yorker "I suddenly realized that this was the issue immediately following President Eisenhower's inauguration nearly four years ago."

"Your editorials concerning the discussion of the H-bomb are in line with your fulfillment of the task of a great newspaper," she went on. "This seems to me a basic problem that civilization must solve. The choice becomes whether or not there shall be any grandchildren and any recognizable earth for them to inhabit. The New Yorker article is as appropriate now as it was nearly four years ago, which means that four years have been wasted.

"Gov. Dewey said in a recent television program that three years ago President Eisenhower suggested to the Russians that testing be stopped and the Russians said 'No.' A solution must be sought every week and every day. One suggestion and one refusal sound not at all like diplomacy or the behavior of statesmanship. It doesn't even make sense in the dealings of one individual with another, to say nothing of discussions between nations."

Mrs. Collier asked to have her copy of the magazine back, if possible. "I should like," she postscripted, "to see what another four years brings." So, in all soberness, should we.

Delay and Danger in Egypt

Repeated delays in the dispatch of U.N. patrols to Egypt are as distressing as the possibility that Soviet "volunteers" may intrude into the situation if it remains on dead center. A prompt withdrawal of troops by Britain, France and Israel is essential, and the U.N. must take over if that is to happen.

If the U.N. can accomplish that, while averting the fateful step of a "volunteer" intervention by the Soviets, it will have made a great contribution. But it has another responsibility going beyond this one. Merely to restore the unstable and dangerous situation that existed before the attack on Egypt would be merely to tread water.

While Nasser was the aggrieved party in the immediate case of the Israeli and British-French attacks, it was the other way round when he was organizing the Arab world against Israel and France, and seizing the Suez canal. The U.N. cannot justly stop with restraining Israel, Britain and France while restoring to Nasser the blackmailing power he used to possess. It has a duty to restrain all parties to the dispute.

This is only one way of saying that the U.N. peace patrol should be regarded, not as an end in itself, but as the opening for serious and sustained effort to bring about basic settlements of the underlying issues in the Middle East—an Israeli-Arab peace, a Suez compromise, and a French-Arab peace. Within the U.N. the heaviest responsibility for driving toward such settlements rests on the United States.

Judging from the statements of Senators Johnson, Fulbright and Mansfield when they left a foreign policy discussion with Administration officials, the Administration has no long-range policy for the Middle East. If that is true, then it can only be said that the Administration had better make haste to develop one. If some of the same fervor and effort which have gone into the containment of the war danger would be devoted to removing its basic causes, the U.N. peace patrols would amount to something more than just an insecure cap on a volcano.

A Longer School Year?

What would be the effects if the academic school year in high school and in the upper elementary grades were lengthened by six weeks? Dr. Richard T. Arnold of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, making that suggestion at the sixth annual meeting of the New York State Citizens Committee for the Public Schools, asserts that many Western European students at age 18 are far ahead of American students of 18 in knowledge of hard-core subjects.

It is true that the American 9-month school year is an antiquated system based on an agricultural economy but does lengthening the year mean that pupils are going to absorb an extra six weeks of this or that subject? And would the longer term reduce juvenile delinquency?

Perhaps Dr. Arnold has suggested something that will bring interesting comments from other educators, either pro or con. Certainly the education of the nation's youth is of increasing importance as this age of electronics and atoms materializes and school enrollment grows.

Suggestion for the Senator

Senator Bricker has been in town, making the speech the real estate boards love to hear him make. The Ohio Senator knows it well, for he has been delivering it for going on 10 years now. It's the speech in which he thunders against public housing and warns, to the accompaniment of cheers from his favorite audience, that public housing if we don't watch out will create a "proletarian class."

For some reason which escapes us, this prospect of a proletarian class is supposed to chill the very marrow of patriotic bones. At any rate the real estate boards usually display the proper degree of shock.

As for us, we've never quite understood just what Senator Bricker was driving at. But assuming for purposes of argument that public housing can create a "proletarian class," and that creating a "proletarian class" would be pretty terrible, we'd like to suggest an interesting experiment for Senator Bricker. While he is in St. Louis, we wish he would go out to Cochran Homes, to Peabody Terrace, to Carr Square, to Wendell Pruitt Homes, and spend a good long day nosing about.

Then let him come back and report to the real estate boards how many proletarians—the kind who are supposed to chill the marrow of the bones—he found.

Gen. Gruenther's Urgent Appeal

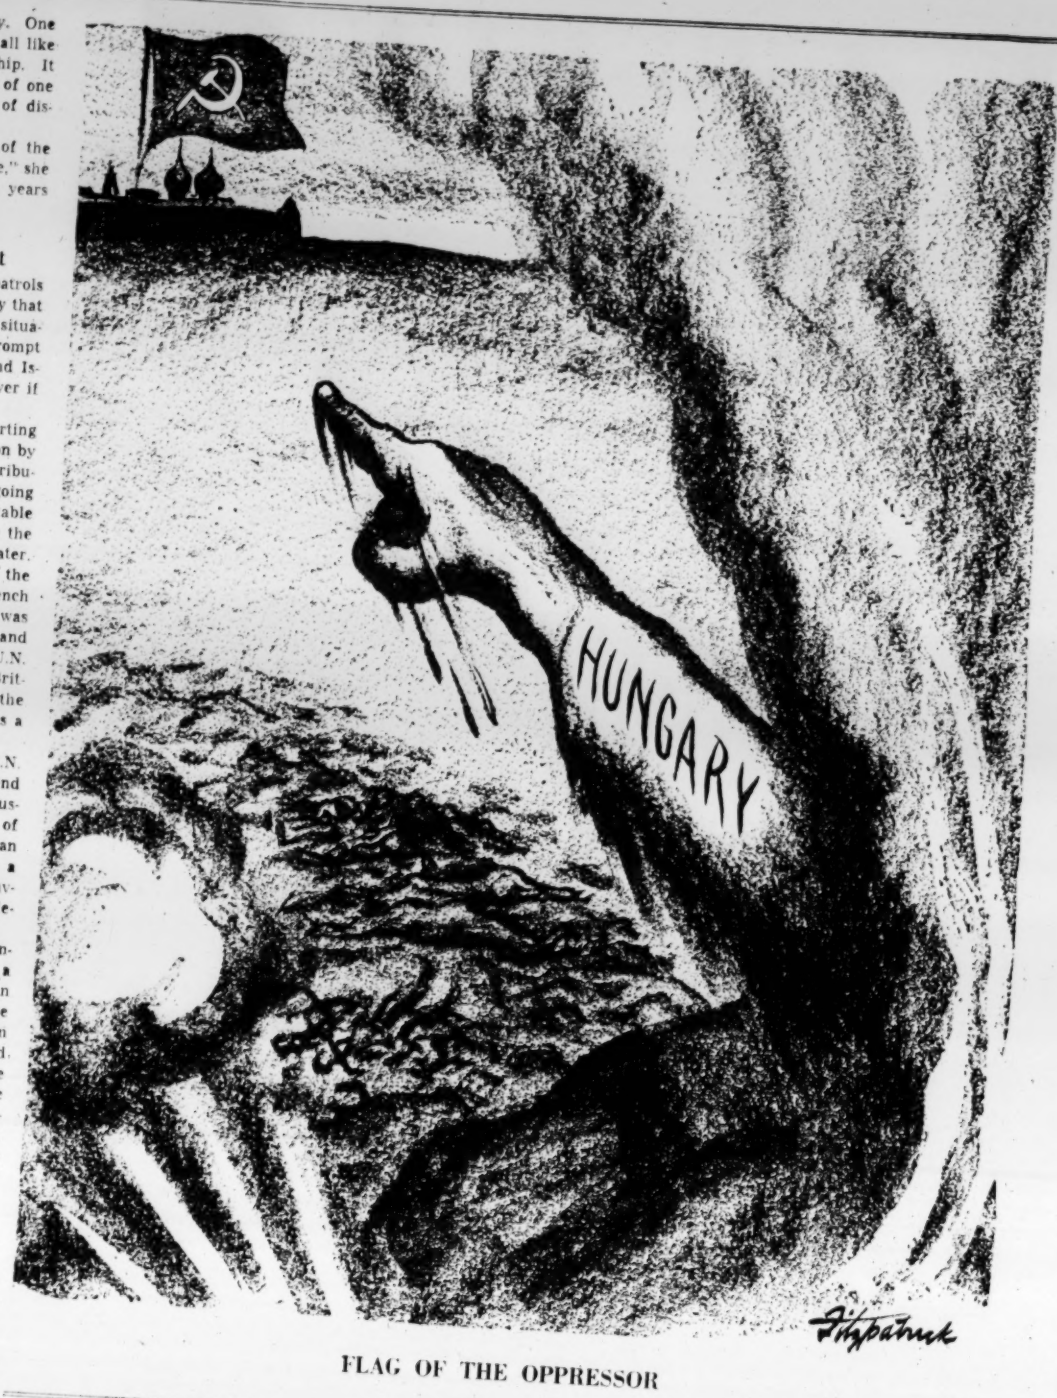
The quality and character of Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther were never better demonstrated than at the farewell review of troops in Frankfurt, Germany, just before he left his post as the Atlantic Alliance's Supreme Commander in Europe. NATO, he said, must be maintained "regardless of the strains that come up from time to time."

The occasion might have been primarily a ceremonial with Army, Air Force and Navy contingents in impressive formation. The man who has worked for three and a half years to forge a defense force on the continent of Europe made it something far more important. He told his command, and the western world of free nations as well, that they must keep NATO working because its "No. 1 mission is to deter war; to make an act of aggression so destructive and so expensive it can never happen."

These are hard days for the alliance. The strains Gen. Gruenther referred to are only too evident. But they must be overcome and strong assurances such as the one that has just come from Frankfurt will help greatly in the urgently needed restoration.

That Circumpolar River of Air

That stratospheric circumpolar whirl of air that lately has become known as the jet stream is a source of mystery to the layman. Two University of California meteorologists, who have been studying balloon movements in the jet stream, now report that it is best described as a meandering river of air that changes its course from day to day and sometimes from hour to hour. Moving generally from west to east, it occasionally travels north or south for thousands of miles. Speeds range from 300 miles an hour to less than five. All of which leaves us as uncertain and puzzled over this stratospheric circumpolar river of air as our grandfathers used to be over the reports of intrepid adventurers who sought to trace the Amazon and the Zambezi rivers to their source.



FLAG OF THE OPPRESSOR

The World's Fuels Are Running Out

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Oil supply in U.S. will start declining in 15 years, gas by 1970, expert says; new sources of energy must be found everywhere; nuclear space heating forecast, with radiation converted directly to electricity, and radical new automobile engines.

Eugene Ayres, Retired Manager of Research for Gulf Oil Corp., in Scientific American

Every hour of the day and night three quarters of a million barrels of petroleum are pumped into the fuel-burning devices of the world.

The United States consumes about half this torrent.

The consumption continues to rise so fast that the world will be burning a full million barrels per hour within three years or so. How much longer shall we have oil to burn? The day of petroleum shortages is almost upon us.

We can now forecast reliably that production of oil will begin to decline in the United States in 10 or 15 years and in the rest of the world not very long afterward.

It seems certain that the world's annual production of petroleum will have fallen far behind demand by 1965.

No conceivable new find of reserves could long postpone the evil day.

Natural gas will probably begin to decline in production by 1970.

All the signs indicate we are within sight of the end of the fossil fuel era.

Our technology must press rapidly ahead to the development of other sources of energy.

The best guess indicates a world-wide shortage of nearly 250,000,000 barrels in 1957, rising to 700,000,000 barrels in 1959. This shortage is masked by economy in fuel use and substitution of other fuels, but it is reflected in the rising price of liquid fuel and in the sharpening tensions of political contest for control of the world's oil fields.

Offshore oil — in the continental shelves extending from fruitful fields on land—will not add a great deal.

United States offshore reserves, mostly in the Gulf of Mexico, have been estimated by geologists between 10 and 20 billion barrels.

In the rest of the world they have been estimated around 300 billion barrels—mostly under the Mediterranean.

Ways to Apply Energy.

Demand will still be on the rise when production begins its decline.

If we projected demand forward at its present rate of increase, by 1975 the United States would want twice as much oil as it is likely to be able to produce from its own wells, and the rest of the world would itself fall short of its own demand.

There are important political and economic implications in the prospect that serious shortages will come to the United States before they are felt abroad.

The fuel situation, it is clear, requires a considerable speed-up of research and invention. It is not only a question of developing new sources of energy. We must also find more efficient ways to apply energy in its two major uses: the heating of indoor space and of vehicular transportation.

At present, nuclear power offers the most promising alternative. However, progress in this field so far scarcely touches the heart of the problem. We speak of nuclear "power," but what we are really working on is nuclear heat.

We are proposing to hook up the nuclear reactor to the steam turbine, an only modestly efficient invention of the nineteenth century, and to throw away three quarters of the energy of the nuclear reaction.

It seems improvident to waste precious nuclear fuel in this fashion, not to menton the tons of fossil fuel that go into its manufacture.

Electric power is destined to play an ever-increasing role in our total energy.

The Radical Is in Order.

Clearly the next step in power generation must be the elimination of the steam cycle and the direct conversion of radiation to electricity.

Where nuclear fuel would help most is in space heating, which now consumes nearly half our fuel energy.

Heat from nuclear reactors might be used directly for central steam heating in large concentrated centers of population, but for most heating the only feasible way to use the energy would be in the form of electric power.

Electric heating systems, supplemented by heat pumps, are already coming into use.

With such application of electricity in prospect we cannot long wait for revolutionary developments in generation and distribution of electric power.

We use four times as much fuel for internal combustion as for the generation of electric power, and we pay 14 times as much for it.

We can look forward to profound revolution in automotive transportation within the next two decades.

With motor fuel almost as cheap as bottled water up to now, we have preferred performance to economy. But radical developments are now in order. It seems that the reciprocating internal-combustion engine has nearly completed its term of usefulness and must be replaced by something of a very different character.

We may take it for granted that the necessary inventions will be made. The United States will have to give this technological advance first priority if the mobility of our people is to be maintained.

The technical decades ahead are sure to be tumultuous. The inventive genius of our own country, in particular, will have to turn away a little from the present overemphasis on entertainment, convenience, comfort, thrill and appearance to the more bread-and-butter subject of the raw need for energy.

The Mystery of Hitler

From The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot

A legal decision that Adolf Hitler died in a concrete bunker under the Reichschancellory in Berlin at 3:30 p.m., on April 30, 1945, has now been rendered. The opinion was handed down by Judge Heinrich Stephanus, sitting in a court in Berchtesgaden, where Hitler maintained his last residence. The judgment will make possible the satisfaction of certain claims against the small personal estate left by Hitler, and a distribution of the remainder among his relatives.

The court decided that Hitler died by his own hand in the bunker. Eva Braun, whom Hitler had married only 15 hours before his suicide, died in the same sitting room with him. After the suicides, the bodies were burned in a courtyard of the Reichschancellory and all trace of them vanished.

The mystery of how Hitler rose to power in Germany over a people who had been capable of producing Goethes and Schillers and Schuberts must continually be probed by the analytical historians. The forces that produced the fears and hatreds within Germany upon which Hitler played are not obscure.

Yet still obscure are the processes through which a madman like Hitler could dominate a people with the historic culture and force of the German people.

Success Can Be Failure

WHAT'S LEFT OF APRIL, by Robert Lowry. (Doubleday, 247 pgs., $3.75.)

The success story is a form of literature with a wide appeal. From one point of view, perhaps her own, the tale of Carol Parks is a success story of the Cinderella school—that of the beautiful girl rising from obscurity to stardom. The reader of "What's Left of April," however, may well ask if it is not a story of failure. Unless, that is, the reader is an 18-year-old aspiring to the career of fashion model, the springboard leading to infinitely glamorous possibilities.

Robert Lowry

The succeeding chapters chart her upward climb via modeling, television and Hollywood. Incidentally they also indicate where, if not exactly why, she acquired the attitudes which enabled her to convince herself that marriage with an earnest and methodical young editor was not "being true to her young dream." (Mr. Lowry is fond of setting off the cliches of his characters with quotation marks and the habit is, apparently, contagious.)

Robert Lowry's portrait of Carol Parks is faintly reminiscent of Theodore Dreiser's Sister Carrie. Both women are attractive, but shallow and vain. Both have phenomenal success in achieving their goal. As Carrie is pictured at last, sitting alone in her rocker, at the peak of a success which can only be ephemeral, so Carol, as she shuts the door of her golden-draped apartment (owned by the studio) has nowhere to go but down, although she may not be aware of it.

Either intentionally or accidentally, Mr. Lowry has left it to the personal bias of his reader to decide if the American girl's dream of success is a worthwhile one; who is to blame for the glamour queen's essentially infantile state of mind, and how many more moving pictures his heroine will be allowed to lend her attractive self to. There is no doubt, however, that on the roster of Carol Parks's admirers, her own name leads all the rest.

A Doctor Takes to Fiction

The author of this first novel has committed almost every possible writing crime, including the ultimate one of boring his readers. His characters are of an enervating sameness while his transitions are so confusing and inconsistent that the publishers might well have appended an outline to assist the confused reader through the morass of trivial events that pass for a story.

The dust cover biography says that Dr. Walter is a British physiologist, well-known in encephalographic research. As such, one would expect him to be at least on speaking terms with the disciplines outside of his specialty. Yet he commits several technical errors which would send him to the foot of any public school class. In writing of his main device, for instance, which is a space-time traveler constructed as a three-dimensional extension of the snowflake curve, he suggests that the mass of the vehicle is distributed over an infinite number of points, each of which bears an infinitesimal part of the weight and that, since the summation of these infmitesimal weights is itself infinitesimal, the vehicle has no weight! This sort of thinking would fail any beginning student in calculus.

The only excuse for the book's existence seems to be as a vehicle for Dr. Walter's dull and unimaginative speculations on the future course of human society.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Where We Can Differ With Allies

WASHINGTON.

THE ATLANTIC ALLIANCE has been passing through a serious test which has made clearer than ever before its lasting strength and its present limitations.

They might be summed up by saying that where the issue is national survival, the alliance is certain; where the issues are concerned only with national interests, there is not necessarily a common policy. Thus in the Middle East the British and French national interest is very much more important than the American. The allies were so little able to agree on a common policy that for a time they could not even consult. Yet, when the Soviet Union threatened Britain and France, this country stood up for them instantly and without hesitation.

Lippmann.

The allies could differ up to the point where the survival of any of them was threatened.

Inner Core of Defense.

It is a help in trying to understand the alliance to look first to its hard core. This is a defensive union of the North Atlantic nations—primarily, of Britain, France and the Low Countries in Europe, of Canada and the United States in North America.

This inner core is, as regards defense against external attack, intimately connected with the whole Atlantic community of nations. This community includes all the Americas and all of Europe which, when it is free to do so, is turned westward towards the Atlantic ocean.

The inner core, that is to say the military alliance within the Atlantic community, is bound together for the common defense by ties that are stronger than the terms of a treaty or the formula of a policy.

The Ocean as a Link.

It is bound together, one may say, by the nature of things as we have learned to know it over two centuries of historic experience.

In great wars, the nations on the two sides of the North Atlantic ocean have always been, and may expect always to be, involved. For the Atlantic ocean, contrary to what was once the popular belief, is not a sea which divides America from Europe but one which binds them together.

The members of the defensive union have important interests, which in varying degrees they regard as vital, that extend beyond the Atlantic community, into the Pacific, into Asia and into Africa. Here there are differences as to what is vital, as to what should be done, as to how it should be done.

Unending Task.

Our European allies have differed with us about the Far East where they hung on to our coattails when we wanted to move forward. We have differed with them about the Middle East, and we have been hanging on to their coattails.

The unending task of diplomacy on both sides of the Atlantic is to see to it that when the Allies diverge, they do not separate, that they settle their differences before they imperil the defensive unity within the Atlantic community.

In the long run the cardinal task of the Atlantic alliance is to work out a new relationship between the Atlantic community and the nations which are emerging from colonial status.

Two Horses to Ride.

During the dispute over the Franco-British intervention in Egypt, an influential official was saying in Washington that we could not ride two horses much longer—what with our ties to Western Europe and our sympathies with the revolt against colonialism.

He was, I believe, profoundly mistaken. To ride those two horses is just what we have to do.

It is our interest, it is our duty, and if one may use grandiose words, it is our mission to be at once ally of the West and its principal mediator, seeking the accommodations by which the liberation of the subject peoples can be accomplished without precipitating a world war.

DR. JUAN NEGRIN DIES; PRE-FRANCO PREMIER

Last Leader of Spanish Republic Before Civil War Defeat.

PARIS, Nov. 14 (AP) — The death of Dr. Juan Negrin, last premier of the Spanish Republic before the Franco forces overwhelmed it in the civil war, was disclosed here today.

Dr. Negrin, who was 64 years old, died Monday. He was buried today in a private ceremony.

Negrin, a leftist Socialist and pro-Communist, was premier of the last cabinet which sat in Barcelona at the time of the defeat of the Republican forces.

After he fled, Negrin spent many years in England and then settled in France. He refused throughout to have any contact with the exiled Republican government.

Two weeks ago he visited in Belgrade at the invitation of Yugoslav veterans of the International Brigade which fought with the Republican forces during the Spanish conflict.

Negrin had been a physician and professor of physiology at Madrid University before he took an active hand in the shaping of his country's destiny.

Born in 1892 in the Canary Islands, he studied at the University of Leipzig, Germany.

Negrin entered the Spanish Socialist party in the era of Primo de Rivera's dictatorship before World War I.

After the abdication of King Alonso XIII in 1931, he was elected from the Canary Islands to the Cortes which drew up the constitution of the Spanish Republic. In 1933 he was elected for Madrid and in 1936 for the Canary Islands.

After the 1933 elections, when the right-wing parties in Spain gained control of the Cortes and Gil Robles entered into power, Negrin joined a revolutionary movement headed by the Socialist leader, Francisco Largo Caballero. The plot failed. Largo Caballero and other members of the group were jailed but Negrin escaped to head the Socialist underground faction which succeeded in forcing dissolution of the rightist Cortes in 1936.

The Popular Front government headed by Premier Santiago Casares Quiroga under the presidency of Manuel Azana lasted until July 18, 1936, the day after the Falangist uprising started in Morocco. Then Jose Giral became the first loyalist prime minister of the civil war.

The blue-shirt tide, led by Francisco Franco, swept over Spain in some of the bloodiest and bitterest fighting the world has ever known.

Negrin was named loyalist premier on May 17, 1937, and he headed the stubborn anti-Falangist resistance until the war ended with the fall of Madrid March 28, 1939.

NEW PLEDGES LISTED IN UNITED FUND DRIVE

Employes of 5 Companies Contribute to Campaign Seeking $8,250,000

The Carter Carburetor division of A.C.F. Industries Inc. and its employes have pledged $44,483 to the United Fund, Charles P. Whitehead, general chairman of the drive, announced today.

The Fund also announced that Cotton Belt Railroad employes have pledged $3281 to the drive on behalf of 117 health and welfare agencies.

The 160 employes of the Metal Goods Corp. have given $1761, the Fund announced.

A decision to extend the United Fund campaign until its $8,250,000 goal is reached was announced Monday. At that time the organization had raised $7,713,402, about 93.5 per cent of its goal.

EPISCOPALIANS GIVEN $1,000,000 BUILDING FUND

PONCO MANOR, Pa., Nov. 14 (AP)—The Episcopal House of Bishops announced today it had received from an anonymous donor a gift of $1,000,000 to aid church building in areas where population growth has caused a critical shortage of facilities.

The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop, and William G. Given Jr., president of the Episcopal Church Foundation, told the prelates that the donor gave the money for use as part of the foundation's revolving loan fund.

The House of Bishops voted last night to form a missionary district of Central America, taking in Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

Earlier yesterday, the House of Bishops overwhelmingly defeated a proposal to elect a bishop for the armed forces.

PRINCE CHARLES, 8 TODAY, MAY GO TO SCHOOL SOON

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Prince Charles is 8 years old today.

The Daily Express says Charles will soon be enrolled in a private day school in the Knightsbridge district near Buckingham Palace.

If the heir to the British throne enters school, it will mean that the Duke of Edinburgh has prevailed over his wife, Queen Elizabeth II, in making arrangements for the Prince's education.

The Duke is said to feel that the Prince should go to a preparatory school and then enroll at Eton. The Queen apparently has favored the traditional royal practice of having her son tutored privately.

The Daily Express says "the Queen has now compromised on morning and afternoon classes two days a week at the private school."

PRIVATE COLLEGE FACULTY PAY HIKES OF 50 PCT. URGED

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 14 (AP)—Dr. Lee A. DuBridge, president of the California Institute of Technology, says faculty salaries in the nation's private colleges should be increased 50 per cent.

Dr. DuBridge said in his annual report to Caltech's board of trustees the higher pay is necessary to meet rising wages in industry and business.

He described as "one of the greatest events in the history of college financing" the Ford Foundation grant of $260,000,000 last year for raising college faculty salaries.

But the colleges must still raise three billion dollars in new endowments if they are to bring faculty pay to the level of business and industry, he said.

WARNS EDITORS FREE PRESS IS IN DANGER

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14 (AP)—The twenty-third annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association was told today that the Hungarian revolt has emphasized a maxim that "once you lose freedom, you regain it only through bloodshed."

In an address at the opening session in historic Congress hall, A.P.M.E. President V. M. Newton Jr., of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune, said this "was driven home to all of us three weeks ago as the Hungarians, shedding the blood of thousands of lives on the altar of liberty, cried out for freedom of speech and freedom of the press as they rebelled against their Russian masters."

Newton said that in the United States the greatest current struggle involves what he described as efforts by Government agencies to withhold from the press the facts and figures of their "inner workings."

He said that this year the representatives of all 19 government executive agencies called before the Congressional Committee on Government Information "admitted that they freely withheld news of government from the people, and several testified that they had the 'inherent' right to do this."

"When a free people bestow freedom upon its press," Newton said, "they also bestow the obligation and responsibility of printing all facts of free government at the time and not after the fact, when too often in history it has been too late."

"A press is not free," he said, "if the politician deprives it of the right of printing facts of government, and the pages of history tell us over and over that whenever the people are barred from knowledge of their government and prevented from constantly exerting the restraint of public opinion upon the politician, man's liberty always descends into the tragic limbo of forgotten privileges."

Mason Walsh, of the Dallas Times-Herald and chairman of the A.P.M.E. Freedom of Information Committee, said that "a few champions" have played a major role in battling all efforts to curtail freedom of the press in this country.

"The evil day of reckoning, when the press — and consequently the people, no longer are free would have arrived long before now," he said "if it hadn't been for the existence of a relatively few stalwart fighters for freedom.

"This fight for freedom of information, this battle for the people's right to know, is a contest that all of us must share in, a crusade that all of us must actively support."

Everett Norlander, of the Chicago Daily News, asserted that "a vigilant press with full access to public records is the most effective way to stop corruption at its source."

Norlander's newspaper was instrumental in breaking the story of defalcations in office by Orville E. Hodge, former Illinois state auditor now serving a prison term.

"When a public official is 'Hodging' his records," said Norlander, "refusing to let the people know what he's doing, it should be the signal for the alert newspaper to assign reporters to go to work on him."

MRS. EISENHOWER 60 TODAY; FAMILY DINNER TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Mamie Eisenhower turned 60 today and a family dinner was planned at the White House to celebrate the occasion.

Otherwise, her birthday shaped up as a quiet one, although she had a date to pose for pictures with representatives of the National Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon.

The citizens group arranged to present Mrs. Eisenhower with a life-size portrait of herself in the pink inaugural ball gown she wore in 1952.

Maj. John Eisenhower, the only son of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, was expected to attend the birthday dinner, along with his wife, Barbara, and their four small children.

Mrs. John S. Dowd, Col. and Mrs. George G. Moore, and other relatives of the Eisenhowers also were invited. Mrs. Dowd is Mrs. Eisenhower's mother. Mrs. Moore is her sister.

The estate of Edwin B. Meissner, president of the St. Louis Car Co. and a civic leader for many years, was valued at $5,145,011 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court. Mr. Meissner died Sept. 10 at his home at 6244 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton, at the age of 71.

Principal assets in the estate are $678,004 in corporate stocks, $4,214,843 in mortgages, bonds and notes, $75,525 in bank accounts and $152,387 in personal property.

The inventory listed a collateral trust note valued at $2,635,104. Maurice J. Freeman, attorney for Meissner, said this was the balance due on a note to Meissner, originally for $3,952,636, given him when he sold his stock in the St. Louis Car Co. to a foundation for the benefit of Lafayette College at Easton, Pa., in 1951.

His bond holdings included large blocks of municipal transit authority, turnpike, and bridge revenue securities, many tax-exempt, as well as government bonds. Personal property included a $151,387 account due from the St. Louis Mining and Milling Corp. of Joplin, of which he was president.

His will left half of the estate to his wife, Mrs. Edna Rice Meissner, and most of the residue in trust in equal shares for the benefit of his son, Edwin B. Meissner Jr., who succeeded his father as president of the car firm, and his daughter, Mrs. Maurice J. Freeman.

The will explained that Meissner was making no charitable bequests because he wanted his heirs to experience the "pleasure of giving," and added that he knew they would carry on in this regard in the same spirit as he would have done if he had lived.

NUN CANCELS APPEARANCE ON TV GIVEAWAY SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—The producers of a television giveaway show said a Roman Catholic nun cancelled her appearance last night because her superiors disapproved.

Sister Carolissa, an Iowa teacher, had been scheduled to answer questions on cowboys and Indians on the NBC-TV quiz show, "The Big Surprise." She had said any winnings would be donated to her order, the Third Order of St. Francis of the Perpetual Adoration.

The producers said Sister Carolissa notified them she was unable to secure clearance from superiors to appear on the show. The Rev. Timothy J. Flynn, director of radio and television communications for the New York Catholic archdiocese, said he had not been consulted in Sister Carolissa's case but added:

"However, it is an accepted rule that religious (nuns and priests) do not appear on any giveaway show."

Pettit Sends Records and Royals Packing, Scores 49 Points

MELBOURNE, Nov. 14.

TWO days before the 1948 Olympics, austere London seemed ashamed to confess to an interest in childish games. If the good gray city had heard even a rumor of events impending, there was scarcely a shred of bunting or a colored poster to betray the fact. The sports pages concerned themselves with cricket, the races at Goodwood and the upcoming fight between Gus Lesnevich and Freddie Mills for the lightheavyweight title. Olympics? They got less notice than a stickball game in hell's kitchen.

Then on opening day the old town burst into bloom. Banners flapped a welcome from Piccadilly circus to Wembly Stadium. Flinging aside her wet blanket of British conservatism, London made carnival, and the great gristle festival played to the most enthusiastic sports crowds since Spartacus was fighting windups in Rome.

Helsinki did it even better in 1952. Visitors appreciated what a last-minute job it had been when they landed on an airstrip that was still a raw wound in the forest and rode into town along roads cut just a moment ago through thickets of fir. Everywhere was such warm and willing courtesy that one got the impression Finland had mobilized half its population and made it a matter of national honor to run a track meet better than anybody else.

Melbourne, the city which American newspaper readers were led to believe didn't want the Olympics, may do it best of all.

Flame in the Sky.

WITH its thickest architecture, Melbourne bears a sort of family resemblance to London physically, and critics from Sydney gibe at her corseted morality. It is illegal to sell a newspaper here on Sunday, for example, and hotel porters do a lively bootleg trade running hot tabloids from Sydney. Yet with the games still ten days away the city is dolled up like a schoolgirl for her first date.

Flags and bunting, banners and colored lights are everywhere. At the intersection of Flinders and Swanstons streets, which is Melbourne's Times Square, pedestrians warily keep their distance from a huge torch suspended overhead at a cost of 5000 Australian pounds ($11,200) which will shoot a flame high into the night when the gas is turned on this week. What the citizenry thinks of this is reflected by a three column headline reading: "Don't fear that torch in the sky" over a story assuring readers that the torch won't fall and won't explode.

If Melbourne is a mite worried about putting on side, Melbourne is also proud. "Have you been past Coles?" a taxi driver asked, and swung down Bourke street where competing department stores glower at each other like Gimbels and Macy's. Over Myer's marquee, silvered athletes of heroic proportions are depicted running, leaping and pitching hardware. Across the way the facade of Coles Emporium supports a giant, bearded frontiersman at least 20 feet tall gazing upon a changing backdrop.

"That's John Batman, the founder of Melbourne," the hackie explained. "See, his head turns and he surveys Melbourne as it was, all kangaroos, and now it changes to Melbourne of today. John Batman, sir, came from Tasmania and said this would be a good spot for a village."

Barefoot Over Bottles.

THE new swimming stadium is a manificent plant of wildly improbable design, a triangle of glass and steel magically balanced on its apex. Early in the construction period, a man related, a newspaperman inspecting the installations got brushed off by busy workers and phoned Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, waking him at 3 a.m. to ask how he felt about an Olympic plant that was still on the drawing board. If that was true, Brundage said, then Melbourne didn't deserve the Olympics and when that statement was published everybody got excited.

"We saw a lot of it in the papers back home," an American said. "We got the idea Melbourne didn't give a whoop about the games."

"Didn't give a whoop!" the man said. "I would walk 10 miles barefoot over broken bottles to see this and so would anybody in Victoria."

Now that the work is done, Melbourne has athletic facilities unsurpassed anywhere. The main stadium of the Melbourne Cricket Club is vast with a bright red track enclosing luminous turf. "Seats up to 110,000," the cabman said, "and I had to queue up for a stading-room ticket."

Hawks Cut Rochester String by 118 to 105

By Harold Flachsbart

Things were rolling along smoothly for Bobby Wanzer and his Rochester Royal basketball squad until they hit St. Louis last night.

The Royals had won four games in succession and had high hopes of taking the lead in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association away from the St. Louis Hawks.

Wanzer, a playing coach, quipped before the game, referring to Referee Stan Landes, also a National League baseball umpire, "They sent a fat man here to do a thin man's job."

There was another thin man, however, who stole the spotlight and had a big hand, and a jump shot, in cracking five or six St. Louis professional records. With his father and mother from Baton Rouge, La., sitting in the first row and cheering his every move, slender Bob Pettit, master scorer of all scorers in the N.B.A., popped in 49 points as the Hawks stopped a four-game Rochester winning streak, 118-105.

The sure-fingered Pettit, slim at 6-9 and a whirling dervish in his movements on the court, made 18 field goals in 34 tries and 13 out of 17 free throws for the 49-point total that was both a new Kiel Auditorium and St. Louis Hawk record. The two-time N.B.A. all-star also latched onto 29 rebounds, and wouldn't you put him on your all-star team, too?

The previous individual scoring record, for a member of the Hawks, and the previous indvidual high in the Auditorium, was 46 points. Pettit set that, too, last year.

The Lesser Aspects.

Only 3682 fans sat in on a fast-breaking contest in which the visiting Rochester club showed much zip but not the shooting accuracy needed to approach the Hawks' record of 41 fielders in 94 tries. One of the lesser records of the night was Rochester's 110 cracks at the basket, but the 36 field goals made by the Royals was far from breaking anything.

Coach Red Holman, in a point-happy Hawk dressing room, asked "What can you say after a show like that? Pettit was just terrific, and then some, and I thought it was a tremendous show of confidence in how the other boys passed to Bobby. And wasn't it something out of the book the way Pettit, probably realizing he was having a 'hot' night, would pass off to other teammates?"

That was the pattern of the game. The Royals would run and run and the Hawks would run, too, but set up plays while they were dashing. Easy Ed Macauley, the former St. Louis U. Billiken hero, for instance, played 46 gruelling minutes out of 48, scored 20 points against rugged guarding and still teamed nicely with Pettit to help the N.B.A. scoring champion of last season reach his high total.

It Helped, Too.

Irv Bemoras, too, chipped in with 18 points and was the backliner of the evening with hustling Jack McMahon. McMahon made only three points but played 46 minutes and never let down in a fine show against some of his former teammates. Holzman used Macauley, Pettit and Jack Coleman, also a former Rochester player, on the front line for most of the game.

Rochester's three Negro stars from Pennsylvania colleges — Dick Ricketts, Si Green and Maurice Stokes—made only 30 points among them, and it was left for Cincinnati's Jack Twyman to take top honors for the losers with 27 points.

Pettit used jump shots mostly, some hooks (one from the left side) and a few set-ups with hundreds of pounds of brawn and muscle charging down upon him, to reach his near-half century total. And the gentleman from Louisiana was sharp, too, at the free throw line, as mentioned, making 13 out of 17.

Other records broken included:

Most points scored by both teams, 223, beating the old record of 221;

Most points by individual in half—Pettit, 30, in second half;

Most field goals scored—18—by Pettit;

Most shots taken — by Pettit, 34;

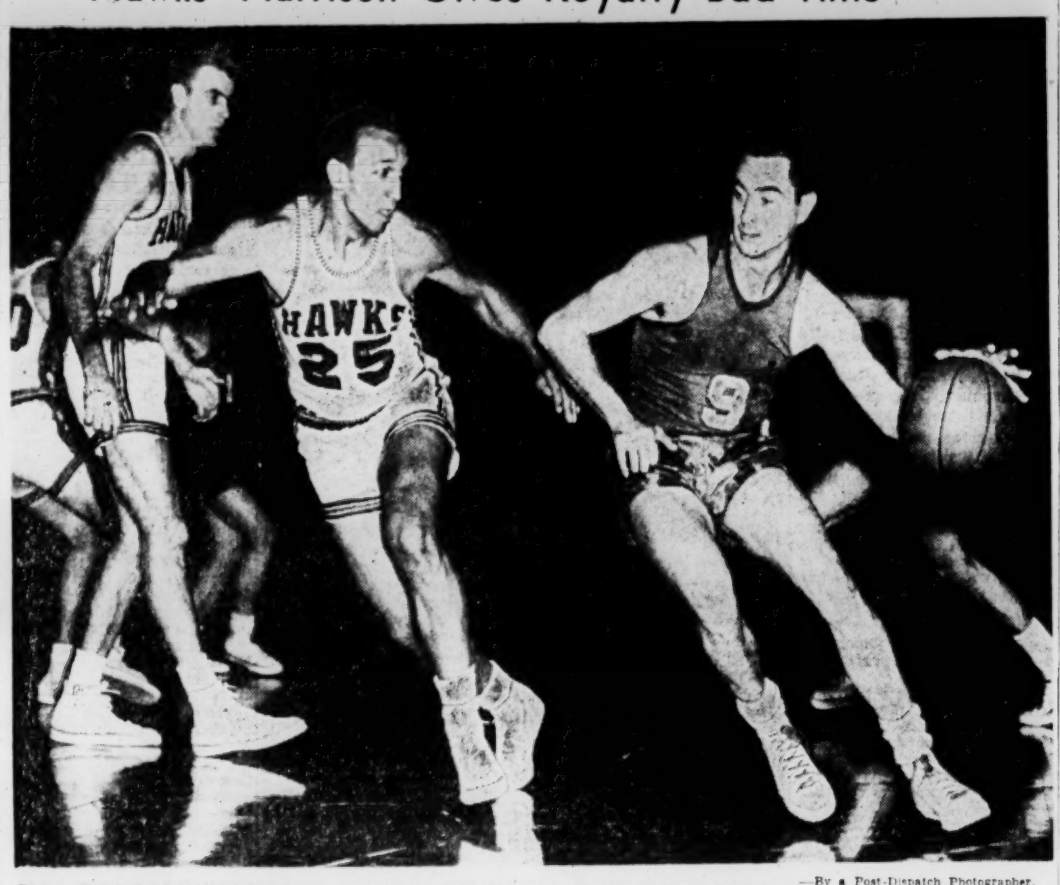
The Tide of Battle.

There really wasn't much doubt about the result after a shaky second-quarter by the Hawks. They led, 27-20, after a first period in which Pettit scored 7 points, Macauley 7 and Bemoras 6. Pettit got 12 in the second period but there was a big flurry by the Royals just before the half—a spurt that gave the Royals a momentary lead before Bob Harrison's goal just at the gun put the Hawks in front, 56-55.

Bemoras and McMahon were the "quarterbacks" and Pettit, Macauley and Coleman the front-liners as Holzman's men jumped into an 85-75 lead by the end of the third quarter and it just was a question of how many Pettit could get, with teammates trying to set him up, in the final 12 minutes. The former Louisiana State All-America collegian received a tremendous hand when taken out of the game with a few minutes of play remaining.

It was one of those nights when even the length of shots was disputed. Owner Ben Kerner of the Hawks thought the final touch by Willie Naulls was longer than 60 feet, or a shot from beyond the center line, but six or nine other people at the scorers' table saw it from inside the white center line. Where were you, Ben?

Hawks' Harrison Gives Royalty Bad Time



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

U.S. Athletes Win 6 of 9 Pre-Olympic Meet Events

GEELONG, Australia, Nov. 14 (UP)—The powerful United States track and field team won six of nine events tonight while flexing its muscles on a pre-Olympic meet with nine other nations.

Parry O'Brien led a 1-2-3 Yank sweep in the shot put as the United States dominated the competition in chilly, 45-degree weather before 15,000 spectators.

Mike Agostini, the Trinidad sprinter from Fresno (Calif.) State College won the 220-yard dash, Chris Basher of Britain, won the two-mile run and Jim Bailey of Australia, captured the 1000-yard run to prevent the Yanks from sweeping all nine events.

Hinting at the wholesale assault which will be made on Olympic marks during the games, O'Brien of Glendale, Calif., heaved the 16-pound shot 60 feet, 4½ inches. This effort, produced in chilly, 45-degree temperature, far surpassed his 1952 Olympic record of 57 feet, 1.43 inches, but was well off his best 1956 effort of 63 feet, 2 inches.

Ken Bantum of New York, was second and Bill Nieder of Lawrence, Kan., third before a crowd of 15,000.

Better Aussie Records.

Milt Campbell of Plainfield, N.J., set a new Australian record of 14 seconds in winning his heat of the 120-yard high hurdles but didn't compete in the final.

Campbell's record didn't stand long. Jack Davis of Glendale, Calif., lowered the Aussie mark to 13.9 seconds, while defeating Lee Calhoun of Gary, Ind., in the final.

Ira Murchison of Chicago, Thane Baker of Elkhart, Kan., Bobby Morrow of San Benito, Tex., and Leamon King of Delano, Calif., defeated an Australian foursome in the 440-yard relay. The Americans won in 40.7 seconds. The world record is 40.2.

Charles Dumas, the Los Angeles lad, who has cleared seven feet in the high jump, only had to get over six feet, 4¾ inches to win his specialty. Vern Wilson of Sacramento, Calif., and Philip Reavis of Somerville, Mass., finished second and third, respectively.

Landy Finishes Twelfth.

John Landy, world record holder in the mile, finished 12th in a field of 15 as Chris Basher of Britain, took the two-mile run with a New Australian mark of eight minutes, 45.6 seconds. Phil Coleman of Urbana, Ill., was second. Jim Bailey, the Aussie who studies at the University of Oregon, won the 1000-yard run in 2:07.8, considered sparkling time for the grass course on which the races were staged.

The United States swept the last two events. Baker and Morrow joined Arnie Sowell of Pittsburgh, and Jesse Mashburn of Oklahoma City, Okla., in winning the one-mile relay in 3:22.5. Australia was second.

Bob Gutowski of Occidental College, who made the United States squad only because Jim Graham of Oklahoma A. and M., voluntarily withdrew, won the pole vault by clearing 14 feet, 8 inches. Bob Richards, defending Olympic champion, was second.

Illini Skip Contact Work in Practice For Badger Game

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 14 (AP)—With three regulars on the injury list, Illinois skipped contact work except for a five-minute scrimmage against freshmen equipped with Wisconsin plays.

Woodson, Walker and Francis refrained from the brief contact drill. The Illini spent most of the session reviewing their own plays.

Deal for Jablonski Only Beginner, Cubs Announce

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (AP)—The new regime of the Chicago Cubs made its first rebuilding move yesterday in getting Third Baseman Ray Jablonski in a five-player deal with Cincinnati. But as far as the club is concerned, it's only "a start in the right direction."

Under newly-named General Manager John Holland and Manager Bob Scheffing, the last-place Cubs acquired the slugging Jablonski and pitcher Elmer Singleton from Cincinnati for Pitcher Warren Hacker, infielder Don Hoak and outfielder Pete Whisenant.

Jablonski is the key man for the Cubs, although Scheffing already has said Singleton, a 36-year-old righthander, who has failed in the majors previously, will be worked in as a starting pitcher.

As for Cincinnati, the Redlegs apparently are banking on Hacker, 32-year-old righthander, who had a 3-13 mark last season, but won 15 games for the Cubs in 1952. Two other Cub castoffs—John Klippstein and Hall Jeffcoat—made good with the Redleg pitching staff.

Jablonski, 30-year-old Chicagoan, was the National League all-star third baseman in 1954, but batted .254 with Cincinnati last year, slamming 15 home runs and knocking in 65 runs.

Singleton, who previously failed with the Boston Braves, Pittsburgh Pirates and Washington, had an 18-8 mark last season with Seattle in the Pacific Coast League and led the circuit with an earned run average of 2.55.

Hoak, 28, was obtained in a deal with Brooklyn last year, which sent Third Baseman Randy Jackson to the Dodgers. He was pegged as a "holler guy" by former director of player personnel Wid Matthews. He had a .215 batting average with the Cubs.

Whisenant, 26, was acquired in a trade last year for veteran Outfielder Hank Sauer. He played part-time for the Cubs and finished with a .236 average.

Scheffing said he thought the deal "definitely will help us . . . it won't make us a pennant contender but it's a start in the right direction."

Scheffing said Jablonski is an established major league third baseman and that Singleton is a good pitcher — "the kind of pitcher who never beats himself."

At Nashua N.H., Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts said he is hopeful Hacker and Hoak will come "into their own" with the Redlegs.

The Cubs now have dropped six players from the 1955 team. Frank Kellert, Monte Irvin and Jim Hughes were released to Los Angeles last month.

Lane Favored To Beat Ryff

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 14 (UP)—Fifth-ranked lightweight Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., was favored today to thwart Frankie Ryff's efforts to redeem his division standing in tonight's 10-round television go at Miami's Biscayne arena. (The bout will be televised by KTVI.)

Both fighters consider the bout a big stepping stone toward a title shot at champion Joe Brown and both vowed their all to win.

Lane, 24-year-old southpaw, figured an 8-5 favorite among the odds-makers early in the day, chiefly on the chance of his winning a TKO by cutting up Ryff's notoriously tender face.

Swiss Out of Games; No Means of Travel

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 14 (AP) — Switzerland withdrew from the Melbourne Olympic Games for the second time today because no plane could be found to take the team to Australia in time.

The Swiss Olympic Committee, in a much-disputed decision on Nov. 8 withdrew from the games as a gesture against the Russian repression of Hungary. Nation-wide protests against th withdrawal led to a reversal of the decision at an extraordinary general meeting of the committee Sunday.

Gavilan Triumps.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14 (UP)—Former world's welterweight champion Kid Gavilan registered a close but unanimous decision last night over Chico Vejar in a hard-fought 10-round bout at Olympic Auditorium.

Gavilan, 149, of Havana, Cuba, called upon his famous bolo punch in the final round to clinch the victory over Vejar, 157, of Stanford, Conn. All three officials gave Gavilan the nod in every round but ringsiders scored it within one or two points either way.

Blasingame Due For Contract Talk With Lane

Don Blasingame, who became the Cardinals' regular second baseman last spring, enabling the club to trade Red Schoendienst to the New York Giants, will visit the Busch Stadium offices of the club for a contract talk with General Manager Frank Lane this afternoon. He is coming to St. Louis from his home at Corinth, Miss.

Blasingame and Dick Schofield, also a brilliant fielder, who will be given every chance to win the shortstop post next spring, are expected to give the Redbirds a tight defensive combination in the middle of the infield. Schofield, after sitting out two years as a bonus player, is reported to have developed to major league class playing at Omaha the past season.

Cards Lop Off Three Doubleheaders, Add Night Games

In the Ozarks With Stokely

By Z. Lee Stokely
Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

Spoil-sport "sky-busting" has reached almost epidemic proportions on many of the Missouri and Illinois public shooting areas. The gunner who holds his fire until he can see "the whites of their eyes" is out of luck. When a bird appears on the distant horizon the bombardment starts and does not stop until it finds safety in some nearby federal refuge.

Shades of sportsmen of yesteryear! There was a time when the gunners assembled in the blinds and only the most expert were delegated to do the calling. Usually the nimrod with the seniority and know-how was, by mutual consent, the leader of the squad and all the occupants watched him for the firing signal. When the wary ducks circled overhead and the seductive "come in" call had induced them to drop their landing gear, the veteran waterfowler gently spoke, "All right, gentlemen," and as a unit the hunters arose and fired.

There were few cripples. And when it did happen, there was more concern over seeing a single cripple humanely dispatched and brought to bag than over the entire group of clean kills that were dropped in close proximity to the decoys. If a cripple sailed out of gun range, a good retriever was commanded to "fetch" and the chase was on. Often the duck was pursued by the dog to nearby land and dense brush, but the odds were great that the dog would return to the blind with the bird in its mouth. Only then was interest shown by the sportsmen in the new flights winging their way overhead. Shooting was not resumed until all birds were picked up and everything made shipshape.

'I Burned Him—But Good!'

Today an infinitesimal few, who are either unschooled in the ways of yesteryear or are possessed by greed, are making it more than difficult for the great majority to enjoy a pleasant day on a public shooting area. "Look at that one wobbling off," exclaimed one of these "sky-busters." "I burned him—but good!" The duck was irretrievably lost and was doomed to die in a clump of water weeds to satiate the urge of one who thought little and cared less about the conservation of wildlife.

In days gone by it was common to see father-and-son teams in the woods and on the marshes. The father considered it a duty, a privilege and a pleasure to instruct the son in safe gun handling. "Treat every gun as if it were loaded," was the first maxim.

The amount of lead on various types of upland game was discussed and the boy was duly warned not to "strain his gun." Game sighted at extreme distances was safe from fire because the mature judgment of the father prevailed and the eager youth withheld pulling the trigger. The judging of distance was of paramount importance and those who went to a "conservation school" in the woods and waters with a tolerant and skilled father learned that crippled game is wasted game.

'Magnum Boys' on Loose.

Magnum guns and magnum shells shot in ordinary shotguns are two of the prime reasons for spoil-sports ruining the day for the majority on the public shooting areas. Many of these "sky-busters" have been led to believe that these high-powered loads will kill game at any distance from which it can be viewed.

At Horseshoe lake in Illinois last season when a goose flight came over a blind — or even close to a blind, for that matter —many of the "magnum boys" would turn loose with both barrels as if at a given signal, and all the lesser loads would swell the crescendo of gunfire. Often the magnums would shatter a wing-bone of a high-flying goose and it would come spiraling earthward. But more often not a feather was touched, and, if they had held their fire for proper distance and correct lead, the results would have been much more gratifying.

The magnum-minded boys have spread over all the public shooting areas and there is no balm in all Gilead for those who find satisfaction in a clean kill. The "whites of their eyes" to these few means nothing. It is related that one of them even shot at a hummingbird, mistaking it for a Canada goose. They are spoiling the sport of a vast majority of sportsmen who believe that to "kill clean and waste not" is the cardinal precept of sportsmanship.

Perhaps conservation commissions could establish a 30-minute school of instruction every morning during the season at each of the public shooting areas to teach these "sky-busters" not to "strain their guns" and thus eliminate the startling upsurge of cripples now so wantonly wasted. A few spoil-sports are spoiling the "duck soup" for far too many who also pay their fees to hunt at these state-owned areas.

Increase of 15 Clubs In Baptist Basketball; Play Stars Tomorrow

Fourth Baptist goes after a third leg on the Senior Men's basketball trophy of the Baptist league when competition opens with a doubleheader at Sherman Park Community Center tomorrow night. Tower Grove was runner-up to Fourth last season. The league has expanded this season from 17 teams to 32.

Defending champions and runners-up in other divisions are: Junior Boys—Fourth and St. John's; Intermediate Boys—Tabernacle and Fourth. When Elm Grove gymnasium is completed the league will move its games there from Sherman.

69 Dates At Home In 1957

By Bob Broeg

The Cardinals today announced a 1957 home schedule calling for 46 night games and eight doubleheaders in 69 playing dates.

A year ago the Redbirds trimmed their openings at Busch Stadium from 74 to 65, a result of General Manager Frank Lane's new policy of Sunday doubleheaders. Next season's increase in playing dates was a result largely of three more night games, but three fewer twinbills than this year.

With 30 road games at night, 76 of the Cardinals' contests will be under the lights. Except for that night-game total and the announcement that they'll open in gray flannels Tuesday afternoon, April 16, at Cincinnati, the Redbirds weren't privileged to release details of their away schedule.

First and Foremost.

The home opener will be under the lights at 8 o'clock, Thursday, April 18, against Chicago. Returning to a night-game inaugural in 1956, the Redbirds drew their largest crowd for an inaugural here, a turnout of 23,964 for a visit of the Milwaukee Braves.

All doubleheaders except one (Memorial day) are listed for Sunday, and Lane, commenting, said he felt the response this year had shown that "followers of the Cardinals like the Sunday doubleheader as much as night ball during the week."

Climbing from seventh to fourth place, the Cardinals increased their home attendance from about 850,000 to 1,029,000, a total that represented an approximate 5000 hike per game because of fewer openings.

That Owlish Look.

For the second straight year the Redbirds in '57 will play no week-day afternoon game except for the May 30 holiday. The home schedule calls for two night contests on Saturday, five floodlight Mondays, 11 Tuesdays, 10 Wednesdays, seven Thursdays and 11 after-dark encounters on Friday. Nineteen day games will be played on 12 Sundays.

By clubs, the Cards will play eight night games here with Brooklyn's National League champion Dodgers, seven each with Milwaukee, Chicago, New York and Philadelphia, six with Pittsburgh and four with Cincinnati.

All but Three Starters For Vashon Are Seniors

By Harold Tuthill

Enthusiasm runs high in the vicinity of Market and Compton these fall afternoons because it may be only a matter of hours before Vashon puts the clincher on its first Public High League football title. Cashon closes its season tomorrow with Southwest.

The Wolverines of Carl Granberry are justifiably excited about their leading position in a league where almost everybody has taken turns knocking favorites down a peg or two. Even Vashon has been jolted by a second division club, for the only Wolverine loss in seven games was administered by the Beaumont Bluejackets whose lone victory in eight starts was over Vashon!

Granberry had no excuses for the 21-6 defeat by Beaumont in the season opener, but he believed the Jackets had a better team than their tie for the league cellar would indicate.

"We have been lucky," Granberry said. "Our injuries have been few and the players have responded well. I believe Willie Hall, our senior guard, is one of the best linemen in the district—if not the fastest—and of course, everybody knows about Norris Stevenson, our fullback and the league's leading scorer.

"Stevenson is one of the most popular boys on the squad, also."

Granberry contemplated no changes in a battlefront which has won four and lost one in league competition. The starting ends will be O. D. Burr and Dennis Ballard, Leland Anderson and Marvin Echols will be the tackles, Hall and Willie Armstrong, the guards and Dave Grant the center.

Tie for Title Possible.

All excepting Armstrong, Anderson and Grant are seniors.

Vashon rooters and league officials, too, shudder to think what would happen should Southwest, 1-3-1 in league play, rise up and beat the Wolverines, throwing them into a final 4-2 record.

In addition to leading the lead and having the best scorer (Stevenson, 42 points), Vashon also has the top offense, 1118 yards and the young Statesmen were led by Burnett Reeves, a star trackman at Douglass High last spring. Reeves ran 50 yards for a touchdown the first game he played in and that was his shortest TD run of the season.

Willie Hudson, another transfer from Douglass, also has been outstanding as were Quarterback Jim Card, Halfback Phil Mumma, John Earnhardt and Jack Seiber.

"We do well to keep the sophomore team intact," Gaines added. "Frequently a boy develops so fast he moves up to the varsity and we have to find a replacement for him."

Moving Spirit of Soccer at Old C.B.C. Is Dead at Age 84

Back in the earlier days of the century when soccer was flourishing at old Christian Brothers College campus, the leading spirit in the sport was Brother Hubert Lewis. His friends learned today of Brother Hubert's death at the order's retreat at Glencoe, Mo. He was 84 years old.

After the fire that destroyed the C.B.C. building (now Sherman Park Community Center) Brother Hubert taught at Memphis, Tenn., where he established an amateur sports league and fostered soccer, his favorite sport. On retirement from teaching he returned to Glencoe. His home was at Marceline, Mo. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Glencoe.

Mal Defeats Don Carter in Bowling Final

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (UP)—Twenty-five-year-old Lenn Mal of Buffalo, N. Y., scored a major kegling upset last night when he defeated Don Carter of St. Louis, 638 to 501, in the final match of the first annual Madison Square Garden invitation bowling tournament before a crowd of about 3000.

Mal, who earned $1100 in prize money for his triumph, rolled games of 224, 191, and 223 in the final while Carter, far off form, combined 174, 167, and 160.

Marion Turash of Brooklyn, scored another upset by defeating Anita Cantaline, national women's match game champion from Detroit, for the women's title. Miss Turash had 190-177—367 and Miss Cantaline 173-184—357.

Mal and Carter gained the final bracket with the highest totals in earlier victories.

The Buffalo roller notched 186-207—393 to beat Dick Hoover of Akron, O., the 1956 masters champion, who had 184-175—359. Carter had 255-247—452 to beat Jim Bernatos of Bayonne, N. J., 216-183—399. In the other preliminary match, Graz Castellano of New York upset Bill Lillard of Chicago, 156-235—391 to 173-214—307.

Tony Sporando of Rego Park, N. Y., 1954 A.B.C. singles champion, defeated Lou Campi of Dumont, N. J., 414 to 408 in a special $1000 winner-take-all match. Sporando had games of 202-212 to Campi's 206-202.

N.C.A.A. Heaps Penalties on Violators

Carolina College Hard Hit

DETROIT, Nov. 14 (UP)—The bowl hopes of Texas A. & M. and the University of Miami were crushed yesterday by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Council. But the biggest blow fell on North Carolina State College.

The N.C.A.A. banned North Carolina State for four years from all championship events sponsored by the N.C.A.A. as well as 25 events that co-operate with the association's enforcement policy. And the school may not participate in the national football television series administered by the N.C.A.A. or in any other television program controlled by the association.

And the worst still may be awaiting North Carolina State. The Atlantic Coast Conference has promised even stiffer penalties, according to N.C.A.A. executive director Walter Byers.

The council also placed Ohio State, the University of Southern California and the University of California at Berkeley on probation.

Texas A. & M. and Miami had hoped to have their suspensions lifted. Miami's is scheduled to terminate Jan. 10, 1957 and A. & M.'s probation is supposed to be up May 14, 1957. The Southwest Conference had asked the N.C.A.A. to review A. & M.'s case and Miami requested the same in its own behalf.

Miami's request was rejected as a "matter of basic policy," according to the council and Texas A. & M.'s petition was turned down because of a case pending against the institution involving alleged improper aid to a prospective student athlete.

Two Highly Rated.

Texas A. & M. was a prime contender for the Cotton Bowl and Miami was rated on the Sugar Bowl list. A. & M. is rated third in the nation this week by the United Press and Miami holds down the tenth spot.

The action against U.S.C., O.S.U. and California affirmed action already taken by the Pacific Coast Conference and the Big Ten.

Southern California and Ohio State drew the toughest penalties of the three. O.S.U. was banned from entering teams or individual athletes in national collegiate championship competition and the co-operating events until Aug. 21, 1957.

U.S.C., which was hit hard by the P.C.C., was placed on probation until July 1, 1958. During the first year of the probation Southern Cal may not enter athletes or teams in N.C.A.A. title events or the co-operating events. And, for the full two years, it may not participate in the national television program administered by the association.

California, which investigated its own athletic picture without being asked to by either the P.C.C. or N.C.A.A. was put on probation until Nov. 13, 1957. But the Bears may enter all championship events and the co-operating events.

"Co-operating" Events.

The N.C.A.A. has 14 championship competitions including the annual basketball tournament, swimming tournament and baseball tourney. The 25 co-operating events include the National Invitational Basketball tournament, the Drake Relays, Penn Relays and bowl games.

Ohio was penalized by the Big Ten because football coach Woody Hayes loaned and gave money to his players. A new element was added to the N.C.A.A. action—basketball coach Floyd Stahl also was accused of the same violation.

Cal was hit because two booster clubs—the San Francisco Grid Club and the East Bay Grid Club—had given money to players, either by loans or outright gifts, to finance their fees.

Southern California was found guilty of giving money to student athletes over a four-year period. The money would be given in the form of a check to a "counselor" who cashed it and gave it to the athlete.

But the North Carolina State ban topped everything. Previously U.C.L.A. and Auburn had been put on three years' probation.

"It's pretty tough news," said Wolfpack Coach Everett Case when he was informed of the action.

N.C.A.A. executive director Walter Byers concurred.

"It's hard to tell just how much this will affect North Carolina State," Byers said. "No doubt it will hurt their recruiting of both regular students and student athletes."

Erred While on Probation.

Added to the athletic ban, State loses its "privilege" of being represented on any N.C.A.A. committee as well as losing all voting rights on any question before the N.C.A.A.

Acting council president Dr. H. P. Everest, of the University of Washington, said the group took into consideration the fact that North Carolina State was on probation for illegal recruiting practices just a little over a year ago.

The newest indictment concerned offering a five-year "unrestricted" scholarship to a prospective student athlete, paying his way to Raleigh and offering a friend of the prospect's a seven-year medical scholarship.

Ironically, the five-year scholarship is not against N.C.A.A. rules but it violates a new Atlantic Coast Conference regulation. The A.A.C. rule states that an athlete is eligible for aid only as long as he is eligible to compete athletically.

At New Orleans, Sugar Bowl officials said they were sorry the suspensions against Texas A. & M. and Miami were not lifted.

OLYMPIC BOXER SHAW ON HIS OWN BUT COACH'S WORDS GO WITH HIM

By Neal Russo

If Joe Shaw doesn't come back from Melbourne wearing St. Louis' first boxing gold medal, Sam Westbrooks, Joe's coach, is sure to wonder what might have been had he been able to accompany his protegé down under.

They've formed quite a team—Shaw and Westbrooks. In the Midwest regionals at Kansas City and in the final Olympic trials at San Francisco, the plan was simple. Shaw would feel out his opponent in the first round while Westbrooks quickly spotted the flaws in the rival's defense.

Result: Shaw scored five knockouts in the second round. Only twice did the Vashon Recreation Center combination fail to follow the battle plan. In the K. C. final, Shaw floored his man three times, finishing him off early in the first round. Then in his first Frisco bout, Shaw actually was trailing clever British-born Terry Smith after two rounds before closing strong and taking a clear-cut decision. Smith was wobbly at the end.

JOE SHAW

Far Away.

Although Westbrooks will be missing from 18-year-old Shaw's corner for the first time, Sam is confident Joe will punch his way to the light-welter (140 pounds) crown in Australia.

"Shaw's one of those rare boys," Westbrooks said, "a terrific hitter with either hand and a great boxer who is a good listener and learns fast. He has a terrific left jab and a good left hook to the jaw, although I'd give his sneaky right cross the edge as his best punch."

In the course of Shaw's championships in the Golden Gloves here and the national and international gloves competition, Westbrooks kept instructing Joe to be cautious in the first round "so that I could see whether his opponent was hanging his jab, carrying his glove low, throwing his right too slowly, or making some other mistakes."

So Shaw has gone unbeaten in his first year as an "open division" battler.

Mindful of the Olympic amateur pledge, Westbrooks was reluctant to talk about Shaw's possibilities in the professional field. Other observers, however, say he can't miss.

"At ringside in San Francisco," Westbrooks recalled, "they called Shaw the smoothest, best-looking thing in this whole tournament. They compared him with Floyd Patterson (the 1952 Olympics champion who is only one step away from the world heavyweight title)."

Sam, a member of the 1928-29 Vashon High boxing teams who hung up the gloves before the Golden Gloves came along, has seen or worked with most of the top St. Louis prospects in the past 28 years but rates Shaw with the best. That includes Bob Foxworth, whose promising career was halted by an eye injury.

Vashon Director.

Westbrooks, who has produced numerous team and individual champions at the Vashon Recreation Center where he is a director, said Shaw came to him as a 90-pounder five years ago when the boy's family moved to within two blocks of the center.

"He always had ability, even then," Sam said. "He wasn't so aggressive as a novice, but I built up his confidence. He considers me as a father."

Trusty Westbrooks will be some 12,000 miles farther away than usual the next time Shaw steps into the ring, but Sam is as confident as ever.

"Joe should win out. All he has to do is follow the instructions I have given him. He always has done so."

Work in Secret

MELBOURNE, Nov. 14 (AP)—United States Olympic boxers went through their first gymnasium workout since reaching Melbourne behind closed doors at a local army training depot.

Coach-managers Milton Holt of Idaho State College, and Maj. Don Miller of the United States Army, said closed practice sessions would be continued throughout the games in order to give maximum impact to the various styles of the 10-man team.

The boxing team came here after two weeks of intensive training at Oakland, Calif. Miller said concentrated conditioning workouts will continue because "conditioning is 70 per cent of amateur boxing."

St. Pierre on No. 1 Team in Faurot Switch

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14—Coach Don Faurot regrets as he grows older that he didn't major in psychology instead of horticulture as background for coaching the Missouri Tigers.

But despite the handicap, he generally gets around to figuring that his next football opponent has a psychological edge.

That didn't give him a headache this week, as the opponent is Oklahoma, over whom he hasn't gained a victory in 20 years.

"But we got snake-bit just the same," he said, with his reference to the reptile probably tied to his belief that Norman's wind-swept Owens Field is more properly referred to as a "Snake Pit."

His remark stemmed from the Sooners dropping to No. 2 in Associated Press ratings.

"They'll really be out to improve their rating, and we happen to be the victim," he moaned.

"All season most of our opponents have had a psychological edge," he continued. "We caught Nebraska after the Huskers had lost three games, and they were ready for us. Of course, we had a psychological edge over Colorado last week, but we just gave them the game."

Faurot doesn't plan for the Tigers to roll over and play dead before the Sooners. Their one outside chance to beat Colorado for the Orange Bowl bid is tied to winning from both Oklahoma and the Kansas Jayhawks.

He has made several moves in practice this week to improve Tiger performance, most notable the dropping of Charley James, leading pass-catcher in the conference, to the No. 3 team and bringing up James's Webster Groves teammate, Glen St. Pierre, to the No. 1 right halfback spot. At the same time, George Cramer was replaced at fullback by Joe Wynn.

Faurot hopes the two shifts will stop Tiger fumbling, which has grown to alarming proportions.

Line shifts weren't of major proportions, but sent Don Chadwick from right tackle to left guard and Guy Barrickman from guard to tackle. Faurot explained he wanted to get some heft in front of Glendon Thomas, Oklahoma handoff specialist, without weakening the wings, which are the favorite target for Tommy McDonald.

With James and Cramer demoted, Fred Henger, St. Louis Beaumont comer, and Gene Rollin, Carrollton senior, moved in as No. 2 right halfback and fullback.

Sets Swim Record.

NAARDEN, Netherlands, Nov. 14 (AP)—Ada Den Haan, a 15 year old high school girl, set an unofficial world record of 2:46.4 for the 200-meter breaststroke swim. There is no accepted world record for this event although it is part of the Olympic program and Hungary's Eva Szekeley set a mark of 2:54.0 in winning at the 1952 Olympics.

Moores Dead; Owned Several Derby Horses

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Clifford Moores, 67-year-old millionaire turfman, fell dead at Laguardia Airport Field last night of a heart attack.

He apparently was en route to Pawtucket, R.I. where his race horse, Traffic Judge, was entered in today's Narragansett Special.

A native of California, Moores had a home at Houston, Tex. and owned the Walnut Springs Stud at Lexington, Ky. and the Post Oak Springs Ranch at Boerne, Tex.

Police said Moores had $4000 in cash in his pockets. The body was taken to the Queens County Hospital Morgue.

Moores' career led him from the gold fields of the Yukon to the Kentucky Derby.

Another of his derby runners, Hawley, finished in a dead heat for fifth place in the 1950 Derby, won by Middleground.

That was an all-time record until it was topped this summer at Saratoga.

South African Leads Aussie Golf Tourney

MELBOURNE, Nov. 14 (UP)—Gary Player, the young South African golfer, shot a course record 66 today to take a four-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Ampol tournament as two United States professionals, Bo Wininger and George Bayer, fell far behind.

Wininger of Oklahoma City, Okla., had 73, going out in 38 and coming home in 35. Bayer of Seattle, Wash., was spraying his tee and fairway shots and carded 74 with nines of 39 and 35.

Player broke the Yarra Yarra golf course record with his 34-32. It was two strokes better than the previous record set by Ossie Pickworth of Australia.

Pickworth shot 73 today.

Canada Won't Play in Moscow Hockey Event

MIDLAND, Ont., Nov. 14 (UP)—Canada will not compete in the 1957 world hockey championship at Moscow, George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced today.

Lassiter Wins Two Cue Tourney Matches

BROOKLYN, Nov. 14 (AP)—Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N. C., added two more victories in the national pocket billiard tournament.

The tourney leader defeated Onofrio Lauri of Brooklyn, 150 to 71, in 16 innings, after triumphing earlier against Joe Procita of New Haven, Conn., 150 to 62 in 13 innings.

The two triumphs gave Lassiter a record of 11 victories against one defeat.

In another match, Mike Eufemia of Ridgewood, N. Y., also whipped the veteran Lauri, 150 to 71, to strengthen his second place position with nine victories against two defeats.

Hungarians Victors in Paris Soccer Match

PARIS, Nov. 14 (AP)—Cheered by 25,000 spectators, the Hungarian Honved soccer team—black bands of mourning on their arms—last night defeated the Paris Racing Club 4-3.

A minute of silence in honor of the victims of the Hungarian freedom rebellion preceded the game and Hungarian national flags were raised by the solemn crowd which jammed the floodlit Parc Des Princes Stadium.

The players — champions of Hungary—left Budapest only a few hours before the attack of the Soviet tanks against the barricades of Hungarian freedom fighters Nov. 4. Most have not had any news about their families since.

Although the team was not supposed to get any fee for tonight's game to pay off an old debt, the Racing Club offered to share the proceeds of the match and to pay the expenses of the group's stay in Paris.

A lottery was organized in the stadium to raise more than $5000 to aid the victims of the Soviet repression in Hungary.

COUNTY MAN THROWN FROM AUTO, IS KILLED

Granite City Youth Fatally Hurt When Station Wagon Upsets.

Robert H. Jones, 149 Deane court, St. Louis county, was injured fatally early today when he apparently lost control of the automobile he was driving on a curve on Lindbergh boulevard near Von Talge road and ran into a ditch 20 feet deep.

County police reported Jones, 35 years old and unemployed, was thrown from the car into the ditch. The auto continued for 50 feet, then went up the side of the ditch and back onto the shoulder of the road, police said.

Jones, who suffered head injuries, fractured ribs and collapsed lungs, died about eight hours after being admitted to St. Louis County Hospital.

George Ahlert, 2335 Lincoln avenue, Granite City, was killed and five other young men were injured today when a station wagon in which they were riding overturned in Bloomington, Ill.

Police reported the station wagon, driven by Dave Tucker of Madison, tried to turn at an intersection and rolled over. Ahlert, 20 years old, was a student at Illinois State Normal University at Normal, as are the other five.

Seriously injured were John R. Krikau, 21, of Chicago; James Hoover, 19, Davis, Ill., and Rudy Papa, 20, Madison. Tucker, 19, and Andrew Angeloff, 18, Granite City, suffered minor injuries.

MIDEAST CRISIS MOST SERIOUS SINCE KOREA WAR

to the Arabs to deny oil to the West and destroy all Western military bases in the entire region.

This, of course, hits not only the British and the French, but the United States, whose main bomber bases in Africa and the Middle East lie in Arab countries. It also hits Western Europe, whose factories and military forces get their oil from the Middle East.

The best informed officials here expect the Suez canal to be closed for three months, and the pipe lines for almost that long, even if the Arabs and their Soviet backers do not continue their policy of sabotage. Long before this, Western Europe would have to turn to this hemisphere for alternate supplies.

"If Col. Nasser were to succeed," British Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons, "each one of us would be at the mercy of one man for the supplies on which we live. We could never accept that."

Present Situation.

The situation now, however, after the British-French resort to arms, is as follows:

1. Nasser has succeeded.

2. He got the British troops out of the Suez canal base originally, he maneuvered the British out of the Sudan, he succeeded in undermining British authority in Jordan, he has carried out a flood of anti-British and anti-French propaganda in Aden, Jordan, Bahrein, East Africa, Morocco, Tunis and Algeria, and he is now dictating the cease-fire terms while the British and French 'troops stand around waiting for the end of the U.N. debate.

3. Meanwhile, the Soviets have won a great victory in an area they have been trying to crack for two centuries. Regardless of the outcome of the immediate controversy in the United Nations about the cease-fire, they have staked out a new position in the Middle East which outflanks the Western European oil supplies, and the Baghdad Pact, which was a Middle Eastern extension of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Soviet Expansion.

At the end of the last war, the Soviet Union was left as the most powerful nation in the vast land mass from the North sea to Vladivostok. Since then the Soviets have extended their influence over all the Eastern Europe, over the whole of the China mainland, and have been stopped only when confronted by Western power in central Europe, Greece and Turkey, Iran and Korea.

Hatred of the Western powers, hatred of Israel, and the disunity of the Atlantic powers have now provided the Communists with a new potential area of conquest in the Middle East where both history and geography are on their side.

MAJOR VICTORY FOR SOVIET UNION IN MIDDLE EAST

force was demoralized, leaving all their artillery and tanks and some 4000 prisoners in Israeli hands. Meanwhile the Israelis suffered only a few score casualties.

The object of the Israelis, and of course of the British and French too, was to topple Col. Nasser from his throne as unofficial emperor of Pan-Arabia. This object had in fact been attained by the Israeli victory in Sinai, which was immeasurably more important than the later British and French landings at Suez.

Opposition to Nasser.

Even today, after all the fruits of the victory have been so eagerly thrown away, the American Government is receiving convincing reports from Cairo of serious opposition to Nasser in government and army circles. The source of this disaffection is the defeat of the Egyptian army by the Israelis.

Unfortunately, American policy was never designed to make the best of the bad business of the British-French-Israeli operation in Egypt. Instead, our policy seemed to be chiefly designed to punish the British, French and Israelis for their disobedience to big brother State Department. Hence we joined with the Soviets at the United Nations. We placed the utmost pressure on London, Paris and Jerusalem to accept an immediate cease-fire. And we paid very little attention to the possibility that we were thus making a bad business a lot worse.

Soviet Troop Movements.

This was precisely what happened when the Soviets decided to intervene in the Middle Eastern crisis more forcefully and on a larger scale. Even now, the circumstances of this Soviet action are not widely understood in this country. In brief, the big troop movements that had already been necessitated by the trouble in the European satellites were now used by the Kremlin to convey an impression of menace to Western Europe. There were even planted reports of the entry of Soviet divisions into Czechoslovakia and of threats of attacks on Austria and Yugoslavia.

Against this carefully arranged background of menace, Bulganin sent his so-called ultimatum to London and Paris demanding an immediate cease-fire. Both the British and French governments had already been thoroughly softened up by American pressure. In addition, the British government was afflicted by divided councils. At least one of the British Conservative big three, R. A. Butler, is now known to have been strongly opposed to Sir Anthony Eden's policy, and he had with him other members of the Cabinet besides the junior ministers who have now resigned.

U.S. Echoes Russia.

Even so, the British and French might have rejected Bulganin's ultimatum if they could have hoped for American support. But President Eisenhower, while opposing Soviet intervention in the Middle East, was also saying the same things to London and Paris that Moscow was saying. The only difference was in the tone of voice. Hence the British and French caved in, and agreed to an immediate and unconditional cease-fire in Egypt.

The State Department then turned on Israel, angrily threatening to expel the Israelis from the United Nations if Prime Minister Ben-Gurion refused to withdraw his troops from Egypt. So the Israelis caved in, too; and humpty-dumpty Nasser was triumphantly put back on the wall again.

$500 INVESTMENT EARNED $42,500

E. Merl Young of 'Mink Coat' Case Tells Tax Court About Deal.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 14 (AP)—E. Merl Young, a key figure in the "mink coat" influence peddling cases in the Truman Administration, was questioned in United States tax court yesterday about a $42,500 profit he made on a $500 investment.

Young testified that on Sept. 21, 1950, he paid $500 for a half interest in a $1000 option on stock in a concern known as Rialb. He sold the option in November 1951 for $43,000.

He added that he listed the profit on his income tax return and paid tax on it as a long-term capital gain.

The Government contends that the Rialb transaction covered the purchase and sale of 2500 tons of steel in the early phases of the Korean war, when steel was in short supply, and that the higher income tax rate should have been paid.

Young, a former Reconstruction Finance Corp. examiner, served a two-year sentence for lying to a Senate committee investigating influence peddling in connection with RFC loans.

The present case came before the tax court when Young and his wife, Loretta, who operate a tourist court near Homestead, Fla., chose to contest a deficiency tax assessment of $8871.

Young told the tax court he bought the option on Rialb stock at the recommendation of Joseph Rosenbaum, a Washington attorney.

Rosenbaum was identified at Senate committee hearings in 1953 as the purchaser of a $9450 mink coat for Mrs. Young.

QUESTION AT U.N.: HOW RESPONSIVE ARE RUSSIANS?

jority vote, this means that the Asian-African group now holds a potential veto power in the U.N. This bloc can count on picking up the necessary additional votes to wield its veto on most issues, from the Russian or Latin American blocs.

The significance of this power is bound to become more evident as times goes on, and especially on various aspects of the so-called "colonial issue." One way or another, this issue is involved in nearly half the 70-odd items on the provisional agenda of the current General Assembly.

The liquidation of colonialism has moved apace since the end of World War II, and in the opinion of many delegates here, it is a process still continuing—despite events in Eastern Europe and in the Middle East.

Events in both current crisis areas were described today by the head of the Yugoslavian delegation, Dr. Joza Brilej, as "growing pains of a new world alignment." As colonialism—both the Western and the Communist variety—dies, the world adjusts painfully.

The British and French invasion of Egypt was called by Dr. Sudjarwo Tjondronegoro, head of the Indonesian delegation: "The last gasp of old-fashioned colonialism," and many other delegates from all over the world share his opinion.

The British and the French seem to have accepted the fact—however late and ungracefully—that old-fashioned colonialism is not a workable proposition any more. It was the United States policy in opposing the Egyptian adventure that brought the lesson home.

The United States, by every method at its command, is seeking through the U.N. to help bring home to the Soviet Union a similar lesson—that the newer and ruthless Communist colonialism, on display in Hungary, is no more a paying proposition than the old-fashioned variety.

Slowly, members of the increasingly important Asian-African bloc seemed to be moving to the side of the United States in this effort, as seen yesterday, for instance, in the support by a large proportion of the Asian-African bloc for continued consideration by the General Assembly of the Hungarian question.

As world opinion rallies against both varieties of colonialism, the big question unfortunately remained unanswered: How will the Soviet Union respond?

LOAN GROUP OPPOSES U.S. HOME FINANCING

Resolution Warns of Pressure on Congress for Housing Programs.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14 (AP)—The United States Savings and Loan League went on record today as opposing direct home loans by the Federal Government.

The league lists a membership of 4300 savings associations a resolution adopted at its weeklong convention said that with a decline in both home building and the supply of mortgage money, the league expected pressure on the incoming Congress "for the authorization of direct Government lending for housing."

"The distortion of market forces by the use of billions of dollars of public credit and by political decisions to build on a substantial scale for special classes in our society would run counter to the interests of the great majority of our citizens who must depend on the existence of a strong private enterprise credit system for the building and owning of their homes."

The pressures the league foresaw for on Congress would, it said, probably take the form of "proposals for the use of federal state or local Government funds to finance immense housing programs for special groups, such as middle-income families and elderly persons . . ."

The league today elected Roy M. Marr of Memphis, Tenn., its president. Marr, vice president the past year, succeeds Walter H. Freier of Evansville, Ind. He is succeeded as vice president by Joseph Holzka of Staten Island, N. Y.

Yesterday the league was told by Kenneth G. Baily of Waynesburg, Pa. It was possible credit might be tightened further before any relaxation. Tight credit to control inflationary pressures, he said, would be the most serious problem facing business in the first half of 1957.

EFFECTIVE CONGRESS GROUP REPORTS ON ITS SPENDING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—The National Committee for an Effective Congress said yesterday it distributed $157,989 to candidates in the recent election.

The committee, a private group, said a third of the money was raised through advertisements signed by commentator Elmer Davis and poet Archibald MacLeish.

It said it indorsed 13 candidates for the Senate and House, of whom 10 were elected. Senate — Frank Church (Dem., Idaho, John Sherman Cooper (Rep., Kentucky, Wayne Morse (Dem., Oregon, and Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wisconsin. House —William H. Ayres (Rep., Ohio, James G. Fulton (Rep., Pennsylvania, John W. Heselton (Rep., Massachusetts, Eugene McCarthy (Dem., Minnesota, Gracie Pfost (Dem., Idaho, and Hugh Scott (Rep., Pennsylvania. It did not name the three candidates who were defeated.

BRAZIL FIRST LATIN NATION TO OWN AIRCRAFT CARRIER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 14 (AP) — Naval authorities say Brazil has won the race to become the first Latin American nation to own an aircraft carrier.

They said Brazil paid Britain $2,080,000 for an escort carrier that will handle 36 planes. Both Brazil and Argentina have been reported trying to buy a United States carrier.

PHILADELPHIA PAY DEMAND

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14 (AP)—About 5000 police, firemen and park guards with members of their families marched on City Hall yesterday to support demands for more pay and shorter hours. They were not in uniform.

Top scale for patrolmen and firemen now is $4500 a year for a 48-hour week. They are asking for a $1000 increase and a 40-hour week. Mayor Richardson Dilworth's proposed budget offers them $4320 and 44 hours.

West Europe Pours Out Millions To Help Hungarian Refugees

Mountains of Medicine, Food and Clothing Sent From Free World and More Is on Way.

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP)—A veteran welfare worker looked at the small mountain of Hungarian relief supplies filling the Red Cross office in London and shook her head in wonder.

"It has been a long time since England saw anything like this," she said. "Certainly not since the East coast floods of 1953."

Throughout western Europe, welfare workers are telling the same story. The free world, they say, is sending the shirt off its back and the ring off its finger to help Hungarian refugees and other victims of last week's Russian repression.

More than $10,000,000 in money has been given or pledged in voluntary contributions, and the amount is rising by the hour.

Thousands of tons of medicine, food, clothing and other supplies have already been sent to Budapest or points along the Hungarian border. A vast backlog of additional supplies is clogging relief depots throughout western Europe.

Dozens of organizations, ranging from state governments to elementary school classes, have pledged assistance to the wounded and homeless in the revolt-torn nation and to the refugees fleeing across its borders.

Asylum for Refugees.

Twelve nations have promised asylum to more than 28,000 refugees. In Belgium alone, welfare workers say the number of offers to adopt Hungarian children exceeds the total number of those who have escaped from the country.

Contributions have been received from Prime Minister and pensioner alike. In England, Sir Winston Churchill gave $2800. French Premier Mollet set next Sunday as nation-wide collection day. Street collectors in London told of old women throwing wedding rings into the brimming baskets.

West German students patrolled streets and shops with boxes marked "Ungarn Hilfe (Hungarian aid)." Few passers-by failed to contribute.

Norwegian students in Oslo, Bergen and Trondheim staged "one day's pay for Hungary" drives, offering to do any chores for 20 kroner ($2.80) a day. Boy Scouts sold "Thank you, Hungary" tickets.

Receipts from all soccer games in Denmark next Sunday will go to Hungarian relief.

The Dutch Ministry for Social Work called on the same emergency machinery set up after disastrous floods hit the nation in 1953.

The Swiss Red Cross sent almost all its reserve blood plasma supply to Hungary. The international headquarters of the agency at Geneva said it was so overwhelmed with offers of assistance that no calculation of the total offers was possible.

The French Red Cross said its Hungarian relief fund was growing at a rate of several million francs an hour. A million francs is worth $2857.

The Lord Mayor of London set up a national Hungarian relief fund and pledged a million pounds ($2,800,000) within a fortnight. Oxford University undergraduates raised $12,000 for a scholarship fund and pledged to bring as many refugee students to England as possible.

The pontifical relief organization in Rome and the Italian Red Cross sent truck and airplane loads of medicine and clothing. The Government rushed plans for housing $1000 Hungarian children in Italian schools.

The Belgian Government proposed the Parliament raise 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 francs ($300,000 to $400,000) for Hungarian relief. The Belgian Socialist party launched its own appeal.

Separate funds were organized in Switzerland by newspapers, trade unions, church groups, student organizations and political parties.

Children Reach Sweden.

The total collected by a half-dozen relief funds in Sweden pushed past the million-dollar mark as the first refugee children arrived in that country from Hungary.

Countries making specific offers to accept Hungarian refugees included:

Argentina 3000 orphans, Australia 3000, Belgium 3000, West Germany 3000, Italy 2000, The Netherlands 1000, New Zealand 500, Rhodesia 50 unaccompanied children, Sweden 1000, Switzerland 4000, Britain 2500, and the United States 5000.

Offers of asylum for an unspecified number of refugees came from Canada, Chile, Denmark, France, Norway, Portugal and Spain.

The Church of England Assembly expressed "profound shock" at the Soviet attack on Hungary and urged clergymen throughout the country to give all they can to Hungarian relief funds.

TWO MEN REACH SHORE AFTER 5 DAYS IN BOAT

BELLEAIR BEACH, Fla., Nov. 14 (UP)—Two tired men reached shore yesterday after five days in a small boat in which they escaped from a sinking yacht.

Sam Whitman, town marshal of Belleair Beach, and Leon Hance, a television technician from Mobile, Ala., rowed ashore near Cross City, Fla. Although weak from hunger, both were in good physical condition.

Whitman said his troubles began early Friday morning "when I heard water gurgling" in the yacht Aquabelle. The 40-foot yacht sank minutes later.

The two men grabbed blankets, life preservers, jars of water and a piece of tarpaulin and jumped into the dinghy.

SEC CHIEF CITES RISE IN PHONY STOCK SALES

Estimates Victims of 6 New York 'Boiler Rooms' Lost $15,000,000.

PELHAM, N.Y., Nov. 14 (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission this year has cracked down on six high pressure or "boiler room" stock sales operations in New York City, Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong said last night.

Armstrong estimated that victims of these operations lost $15,000,000 or more.

In a speech at the Pelham Men's Club, the SEC chief said there has been an upsurge this year in New York City and in Canada in efforts of unscrupulous promoters to defraud investors.

"Many of these telephone campaigns (to sell stocks) are conducted by salesmen located in Canada where they operate safely behind a wall of legal immunity" in selling questionable securities to American investors, Armstrong said.

However, he added, "most of the 'boiler rooms' that have sprung up in the past few months are operated right in New York City."

"Boiler room" is the term applied to the offices of questionable stock salesmen who make broad-scale, high pressure sales appeals. Armstrong said:

"In six 'boiler room' broker-dealer firms, all located in New York, some 9,000,000 shares of highly speculative stock, mostly concentrated in four securities of which three were Canadian oils, were sold to approximately 24,000 people throughout the United States by telephone over periods ranging from one to eight months during 1956.

"These six houses received aggregate proceeds from such securities of over $30,000,000 during the period, and realized gross profits of almost $4,500,000. The aggregate telephone bills of these six houses was in excess of $425,000.

"The average record of such 'investments' indicates estimated losses as of Oct. 26, of approximately 50 per cent of the cost of the individual purchasers."

He did not identify the stocks but said SEC has suspended trading in them and has begun action to determine whether the suspension should be made permanent.

HOOD'S BRIGADE VETERAN MARKS 114TH BIRTHDAY

FRANKLIN, Tex., Nov. 14 (AP)—Walter W. Williams, forage master in Hood's Texas Brigade in the Civil War, marked his 114th birthday today.

His family canceled the usual celebration because of the illness of his second wife, 83.

Williams is the nation's oldest living ex-soldier and one of three surviving Confederates. He once said he wanted to live to be 125.

Two weeks ago he put on his gold-braided Confederate uniform to receive a gold medal awarded to all living Civil War veterans by the Eighty-fourth Congress.

He has been confined to a wheel chair for several years and is blind and hard of hearing. His family says he spends most of his time sitting on the front porch of his daughter's farm home 14 miles east of here.

IRISH-BORN CABBIE WINS $64,000 QUIZ ON ENGLISH WORDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (UP)—An Irish-born cab driver won $64,000 on a television quiz program last night when he demonstrated his mastery of the English language.

Thomas J. Kane, 49-year-old bachelor from Lockport, N.Y., won the top prize on "The $64,000 Question."

Kane was required to make from the letters contained in the name "Eisenhower" eight words to fit definitions read by master ceremonies Hal March.

The taxi driver was assisted by David Guralnik, a lexicographer and editor in chief of a dictionary publishing firm.

The words and definitions were: The smallest mammal, shrew; an evening party, soiree a willow whose twigs are used for furniture, osier; utopian novel, "Erehwon"; a Greek temple, hieron; wide-mouth pitchers, ewers; a large fishing net, seine, and a frame used to dry skins, herse.

Postage Stamps Honor Grace Kelly

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (E.N.) —According to a report heard over WQXR, the radio station of the New York Times, the Counsel General of Monaco reports "the Grace Kelly wedding stamps are completely sold out." — However, these stamps may be obtained from the Elmont Stamp Co.

Because the wedding set has evoked a lively interest in stamps of Monaco, Elmont's Paris Office has prepared a collection containing the Grace Kelly set of five, the Prince Rainier enthronement set of six stamps, the Bosio art set and the large sized diamond Olympic set; a total of 22 mint stamps for just $1.00 to introduce Elmont's approval service.

BUS SEGREGATION SUITS LIKELY IN OTHER STATES

Supreme Court Ruling Against Alabama Laws Does Not Affect Them, They Say.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (UP) —Further legal action appeared likely today to delay an end to segregated seating on busses in the South despite the ruling by the United States Supreme Court yesterday that bus segregation laws in Alabama are unconstitutional.

The decision apparently would apply in principle to other states, but does not rule out segregated seating by the carriers themselves.

Alabama State Senator Sam Engelhardt, executive secretary of the White Citizens Councils of Alabama, said "the people of Alabama are not going to put up with integration."

Immediately after the Supreme Court decision was handed down President C. C. (Jack) Owen of the Alabama Public Service Commission announced a plan under which intrastate carriers would continue to segregate Negroes in order to preserve "public peace."

Not Involved, Florida Says.

In Florida, State Attorney General Richard Ervin said the decision would have no bearing on his state "until direct suit is brought against our laws and city ordinances."

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he was "hopeful that the majority of communities throughout the South will fall in line" now that "the Supreme Court has spoken."

By the Associated Press.

The Governors of Mississippi and Georgia, United States and State Senators and other officials were among those criticizing the decision.

A caravan of about 40 carloads of robed Ku Klux Klan members toured Negro residential areas of Montgomery, Ala., last night, horns blowing, but police said they had no reports of violence.

Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi said that his state's segregation laws "are not involved" in the decision and would still be enforced.

Alabama's senior Senator, Lister Hill, said "every lawful means to set aside the ruling" should be used.

Talmadge for Court Curb.

Herman Talmadge, Senator-elect of Georgia, called again for congressional limitation of the Supreme Court's power. He said the decision did not surprise him "in view of decisions made recently."

Georgia's Gov. Marvin Griffin said his state would oppose application of the decision by all legal means. His Attorney General, Eugene Cook, noted that the decision does not directly affect Georgia.

An intention "to outlaw separate but equal facilities in every phase of our life" was seen in the decision by the chairman of the Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, Senator W. M. Rainach.

NEGROES APPEAL BAR ON CAR POOL

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 14 (AP)—Montgomery Negroes hoped today they were near the end of their bus boycott in their fight against bus segregation.

But they turned back to United States District Court for the right to continue their own transportation system as long as the boycott goes on.

They appealed to Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. to prohibit city authorities from interfering with the car pool the Negroes have used for 11 months while refusing to ride segregated city busses.

The city obtained a temporary injunction in state court yesterday to halt the motor pool until further notice. Circuit Judge Eugene Carter granted the restraining order although the United States Supreme Court had outlawed bus segregation earlier in the day.

Negro lawyers challenged the state court's jurisdiction yesterday because the appeal to federal court was already on file before the city went into court with its injunction request.

Both in their petition in United States court and in arguments before Carter yesterday, the Negroes said that any interference with their car pool operations—which they described as purely voluntary—would violate their civil and constitutional rights.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the boycott-supporting Montgomery Improvement Association, said a mass meeting would be held tonight. While empasizing that he could not speak for all the members of his race, King said he felt certain the Negroes would vote to patronize Montgomery City Lines busses again now that the segregation laws have been knocked out.

The city commission, at whose request Carter issued the injunction, declined to comment on the Supreme Court decision. All three commissioners are members of the pro-segregation White Citizens Council.

King hailed the ruling as "a glorious daybreak to end a long night of enforced segregation."

It came more than 11 months after the start of the boycott Dec. 5, a protest which became the first mass use of economic force in the South since the Supreme Court ruled against public school segregation 30 months ago.

DIES OF INJURIES SUFFERED IN COLLISION WITH BROTHER

KENNETT, Mo., Nov. 14 (AP) —R. A. Bowling, 50 years old, died in a hospital here today of injuries suffered in a head-on automobile collision with a car driven by his brother.

Police said Bowling, of Kennett, was a passenger in a taxicab driven by Clifford Davis, 33, which swerved to avoid a car parked on the highway without lights last night.

The cab and an approaching car driven by Altus Bowling, 47, brother of the victim, collided. Altus Bowling and Davis both were injured.

20-YEAR RAINFALL ENOUGH FOR NEEDS

Nation's Problem Mainly Unequal Distribution of Supply Expert Says.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 14 (AP) — An Interior Department official says rainfall will more than meet the nation water needs for the next 20 years, but the problem is to circumvent unequal distribution.

Roy W. Morse, director of the technical review staff of the Interior Secretary, said that "water supply problems will have to be worked out on a local watershed basis" with some federal help.

Daily Demand.

In a speech to the engineering and sanitation section of the American Public Health Association convention, Morse said daily water demand in the United States now is about 250 billion gallons.

"This figure will double in the next 20 years," he said, adding that "with adequate planning, this future over-all demand can be met."

Rainfall provides about 1145 billion gallons daily in an average year, he said, but "the unequal distribution of water will continue to plague us."

Morse said that rainmaking—using artificial means to produce precipitation—is not the solution. Results are too erratic to relieve water shortages in drouth-stricken areas, he said.

Hope for Future.

But he said there is hope in the use of salt water converters, distillers, and freezers.

Morse said the presidential advisory committee on water resources policy has recommended a middle course on federal control of water supply, concluding that "while it was desirable to have over-all national policies, where feasible, the water problems could best be solved in co-operation with the states and other local interests."

ST. JOSEPH, Nov. 14 (AP)—A man who votes in rural Buchanan county tells this story:

He went to the polls last Tuesday, marked his ballot, and asked where the container for the ballots was. A judge told him they didn't have one handy, adding "Just give me your ballot."

The voter complied. The judge opened the ballot up, and remarked to others in the polling place:

REWARD OFFERED IN EXPLOSION AT DONIPHAN PLANT

DONIPHAN, Mo., Nov. 14 (AP)—A $1000 reward was offered yesterday by a Doniphan citizens committee for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a plastics plant bomber.

The Vitronic plant of the Wright Leather Co., scene of a strike for about three months, was bombed the night of Nov. 8, the same night shotgun charges were fired into the homes of three families where wives are employed at the plant.

G. C. Garrison, chairman of the citizens committee which was formed after the incidents, said negotiations are to be resumed tomorrow in an effort to end the strike.

About 50 plant employes, members of the Meat Cutter and Leather Workers Union, have been on strike against the plant which has continued to operate. They are seeking higher wages. The plant has a total of 85 employes.

ACTION IN EGYPT TOO LATE, SAYS MENDES-FRANCE

He Asserts Arab World Has Been Solidified and Nasser's Prestige Enhanced.

PARIS, Nov. 14 (UP)—Former French Premier Mendes-France last night attacked the government's handling of the Suez crisis. It was the first major criticism by a French political leader.

The Radical-Socialist deputy told a meeting of his party here that the British-French action in Egypt came too late and that it has solidified the Arab world against France.

He warned that the campaign would have "serious repercussions" in Algeria, where France has been trying for two years to wipe out an Arab rebellion.

Mendes-France said he "regretted" that the results of the military action in Egypt had been met with such optimism by French Premier Mollet.

"The fact is," said Mendes-France, "that in the eyes of the Arab world Egypt's President (Gamal Abdel) Nasser is an invincible man who has taken the head of a powerful coalition."

Mendes-France said that in announcing nationalization of the Suez canal last July, Nasser made it perfectly clear he was doing so to "defy the West."

"In the presence of such a threat," Mendes-France added, "I for my part would have approved an immediate reply. But that moment has been allowed to pass. . . . The Arab world gained the impression of being victorious, and the prestige of Nasser was thus increased."

"Three months after that show of force (Nasser's seizure of the canal), the problem could not be the same in every aspect, and it was evident that the Franco-British military action could not help but meet with the disavowal of the great majority of the other nations," Mendes-France continued.

Mendes-France, who was French premier from June 1954 until early 1955, told the Radical-Socialist gathering the landing of French and British troops on Egyptian soil "seems like fresh evidence to the Moslems of France's hostility."

Mendes-France said he favored a Big Four "peace conference." He said France could "play a role" in such a get together and would make its voice heard.

REDS' WEAKNESS REVEALED, SAYS ALLEN DULLES

CIA Head Asserts Result of Uprisings in Hungary, Poland Surprised Kremlin.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (UP)—Central Intelligence director Allen W. Dulles said today that the Polish and Hungarian uprisings revealed Soviet weaknesses which surprised both the Kremlin leaders and the free world.

The suppression of the Hungarian revolution by the Russian army suggests, Dulles said, that "we may be back again to the days of ruthless Stalinism."

Dulles said in a speech to the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities that the Soviet dictatorship contains the seeds of its own destruction.

"The gravest danger which a Communist dictatorship faces today," Dulles said, "is the uprising of youth against tyranny. No amount of Communist indoctrination and Marxist education has served to alter the basic urge to assert the right of free expression."

Dulles said many in the free world, as well as the men in the Kremlin, have been overimpressed by Russia's obviously great armed might. What happened in Poland and Hungary revealed weaknesses "which many even in the free world did not anticipate."

Thought They Were Safe.

The Soviet rulers, he said, must have figured that the satellites after 10 years of "iron discipline" were safe under control.

But "by their ardent pursuit of freedom, youths in Poland, Hungary, and elsewhere" are proving they prefer freedom to tyranny, Dulles said.

Dulles said the hardest job of the Central Intelligence Agency is to discover another country's intentions. In the case of Hungary, he said, the United States knew what forces the Russians could use if they decided, as they did, "to take the course of ruthless repression."

At first, the Russians indicated a tolerant attitude toward the Hungarian revolt and, Dulles said, "it seemed that a miracle had happened."

But the men in the Kremlin "reached the conclusion that their control not only in Hungary but throughout the whole Soviet domain was at stake."

Lead of U.S. Whittled.

Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles told the meeting that Russia has whittled away America's technological lead until it now has a "rough numerical equality" in scintific and technical manpower. He called for something like "wartime emphasis" on the United States technological needs.

Quarles noted at the end of World War II, the United States had a very large lead in technology and industrial development over Russia.

But he said Russia "must now be credited with a rough numerical equality with us in scientific and technical manpower."

He said the trend is particularly disturbing because the Soviets have been willing to concentrate "a very large part" of their technical and industrial effort on "the development and production" of the most advanced instruments of war.

"They have devoted to this effort a much larger fraction of their national economy than a democracy like ours considers advisable," he said.

Witnesses Balk at Telling of Communist Membership, Immigration Activity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Eleven witnesses refused yesterday to answer most questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

All invoked the Constitution's Fifth Amendment against self incrimination. Some also named the First Amendment on free speech, and one added the Ninth Amendment on rights reserved to the people.

The questions concerned Communist party membership and activities on immigration matters.

The committee started an inquiry this week into what Chairman Francis Walter (Dem.), Pennsylvania, described as "Communist political subversion" against security and Communist control laws of the United States.

A twelfth witness, John Lautner of Washington, said he had been a Communist party member from 1929 to 1950.

"The Communist party at all times tried to tear down any and all laws that gave protection, that gave security to the United States," Lautner said. He said that the Reds used front organizations as "transmission belts" to push their cause.

Called 'Paid Informer.'

Two of the witnesses called Lautner "a paid informer" in their testimony. They were Carl Marzani and Mrs. Frances Damon Williams, both of New York.

Mrs. Williams said she had attended various conferences of the World Federation of Democratic Youth, including one in Moscow. She declined to answer when asked whether she was a Communist.

Marzani declined to answer when asked if he was a member of the Communist party or had been while he worked for the State Department at one time prior to 1949.

Marzani testified he had been imprisoned from 1949 to the middle of 1951 on a charge of "false statement." He said he was "framed" by questions similar to those put to him at today's hearing.

Frank Ilchek, New York City, declined to say if he had been connected with the American Committee for the Foreign Born. He was not questioned about Communist party membership.

Communist Since 1941.

Irving Novick, New York City, testified he held different positions with the Foreign Born Committee from the early 1930s to 1942. He said he had not been a member of the Communist party since 1941, but declined to say about the previous time.

Other witnesses were Charles Musil, New York City; Russ Nixon, New York City, who said he was Washington representative of United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America; Miss Emma Louise Mally, who said she was a writer from New York City; Hugh Mulzac, Jamaica, Long Island, N.Y., who said he had been a ship's captain; Alec Jones, New York City; Mrs. Mona Schneider Jones, who is Alec Jones' wife and a recreational therapist at a New York hospital; and Belle Bellynson, New York City.

MISSOURI JOBLESS CLAIMS ROSE $114,055 IN OCTOBER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14—A total of $1,576,973 in unemployment insurance claims were paid in October by the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Director Gordon P. Weir reported today. This was $114,055 more than was paid in the preceding month and $382,891 more than paid in October 1955.

Payments last month represented 81,861 weeks of compensable unemployment, an increase of 29.32 per cent over the comparable period of last year. Initial claims last month totaled 27,043, as compared to 18,533 in October 1955.

The average weekly benefit last month was for $19.26, a decrease of 31 cents from the average amount in September.

MRS. LUCE WARNS AGAINST 'MUNICH' IN MIDDLE EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Clare Boothe Luce, United States Ambassador to Italy, said today that "if we go to another Munich with Soviet Russia in the Middle East, a third World War will become inevitable."

She said she was for "a firm American foreign policy in the Middle East, seeking to find a just peace and satisfying all the legitimate desires and aspirations of both Israel and Egypt."

Mrs. Luce arrived by plane from Rome and said she would be in the United States for 10 days to two weeks for routine consultations. She said she planned to go to Washington within the next two days.

20 NAVY SHIPS PUT TO SEA IN EMERGENCY DEPLOYMENT

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 14 (AP)—Two aircraft carriers, a cruiser and 20 destroyers left Pacific Coast ports yesterday for emergency deployment, First Fleet headquarters said.

The carriers Shangri-La and Yorktown sailed through San Francisco's Golden Gate after loading planes at Alameda Naval Air Station. The cruiser Helena sailed from Long Beach, along with the destroyer divisions. Two destroyer divisions sailed from here. Destinations of the ships were not disclosed.

Secretary May Have to Fight for His Political Life at Party Central Committee Meeting.

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP) — The meeting in Moscow next month of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee can turn into a trial of Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The First Secretary of the party may have to fight for his political life.

Certainly he will be called upon to defend his advice to the satellite party chieftains—made at the twentieth party congress — that there are more roads than one to Communism.

Western diplomats report that his enemies on the Central Committee, and there are said to be several, hold Khrushchev responsible for the Poznan uprising, the growing anti-Soviet sentiment in Poland and Hungary's struggle for freedom.

Foes of Khrushchev.

One belief is that Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov and Marshal Ivan Konev have turned against Khrushchev. Their feeling reportedly is that his relatively lenient policies have led to a weakening of the satellite military alliance, creating soft spots in the defense system along Russia's long western front.

The military has been in ascendancy over the secret police, discredited by the execution of police boss L. P. Beria in late 1953, and some students of Soviet Affairs say the army is getting as strong as the party.

Other westerners, however, say that this is wishful thinking. They contend the Communist party is still the supreme master of even such resolute military leaders as Zhukov and Konev.

Certainly their deferential actions around the top men of the Kremlin indicate that they are not only servants of the party, but are desperately afraid of the party big shots.

Purge Remembered.

Zhukov and Konev must still remember Stalin's ruthless purge of the army generals in the 1930's—a purge that sent many commanders to their death and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky to prison.

Rokossovsky was released at the beginning of World War II and was the undisputed military boss in Poland until the events that returned Wladyslaw Gomulka to party power last month.

Khrushchev, it appears, has more to fear from such men as Premier Bulganin, former Premier Georgi Malenkov, old Communist V. M. Molotov, and Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan, than from the army.

Western diplomats who hoped that time and Russian's slowly improving internal economy might soften the Kremlin's attitude to the satellites and the West are having second thoughts.

They agree that the big party meeting next month could mean trouble for Khrushchev and a complete return to the grim, unbending policies of the Stalin era, or worse.

The meeting, which was to have taken place this month, has been postponed until the latter part of December.

PLENTY OF FISH FOUND IN DESERT'S SALTON SEA

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14 (UP) — California's newest fisherman's cove is the Salton sea, located in the arid Imperial desert in Southern California.

The Salton sea, California's largest inland body of water, was created in 1905 by diverting part of the Colorado river into a large depression, 280 feet below sea level.

The California Fish and Game Commission has seeded the inland sea with various types of fish and six species now are found in quantity in the water.

The largest found there is the covina, a native of the Gulf of California and much like California sea bass. More than 100 covinas, weighing up to 16 pounds, have been caught in the last year.

Most abundant fish in the sea is the gulf croaker, an excellent pan fish.

CLEANLINESS OF BOTTLES TESTED BY RADIOISOTOPES

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Nov. 14 (UP)—Scientists at Cornell University are chasing germs with radio-isotopes to see if containers used in milk processing really come clean when they are washed.

A report to a dairy industry conference says radioisotopes offer a highly sensitive and accurate means of testing cleanability of various surface finishes. Bacteria are "tagged" with radioactive phosphorus and put in milk containers. After the containers are washed, remaining germs may be measured to see if the equipment is completely clean.

HOT PAINT USED ON ROADS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 14 (AP) — New highway striping equipment which applies hot paint to highways, is now being used by the Oregon State Highway Department.

The paint is heated right in the machine and reaches the road at approximately 160 degrees. The dying time of the paint is also speeded up in this machine.

MANUFACTURER, 72, CASHING IN ON VENTURE BEGUN AT 60

AUBURN, N.Y., Nov. 14 (UP) Success came late in life to 72-year-old Herbert A. Cook.

Twelve years ago he started with little capital and bought a garage which he turned into a manufacturing plant for plastic tubing.

Recently Cook announced a $100,000 expansion program for his Genesee Laboratory Inc., which employs 14 persons.

Cook, president and treasurer of the firm, said he decided when he was 60 years old he had "too much experience to hop on the shelf and relax."

VOTING INQUIRY BEGUN INTO FOUR CONGRESS RACES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—A special House campaign investigating committee is eyeing election results in four congressional districts.

The committee, headed by Representative Clifford Davis (Dem.), Tennessee, has received only one formal complaint of irregularities. That came from New York's Seventeenth District where incumbent Frederic R. Coudert, Republican, nosed out Anthony B. Akers, Democrat, by 3069 votes, a canvas showed yesterday. Akers has filed a complaint charging the use of "scurrilous and false" literature against him, including allegations that he was supported by the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper.

He also complained that pictures of professional models and fictitious testimonials were used against him.

When Akers first voiced his protest, Coudert immediately caused a stoppage of the material objected to and said he had no prior knowledge of its distribution by his supporters.

The committee has sent an observer to Iowa to oversee the official canvass of votes in the Fourth and Sixth districts. The committee acted at the request of two Democrats, Steven V. Carter, who trailed incumbent Karl M. Lecompte, Republican, by 1300 votes in the unofficial tally, and Merwin Coade, who led incumbent James I. Dolliver, Republican, by 203 votes.

Neither of the two Democrats filed formal complaints, although both cited alleged irregularities.

The committee also is acting as "observer" in the Sept. 10 election in Maine's First Congressional District. The incumbent, Robert Hale, Republican, won by a tentative official count of 29 votes. Democrats are challenging many ballots, including those cast by absentee voters.

SENATOR CLEMENTS LIKELY TO HEAD CAMPAIGN GROUP

MORGANFIELD, Ky., Nov. 14 (AP)—Senator Earle C. Clements said today he had reached no definite decision although he has been asked to become executive director of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee. Clements indicated, however, that he would accept the job.

Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson said in Washington he had invited the defeated Kentucky Democrat to take the post.

If Clements accepts, he is expected to take over when his Senate term expires in January.

His chief duties would be to work for the election of Democratic Senators two years from now. But Johnson also said he would expect Clements to aid him in all phases of Senate work.

MISSIONARY'S BABY DIES AFTER ALASKAN BOAT WRECK

VALDEZ, Alaska, Nov. 14 (AP) — A missionary's infant son was reported to have perished on an isolated Alaskan beach after a boat wreck. His father was listed as missing.

Kenneth Scoggins, a school teacher, reported the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kelly died of exposure after the family was cast ashore in bone-chilling weather. Kelly was unreported after setting out in a skiff in search for help.

Scoggins said Mrs. Kelly, a 3-year-old daughter and a native youth survived four days and nights without food or shelter. He said they were found Monday and taken to a coastal village. The family met disaster on the way to a church conference.

RUSSIA CHARGES AUSTRIA FAVORS HUNGARY REBELS

MOSCOW, Nov. 14 (AP)—Izvestia accused Austria today of siding with anti-Soviet forces in Hungary.

The Soviet government newspaper said Austria professes neutrality, "but unfortunately the facts show that certain actions of certain circles of Austrian authorities in connection with events in Hungary did not contribute to the strengthening of Austrian neutrality."

The United States warned Nov. 6 it would consider "a grave threat to the peace" any attempt to violate the territorial integrity and internal sovereignty of Austria.

The State Department set forth that view in denouncing a Soviet charge in the United Nations that persons sponsored by the United States and operating from Austria had supported the anti-Communist revolt in Hungary.

FRENCH FORCES REPORT KILLING 74 ALGERIA REBELS

ALGIERS, Nov. 14 (UP)—French and Algerian soldiers killed at least 74 rebels yesterday in a fresh outbreak of fighting, French military sources said today.

Terrorist activity throughout Algeria yesterday brought death to 11 Moslems and Europeans and injuries to at least three others.

Heaviest fighting was reported south of Algiers, where French forces in battalion strength killed 53 rebel bandits. Four separate actions were reported in the general area of Bou Saada, 125 miles southeast of Algiers.

JAPANESE FIRM GIVES UP ON U.S.-STYLE BUILDINGS

TOKYO, Nov. 14 (AP) — The streamlined American type building that became so popular in Japan after the war just will not work in this country, says Takenaka Komuten Co., a leading construction firm.

The company says Japan may have to go back to its old way of building. It reports the streamlined United States-style building cracks, swells, bulges and rusts in Japan's wet climate.

Target for Pickets

AMMONIA THROWN AT PRO-RED RALLY

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Jeering anti-Soviet pickets hurled ammonia-filled bottles, tomatoes, eggs and sticks last night at the entrance to a rally of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. No one was injured.

Negro singer Paul Robeson and controversial Brooklyn Rector William Howard Melish were special targets of the pickets.

About 200 demonstrators, most of them Hungarians and Hungarian-Americans, banded together outside the hall where the rally was held.

They shouted "Freedom for Hungary!" and "America will never be friends with murders!" as hundreds of persons entered the building.

The pickets also booed other persons going into the building for meetings that had no connection with the rally of the American-Soviet group.

More than 250 patrolmen, mounted police and detectives kept the placard-waving demonstrators in check.

Policemen flanked Robeson when he arrived. A bottle of ammonia was flung toward him but splattered harmlessly on the pavement close by.

Loud boos also greeted the Rev. Mr. Melish when he arrived. The clergyman has been accused by some members of his congregation of holding allegedly left-wing views. The clergyman, rector of Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, has repeatedly denied any Communist link.

The rally was called to mark the thirty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Union and the twenty-third anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia.

In his speech Robeson hailed the achievements of the Soviet Union.

The Rev. Mr. Melish said Americans must strive to achieve peaceful coexistence and friendship with the Soviet Union. He mentioned Soviet "armed coercion" in Hungary, however, and deplored operations and defects of the Soviet system.

HUNGARY ACTION SHAKES REDS IN BRITAIN, FRANCE

5 Union Leaders Quit British Party—French Workers Ignore Call for Strikes.

LONDON, Nov. 14 (UP)—Britain's small Communist party, plagued by mass resignations and demands for dissolution from within its own ranks, faced its most serious crisis today.

Five trade union leaders who had been considered part of the hard core of party support resigned yesterday over the issue of Soviet brutality in Hungary.

The crisis in the party was brought on by a resolution submitted by three trade union officials calling for dissolution of the party "in the interests of unity of those forces which want to achieve Socialism through Britain's parliamentary system."

The resolution was immediately rejected.

Special Meeting Called.

Instead, party leaders decided to convene a special national congress next Easter to try to stem the revolt. The object of this, apparently, was to give the storm time to die down, but some observers predicted that Easter may be too late.

The three party members who submitted the resolution resigned. They were Leslie Cannon, education chief of the Electrical Trades Union; Jack Grahl, assistant general secretary of the Fire Brigades Union, and Leo Keely, regional executive of the Fire Brigades Union.

Other leaders who quit were John Horner, general secretary of the Fire Brigades Union, and Alec Moffat, a district secretary of the Scottish Mineworkers Union.

John Gollan, Stalinist secretary of the British Communist party, ran into trouble last in Cowes, on the Isle of Wight, when he tried to make a speech. Students broke up the meeting and chased him through the streets shouting, "throw him in the river." He took refuge in a police station.

'Red Dean' Center of Uproar.

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, "Red Dean" of Canterbury, was the center of an uproar in Durham. Seven students carrying a coffin draped with the Hungarian flag marched into a meeting while he was speaking.

"This is a tribute to the Hungarian people who died fighting for the freedom of their church and country," one of the students said. The group then marched out as the audience applauded.

New York Times News Service

Meanwhile, in France, the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor almost completely ignored the call of its leaders for demonstrations and work stoppages yesterday. Only a tiny fraction of the estimated 1,000,000 confederation workers responded.

Second Failure.

The call for action by the French Communist party was an attempt to show that workers in France sided with the Soviet Union's suppression of the "Fascist-inspired" revolt in Hungary.

Thus, the Communists failed for the second time to demonstrate this point. Last week, following the attacks here on the Communist headquarters and the party newspaper, L'Humanite, by sympathizers with Hungary, the Communist call for a massive counter-demonstration in Paris ended in a fizzle.

In East Germany, a report that Hungarian workers "faced the counter-revolutionary riots passively," was printed in Neues Deutschland, Communist party newspaper.

The article was the plainest indication released thus far to the East Germans that Hungarian workers did not like Communist rule.

Georg Stibi, a correspondent of the paper, wrote the article from Budapest, that the "passivity" of the workers was due to the fact that they were "embittered by mistakes and grave defects."

He said they lacked clear-headed leadership and power to halt the "counter-revolution and the regime of the white terror." This made the intervention of the Soviet army necessary, he added.

Stibi reported that on his way to Budapest cars with United States, British and French flags were seen driving out of Hungary. In one car was a man whom he described as "Fritz Molden, editor in chief of Die Presse of Vienna who years ago married the daughter of the American espionage chief Allen Dulles."

HAIFA-GAZA RAIL SERVICE

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Haifa-Gaza railway link was re-established yesterday for the first time in eight years when a freight train from northern Israel reached Gaza railway station.

At Gaza station the event was marked by a festive ceremony by Israelis administering the Gaza strip after its seizure from Egypt.

POLISH OFFICIALS TO TOUR U.S. HOUSING DEVELOPMENTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—A five-man Polish housing delegation will arrive Sunday to begin a 30-day nation-wide tour of American housing developments.

The visit has been arranged by the State Department as part of its program of stepping up East-West cultural exchanges.

Poland has agreed, the department said, to permit an American housing group to visit Poland next spring on a similar visit.

Czeslaw Babiniski, deputy Polish minister of construction, will head the delegation whose tour will be arranged by the National Association of Home Builders at the State Department's suggestion.

WANT THINGS? WATCH THE WANT ADS!

The first dream car you can own—not just look at!

MOST ADVANCED DESIGN IN CARS—Gone is the plump, old-fashioned look of most other cars. Bulging curves have given way to bold, clean-cut lines—as dynamic as the latest supersonic plane. And there's new power to match this new beauty—up to 290 horsepower!

THE BIG M FOR '57 WITH DREAM-CAR DESIGN

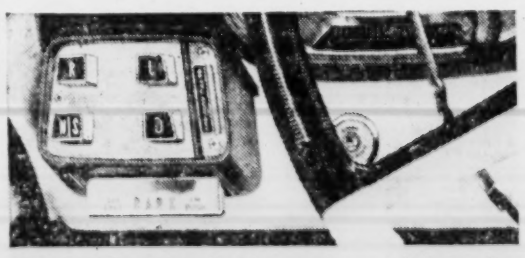
The all-new Mercury packs years of progress in one. It's new from Jet-Flo Bumpers to V-angle Tail-lights, from a Keyboard Control to an exclusive Floating Ride. New size, new weight, new ideas wherever you look!



NEW KEYBOARD CONTROL—No other car makes your driving so effortless. For this new dream-car feature is far more than a push-button transmission. It controls 7 driving operations. Starts engine—controls neutral, drive, low, and reverse—locks the transmission when parked, and even releases Mercury's convenient new Toe-Set Parking Brake.

NEW V-ANGLE TAIL-LIGHTS—A stunning example of Mercury's Dream-Car Design. The dramatic slant of the tail-lights emphasizes the new width, and the new weight, of this bigger-all-over BIG M. Notice, too, the slender sculptured-steel roof, and the Jet-Flo Bumper. The oval design acts like two bumpers—gives both high and low protection.

DREAM-CAR FEATURES EVERYWHERE—A Power-Booster Fan, in the Montclair series, coasts when not needed for engine cooling, saves horsepower other cars waste. The new Floating Ride has a cushioning action you have to feel to believe. But there are dream-car features everywhere you look. Why not see them all, today, at our showroom?

ALL POLICEMEN ORDERED TO KEEP EYE ON DRIVERS

Chief Calls for More Vigilance in Effort to Halt Increase in Fatalities.

In an effort to cut down on the growing number of traffic fatalities and injuries, Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell issued an order yesterday that all officers, regardless of assignment, watch for traffic violations of all kinds.

Eighty-seven persons have been killed in automobile accidents in St. Louis this year, compared with a total of 77 up to this time last year.

"All detectives in plain clothes riding in unmarked cars, all officers in scout cars and cruising patrols and all special squads and details are being ordered to check on traffic violations, especially reckless drivers, speeders and signal light violators, Chief O'Connell said.

"It will be the duty of all officers, no matter what detail, watch or duty, to co-operate in reducing traffic accidents and fatalities.

"When the dead and the injured are added up, they indicate how serious the situation is. With the winter season setting in, the need for curbing careless and reckless driving becomes even more necessary."

At the same time the chief called on drivers and pedestrians to be more careful.

"Unless all persons using the streets and highways co-operate," he said, "the accident rate will continue to go up and more and more people are certain to be injured or killed."

Japanese Demand to Russia.

TOKYO, Nov. 14 (AP)—Japan has asked Russia to release 100 Japanese fishermen and 90 fishing craft seized by Soviet patrol boats in waters off Japan.

TWO FLEE WITH $350 FROM OFFICE HOLDUP

Washington Avenue Finance Firm Looted—Other Robberies.

Three employes of the Famous Finance Co., 3901 Washington boulevard, were held up today by two men, one armed with a shotgun, who took about $350 and fled in an automobile.

William McCown, the manager, told police the men, Negroes, did not speak but motioned him, a clerk and a janitor into the washroom and placed a cabinet against the door. The victims waited until they heard an automobile being driven away, then pushed the door open and discovered the cash drawer looted.

Men similarly armed held up Miss Verlon Brown, cashier for the Employes Loan and Investment Co., 3000A Easton avenue, yesterday and escaped with $400.

One man entered and said he wished to discuss a loan, then drew a revolver. The second man, carrying the shotgun, came in and ordered Miss Brown, a Negro, to "keep quiet."

After taking the contents of the cash drawer, the robbers ordered Miss Brown into a side room and ran to an automobile parked near the office. Miss Brown said the robbers were Negroes.

Four persons were held up last night in a drug store at 4500 Virginia avenue by a man armed with a pistol, who obtained about $200.

Kenneth DeNeal, operator of the store, his wife, Louise, and a 15-year-old messenger boy, Ron Anthony, 4753 Idaho avenue, were in the store when the man entered at 8:45 o'clock and threatened them with the pistol.

He obtained money from the cash register, a cash box, DeNeal's wallet and Mrs. DeNeal's purse, then ordered the DeNeals and the boy to go to the basement. A customer, John Feller, 4525 Idaho avenue, entered the store and was sent to the basement before the robber fled.

A truck of the Star Novelty Co., 4151 Delmar boulevard, was towed away from a parking place in the 4200 block of Delmar boulevard late yesterday. It was found, apparently with the contents intact, today.

Officers of the firm said the truck contained $870 in a locked safe and cigarettes valued at $374. Police found the vehicle in an alley back of the 4200 block of McPherson avenue.

VENEZUELAN BRIDGE FALLS, 5 WORKERS KILLED, 29 HURT

CARCAS, Nov. 14 (AP)—A concrete bridge under construction in downtown Caracas collapsed yesterday, trapping about 40 workers under tons of debris.

Five bodies were removed from the wreckage and a search continued for others. Twenty-nine workers were injured.

The bridge was part of the Venezuelan government's big public works program and was to be opened to traffic next month. The damage was estimated at about $150,000.

ARTHUR BURNS QUITS AS HEAD OF ECONOMIC BOARD

Chairman of President's Advisory Council Gives 'Personal Factors' as Reason.

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—President Eisenhower yesterday accepted "with great reluctance" the resignation of Dr. Arthur F. Burns of New York as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, effective Dec. 1.

The White House announced that Dr. Burns's place as chairman would be taken by Dr. Raymond G. Saulnier of New York, now a member of the council. Dr. Paul W. McCracken of Ann Arbor, Mich., a professor of economics at the University of Michigan, will be given a recess appointment to fill the council vacancy. The other member of the three-man council is Dr. Joseph S. Davis of California.

Burns, a pipe-smoking Austrian-born economist who taught for many years at Rutgers and Columbia, said "personal factors" prompted his resignation. He explained to a reporter he was tired out from the long pressure of official business, having stayed in government at least two more years than he originally had intended.

The economic council has the sensitive task of detecting probable "boom or bust" tendencies in the American economy. Mr. Eisenhower paid high tribute to Burns's role in making the agency "a vital center of economic intelligence."

In talking with a reporter, Burns said he had no immediate plans except to take a holiday "so I can think about what I wish to do in the future." He said he had tried on previous occasions to leave the government but had been dissuaded.

The new chairman, Dr. Saulnier, is a 58-year-old native of Hamilton, Mass., who became an instructor of economics at Columbia in 1934 and a full professor in 1949. He has been a member of the council since 1955, and, before that, was a special adviser to the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The new member of the council, Dr. McCracken, is a 41-year-old native of Richland, Iowa, whose first government post, in 1942 and 1943, was in the Commerce Department. He subsequently served as a financial economist and as director of research for the Federal Reserve Bank at Minneapolis. He has been a professor at Michigan since 1950. The White House said he was a Republican.

The council chairman receives $20,500, and council members $20,000 annually. Nominations must be confirmed by the Senate, and members serve at the pleasure of the President without fixed terms.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU OPENS EXPANSION DRIVE

A campaign to expand the operating budget of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis from $155,000 to $200,000 through increased membership was launched today at a luncheon at Hotel Statler. Powell B. McHaney, president of General American Life Insurance Co., was chosen general chairman.

The campaign, extending through Nov. 30, coincides with the fortieth anniversary of the bureau, a non-profit organization maintained by business firms to raise the standards of business, fight frauds and assist the public in its relations with business.

McHaney pointed out that since 1945, the bureau's "workload has increased 220 per cent, but its income only 30 per cent." The continued growth of the population served by the bureau has caused additional demands which can only be met by an adequate budget, he said.

A. B. BUSSMANN HONORED

A. B. Bussmann, president of Bussmann Manufacturing Co., makers of electrical fuses, received recognition as a pioneer for 50 years in the electrical industry today at the annual convention of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association in Atlantic City, N.J.

Bussmann, 4950 Lindell boulevard, founded his company in 1914. It later became a division of McGraw Electric Co., of which he is vice president and a director.

SHORT ON CASH, U.S. FLOATS LOAN AGAIN

$1,750,200 Issue of Treasury Bills Second Since Oct. 17.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—For the second time within a month, tight credit conditions have caused the Treasury to fall back on short-term special financing to raise cash for current Government operations.

A special issue of $1,750,200,000 in Treasury bills was sold yesterday at discounts equivalent to an interest rate of 2.617 per cent.

This was slightly below the 2.627 rate for a similar issue of special bills put out Oct. 17. At that time the amount of cash raised was $1,600,768,000.

These issues totaling $3,350,968,000 are separate and distinct from the usual weekly offering of bills amounting to around $1,600,000,000 on which the interest rate has been somewhat higher. Proceeds will be used by the Government to meet its operating expenses at a time when tax collections are light.

Heavy tax collections normally do not roll in until March. Therefore, there is the prospect the Treasury may have to refund both these special issues of bills when they come due.

The first issue, dated Oct. 17, will mature Jan. 16. The issue sold yesterday will be dated Nov. 16 and will mature Feb. 15.

One Treasury source said the Government was reluctant to compete for money at this time with long term borrowers, such as home builders and corporations which are in the midst of big plant and equipment expansion programs. Therefore, this source said, the short term method seemed better, even if the two special issues have to be refunded in January.

The Treasury has two other big financial problems just ahead. On Dec. 1 it must decide what to do about $9,083,000,000 in 2⅝ per cent one-year certificates that will be due. And, on Feb. 15, another $7,219,000,000 of 2⅝ per cent certificates will mature. Both probably will have to be refunded.

Liner To Be Scrapped.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Cunard liner Franconia, once a queen of the luxury cruise trade, completed its last voyage to New York yesterday. The line has announced plans to scrap the Franconia after it makes the return trip to England.

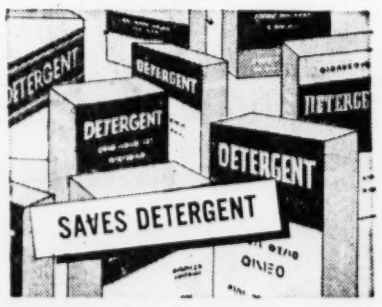
World's "Savingest" Washer

Clothes last longer—thanks to Frigidaire Rub-Free Washing Action. Only suds-charged water moves the clothes—no wear and tear of rubbing. Washes faster—does 3 loads while most washers do only 2.

Because no filter is needed. Frigidaire Float-Over Wash and Rinse literally float even the tiniest particles of dirt, scum and lint out of the tub and down the drain automatically.

Spins pounds more water out of clothes than any other washer, with Frigidaire Rapidry Spin. Clothes are lighter to lift, faster to dry, less electricity is used.



As much as ¼ cup per wash-load less is needed because a Frigidaire Washer uses less water. This adds up to a saving of 21 good-sized boxes of detergent in a year.

Now you can cut your wash costs to the bone. This amazing Frigidaire Automatic Washer actually saves up to 9 gallons of hot water with every load you do. You can actually wash and rinse a load of clothes with as little as 3½ gallons of hot water!

That's only the beginning. These '57 Frigidaire beauties are the "savingest" washers ever built—on detergent, time, clothes, money. And you've never seen clothes washed so clean, so fast, so safely—entirely without rubbing!

U.S. SHOWS 'CONCERN' OVER GULF SHOOTING

Wants to Get Full Facts on Mexican Gunfire Against Shrimp Boat.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —The United States was reported disturbed today at use of gunfire by a Mexican patrol boat Monday night against a Texas shrimp boat and the wounding of its captain.

Officially, the State Department said only that "the department is concerned, and anxious to get the full facts" about the incident in the Gulf of Mexico.

It was learned, however, that the United States, on the basis of available information, questions whether use of force was justified in the new outbreak of trouble between Mexican naval craft and United States fishing vessels.

A department press officer said the Texas boat, the Pescadora, has been released at Tampico, Mexico, by Mexican authorities and is returning to Brownsville, Tex.

He said "the department is trying to determine the precise circumstances of the incident and . . . probably will be several days before all the facts can be put together."

A major point to be determined is just where the Mexican gunboat began its pursuit of the Texas shrimp boat. Another question is what the lawyers call "hot pursuit"—whether the Mexican gunboat ordered the United States boat to stop, and began chasing it when the order was ignored or whether it merely pulled alongside the shrimp vessel and then began firing.

In any case, the United States has previously taken the position that use of force in such cases is not necessary, and that other measures could have been taken.

Capt. Tom Wilson, captain of the Pescadora, wounded by rifle fire in the fracas, was reported in good condition in a hospital in Tampico.

Mexican officials did not seem inclined to push the case too far. An official source said he thought the boat and crew would be released without charges and without loss of the catch.

The Mexican version of the incident was that the Pescadora, out of Brownsville, was fishing inside the nine-mile limit Mexico sets on its territorial waters and tried to escape when ordered to halt. After a third warning, the Mexicans said they opened fire, wounding Wilson.

The Pescadora crew members said they were well outside Mexico's nine-mile limit and trying to move farther out when the G-28 opened fire.

Mexican cutters have arrested numerous United States shrimpers in the past, confiscated their catches and fined the operators.

The shrimpers and the United States say Mexican waters extend only three miles to sea, the same as United States territorial limits.

PARK BOARD PICKS TRENTON MEMBER AS NEW CHAIRMAN

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14 (AP) — Dr. William A. Fuson, Trenton Republican, has been elected chairman of the Missouri State Park Board for the next year. He succeeds Ralph Morgan, Camdenton Democrat.

R. I. Colborn, Paris Democrat, is the new vice chairman. The bipartisan board rotates the chairman's job between the two parties annually.

The board also announced that Fred S. Dore, 49 years old, of Perry has been appointed assistant superintendent of Mark Twain State Park and Arnold Kleinigger, 39, of St. Louis has been named assistant superintendent at Cuivre River State Park.

Dore's appointment is effective Nov. 15. Kleinigger takes over immediately and will live at the park.

The board set its second annual staff meeting for all personnel for Thursday and Friday as parts of its "in service training" program.

YOUTH'S 148-BU. CORN YIELD WINS IN SHELBY COUNTY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLARENCE, Mo., Nov. 14 — John H. Larrick, who won the Shelby county 100-bushel corn contest with a yield of 148.2 bushels per acre, thinks that the crop of rye he plowed under in 1954 the vital factor in his success.

In 1954, John plowed under rye as a green mature crop. Soybeans were grown on his 5-acre contest plot last year, and this year the field was fortified with 200 pounds of 12-12-12 fertilizer to the acre.

John's five-acre field was planted on the contour. The field slopes north. John used Morton M-6 seed. His field was cultivated twice and sprayed twice.

A sophomore in high school here, John always has been an honor student. He belongs to the Enterprise 4-H club and is active in F.F.A. His mother is an assistant 4-H community leader and his father is a 4-H project leader.

JAPAN'S 'GRANDMA MOSES' FOUND KILLED IN HER HOME

TOKYO, Nov. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Suma Maruki, 84 years old, the "Grandma Moses" of Japan, was found killed in her home today. Police said she apparently was killed by a burglar.

Mrs. Maruki had lived as a modest housewife until at 78, she learned painting from her artist son, Iri Maruki, and daughter-in-law, Toshiko. Her paintings astounded both artists and critics. A folio of her works published last year was a popular seller in Japan.

One critic said of Mrs. Maruki: "Fantasy and abstraction live happily together in her pictures. Her paintings may look crude to laymen, but they contain the essence of art."

TEACHERS UNION FAVORS CURBS ON BOARD MEMBERS

Wants to Retain Rules Barring Use of School Property for Private Purposes.

The Board of Education was urged last night to retain in its rules two sections prohibiting board members or executive officers from using school property, employes or funds for private purposes.

In a letter to the board, Miss Dorothy Childs, president of Local 420, American Federation of Teachers, said the union voted unanimously in favor of a resolution approving retention of the sections, which the board's rules revisions committee has recommended be deleted.

The board approved Miss Child's request to be heard when the proposed rules revisions are discussed at a meeting in December.

The sections prohibit board members and executive officers from accepting favors, using the skill or labor of an employe in their personal affairs, incurring unreanonable expenses in traveling or taking part in the hiring, promotion or demotion of an employe, except as provided for under the school law.

They were placed in the rules at the insistence of "blue-ribbon" members after it was disclosed in 1952 that former Building Commissioner V. Harry Rhodes had built a $42,000 home with the help of school employes and retained a contractor engaged in school construction to build the home.

In recommending that the sections be dropped, Mrs. Irma H. Friede, chairman of the rules revisions committee, has said they are a duplication of the oath of office board members and executiv officers must take. The other two members of the committee, Edward C. Donnelly and Charles J. Dwyer, have expressed similar views.

In the letter the union also told the board it opposed retention of a rule that requires school employes to obtain permission of the board to run for public office. Failure to get approval results in dismissal.

The rules revision committee has voted to recommend that this section be kept in the rules.

SEATON CITES IMPORTANCE OF MIDDLE EAST OIL OUTPUT

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (AP) — Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton declared today that "it is of the utmost importance that Middle East oil continue to be available in world markets."

In a speech at the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, he added that:

"This simply means it is important . . . that the United States continue its efforts for peace and assist in maintaining production and exploration in the Middle East."

He said that "western Europe will face disaster if Middle East oil is permanently cut off."

"The countries of the Middle East, even though they have this oil, not only will slip back in their economy but also will give up opportunity for improvement in their standards of living unless they can market it," he said. "Those countries know their oil resources are valueless unless they have available the great markets of the West.

"In this mutuality of interest lies one of the basic hopes for peace in that area."

BRITISH, RUSSIAN VESSELS COLLIDE, BOTH STAY AFLOAT

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands, Nov. 14 (AP)—The British motor vessel Port Victor and the Soviet ship Hudojnik V. Krainefj collided today in the river Scheldt. Flames and smoke belched from the Russian vessel, but both ships remained afloat.

A Dutch pilot who witnessed the collision said both vessels were en route to Flushing when the 10,409-ton Port Victor struck the rear of the Krainefj. Both ships were damaged above the waterline.

The Krainefj radioed that it was aground but out of danger and that the fire had been extinguished.

PRESIDENT THANKS BULGANIN

MOSCOW, Nov. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower has thanked Soviet Premier Bulganin for his congratulations on the United States presidential election and has promised to continue to work for world peace.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said this message from Mr. Eisenhower was delivered through the United States Embassy here: "I assure you I shall continue to work for peace throughout the world and better understanding, based on justice for all."

U.S. GENERAL AT FORMOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Sory Smith, commander of the United States Air Force in the Pacific, paid an eight-hour visit to Formosa today and then started back for his headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

His trip presumably was connected with the worldwide intensification of American defensive readiness which the Pentagon ordered last week.

ASSERTS ROTARY MOWER MAKES LAWN BATTLEFIELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —Your front lawn may confront you with some of the hazards of a battlefield if you use a rotary-type power lawnmower, the Southern Medica Association was told yesterday.

Dr. George R. Miller of Gastonia, N. C., told the SMA's fiftieth anniversary meeting that rotary mowers can pick up stel and other objects and hurl them with such speed that they become "similar to war missiles."

Injuries—some of them fatal—have ben caused, he said, and "in most instances the victims of injuries have been innocent bystanders who were not operating the lawnmower."

"The public needs to be informed of the danger inherent in this garden tool," Dr. Miller said, adding:

"Whether manufacturers can and will modify these otherwise fine lawnmowers remains to be seen. The least we can do is educate the public so when such mowers are used the surrounding area will be cleared of all observers."

SOVIET EXILING OF JEWS CHARGED; U.S. ASKED TO ACT

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 — The American Jewish Committee today urged the United States to take "immediate and effective action toward halting the current mass deportation of Jews from the Russian-Polish border to exile and imprisonment in concentration camps in Siberia."

In a letter made public here, the committee also asked the United States to condemn "this new act of inhumanity" before the current session of the United Nations General Assembly. The appeal was in the form of a letter signed by Irving M. Engel, president of the committee, and sent to Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, permanent United States representative to the U.N.

The committee called the alleged Soviet action a "revival of the Nazi system of deportation," and said it proved that Soviet policy has returned, "full circle, to the inhuman methods of Stalinism."

STOCK LIST DECLINES ON FOREIGN NEWS

Some Oils and Aircrafts Improve Late but Rally Fades at Close.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—The stock market declined in fairly good turnover today but some aircrafts and domestic oils gained.

Losses among pivotal stocks ran from fractions to around 2 points or more.

The market had an irregularly lower pattern from the start then assumed a definitely lower trend from which it never recovered. There was a flurry of trading in which prices improved late in the day but this faded and the tone became lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $1.20 to $178.80 with the industrials down $2.60, the rails down 40 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials was 482.36, down 4.33 at the close; the 20 rails 157.00, off 1.11, and the 15 utilities 67.12, off .05.

Of 1152 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 653 to 266. There were 73 new lows for the year and 19 new highs.

Volume totaled 2,290,000 shares compared with 2,140,000 yesterday.

The situation in the Middle East and fears of worsening conditions if Soviet "volunteers" entered Egypt caused tension and uncertainty in Wall Street, brokers said.

Oils with big Middle East holdings had sharp losses. Gulf Oil was down around 3 and Royal Dutch more than 2. Domestic oils fared better. Amerada was up around 5 at one time then cut its gain to about a point. High-priced Superior Oil of California was up around 60 points.

Lukens Steel was off a point after its gain of 15¾ in the past two sessions. United States Steel and Youngstown also were down about 1.

Chrysler dipped more than a point, General Motors a fraction. Kennecott Copper dropped around 2. Anaconda about a point and International Nickel over a point.

Du Pont declined around 3. Aluminum Ltd. about 2 and General Electric around 1.

U.S. BONDS STEADY IN LIGHT DEALINGS

Special Issue of Short Term Treasury Bills at 2.617 Pct.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—The bond market dipped lower in light trading today with most of the losses in fractions.

In a late development in new financing, a group headed by Harriman Ripley & Co., Inc., submitted the apparent best bid for $7,410,000 Cleveland Water-Works extension first mortgage revenue bonds due Feb. 1, 1961-80. The bid was for a combination of coupons at a net interest cost of 3.584 per cent.

In new financing, the Treasury has borrowed $1,750,200,000 in new cash through a special issue of short term bills. It was the second time within a month that tight credit conditions caused the Government to do short term special financing.

The 91-day bills were sold yesterday at discounts equal to an interest rate of 2.617 per cent. This was slightly below the 2.627 rate for a similar issue of special bills put out Oct. 17. At that time $1,600,763,000 was raised. These issues are separate from the usual weekly offering of Treasury bills.

The First Boston Corp. and associates are offering $5,000,000 of City of Chicago Water-works System certificates of indebtedness priced to yield from 3.50 to 3.65 per cent. The issue, with maturities to 1974, was won at competitive bidding at 100.2999 for a 3¼ per cent coupon, a net interest cost of 3.7318 per cent.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SUPPORT FOR GRAINS

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (AP) — Fears the Middle East situation was far from settled lent support to grains on the Board of Trade today.

Gains never were very large. In wheat and rye they ran to more than a cent and in soybeans to more than two cents at times. Oats and corn lagged.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post

SAYS:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or, you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

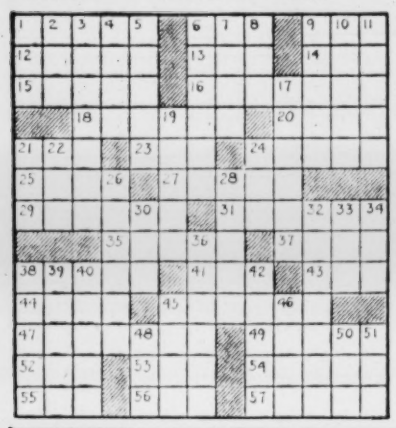
Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle



LARRY AVENUE, ELLISVILLE, IS RULED A PRIVATE STREET

Larry avenue in Steinbrueck subdivision in Ellisville is a private street, Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein ruled at Clayton yesterday in a dispute between residents of two adjoining subdivisions in St. Louis county.

Suit was filed last April by 18 residents of Tara Heights subdivision seeking to keep Larry avenue open and to compel seven Steinbrueck residents to remove a barricade they erected Jan. 14 at the west end of Larry.

The plaintiffs, who live on an extension of the blocked street, sought damages of more than $170,000. Judge Weinstein ordered the defendants to remove the barrier from the private property of one of the plaintiffs.

NIXON RESTING IN FLORIDA

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 14 (AP) Vice President Richard M. Nixon rested here today from his campaigning in the recent presidential election.

He brought along his golf clubs and plans to be here until Nov. 25. Mrs. Nixon and their two daughters are expected to join him later. Nixon arrived yesterday, accompanied by William P. Rogers, deputy United States Attorney General, and two Secret Service agents.

Accused of Biting Dogcatcher.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif., Nov. 14 (AP)—Authorities have dropped battery charges against Mrs. Margie Gomes, who was accused of biting the dogcatcher. Her trial last week ended in a hung jury and charges were dismissed yesterday in municipal court for lack of further evidence.

FRAUD DEFENDANT SAYS NARCOTICS CHIEF IS INVOLVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) — An attorney for Frank F. Lilly, a former Government employe accused of a $30,000 purchase-voucher fraud, said yesterday Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of the United States Narcotics Bureau, was involved in the scheme. Anslinger called the statement "completely false."

Attorney Paul F. Leonard made the assertion about Anslinger in asking for a delay in trial of Lilly. United States District Judge Alexander Holtzoff denied the motion and commented that the "counter-charges" did not affect the guilt or innocence of Lilly.

Lilly, former head of the office services section in the Narcotics Bureau, is accused of putting through vouchers for fictitious purchases of paper and other office supplies.

CITY DEVISES SCORING PLAN ON REHABILITATION

A St. Louis City Plan Commission technique for gauging whether industrial-commercial areas should be rehabilitated or torn down for new development was discussed yesterday before the National Society of Industrial Realtors, meeting at Hotel Park Plaza.

Under the system, buildings are scored for deterioration and obsolescence. Building scores are plotted on maps in several colors, with the result that the maps indicate for planning purposes what type of action is in order in a given area.

William H. Coibion, director of the commission, said the new system had been applied in a building-by-building survey of four St. Louis areas totaling 900 structures in 139 blocks. He said results are under study, preparatory to submitting a report to the Federal Government.

The commission undertook the research program when the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority, which wanted to move forward on the St. Louis Memorial Plaza project, came to the commission for evaluation studies, Coibion said.

ACCUSED OF TRANSPORTING OBSCENE MATTER TO CITY

An indictment charging interstate transportation of obscene matter was returned by the Federal grand jury today against Finis Weldon Hooper, a Dallas (Tex.) salesman.

Hooper was arrested here Oct. 20 by Federal agents, who reported he had 13,450 obscene books and 13 reels of film in his automobile.

Earl Williams, arrested Oct. 13 when he alighted from a plane and carrying heroin in a paper bag, was indicted for illegal possession of narcotics by the grand jury. Agents estimated that the heroin, when cut and sold to addicts, would have netted about $5000. Williams, a Negro, gave an address in the 5400 block of Maple avenue.

DOCKERS REFUSE TO UNLOAD GOODS FROM RED NATIONS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—Longshoremen refused yesterday to unload 500 cases from the Home Line's ship Italia because the shipments were from Russian-occupied East Germany and from Czechoslovakia. The ship sailed last night on a return voyage to Duxhaven, Germany, with the cases still aboard.

The consignment contained brassware, crocker clocks, artificial flowers and costume jewelry valued at approximately $200,000 for the Christmas trade. Longshoremen refused to unload the cases because they were marked "U.S.S.R. made in occupied Germany" and "Made in U.S.S.R. Czechoslovakia."

The dockworkers, members of Local 824 of the International Longshoremen's Association, refused earlier to unload 24 pieces of cargo aboard the French liner Liberte because they were consigned to the Polish delegation in the United Nations. The Liberte sailed with most of the cargo still aboard, although some luggage belonging to the Poles was unloaded.

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF HAWAII IS FIRED

HONOLULU, Nov. 14 (AP)—Gov. Samuel King fired his attorney general, Edward Sylva, yesterday for attending a dinner given for Hawaii labor leader Jack Hall, who was convicted in 1953 of conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the Government by force.

At the dinner Saturday union President Harry Bridges threatened a territory-wide walkout in key industries to protest against scheduled United States Senate hearings on activities of the union here later this month.

Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union has 24,000 members in the longshore, sugar and pineapple industries here. Hall, whose case is still on appeal, is Hawaii regional director.

King said he was asking Sylva to resign because "he should not attend a testimonial dinner given for a convicted Communist."

Since the dinner, Sylva said he has "no apology" for attending. He added he does not feel Bridges' I.L.W.U. is a Communist-dominated union "despite the many charges against it." He said he feels any Communist activity here now is "of minor nature."

Sylva is a former chairman of the Territorial Subversive Activities Commission and, like the governor, often in the past attacked the I.L.W.U. for its political views.

Ship Forced to Turn Back.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Rudder trouble forced the North German Lloyd liner Berlin to return to its Hudson river pier early today. The ship sailed for Halifax, N.S., and Bremerhaven, Germany, yesterday with 202 passengers. She got only as far as quarantine.

MAN WHO AIDED BRITISH MURDERED IN PORT SAID

PORT SAID, Egypt, Nov. 14 (UP)—The murder of an Egyptian accused of collaborating with British-French occupation forces increased tension today.

Leaflets were circulated in the Arab quarter threatening death to anyone collaborating or fraternizing with the British-French forces.

The murder victim was Port Said's posts and telegraphs director. He had been persuaded to return to his job to restore operation of the telephone exchange.

Several beatings were reported and one shop was burned in what British authorities described as an obvious case of intimidation.

The Allies said Soviet diplomatic authorities were playing a major role in a campaign to foster civilian resistance to the occupation.

Russian Consul Anatoli Chikov has been seen scurrying around Port Said in a big sedan flying a hammer-and-sickle flag and addressing small groups of Egyptians. British officers said he moved through the city in last week's battle, urging Egyptians to hold out on a promise of Soviet military intervention.

OVERTIME RULES WAIVED IN SWAPS FOR LONG HOLIDAYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —The Labor Department yesterday announced a new policy which will permit firms to give their workers longer holiday weekends without running afoul of federal overtime pay laws.

As an example of the longer weekend in question, the department said any or all employes might be excused from work on the Friday after Thanksgiving in exchange for working a sixth day the week before or after Thanksgiving week.

Normally a worker would, under the Fair Labor Standards Act, be paid time and a half his regular rate for a sixth workday in any one week.

The department said a longer work week in exchange for a shorter holiday work week, will not be questioned if the arrangement is made in advance by mutual agreement of employer and employes, and the firm's regular policy is to pay overtime in accordance with federal requirements.

The department said it acted as a result of employer and employe requests.

SWEDEN TO RATION OIL DUE TO CRISIS IN MIDDLE EAST

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 14 (AP) — Sweden's government today rushed plans to begin rationing oil at midnight to conserve dwindling supplies. A sweeping government request for wartime economic powers was put before parliament today. Quick approval was expected.

Closing of the Suez canal and sabotage of the oil pipeline through Syria has cut heavily into the amount of Middle East oil available for Europe.

Sweden's socialist government proposed:

1. A total bar on the use of private cars on weekends.

2. Reduction of by 30 to 50 per cent during the next 10 weeks of deliveries of fuel oil to industries and private homes.

Swedes hurried to stock up on both oil and gasoline. Filling stations were blocked by long lines of cars.

ALL REDS IN ARGENTINA BARRED FROM VOTING

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 14 (UP)—Federal Judge Luis Botet has ordered all Communists in Argentina disfranchised and their names removed from electoral rolls.

The action bars Reds from the coming elections for delegates to a national assembly to reform the constitution. The Argentine Communist party recently claimed a membership of 63,000.

ILLINOIS ASKS FOR EMERGENCY LAKE DIVERSION

Low Water Level at Alton, Hampering Navigation, Cited to Six-State Group.

The low water level at Alton dam, which is hampering navigation on the Mississippi river, was cited yesterday by the State of Illinois in its plea for a 100-day emergency diversion of Lake Michigan water into the Illinoi-Mississippi waterway.

Illinois Attorney General Latham Castle appeared before the unofficial six-state Great Lakes Commission in Chicago to ask that the United States Supreme Court approve the diversion of additional water.

The present court-set limit on diversion of lake water is 1500 cubic feet per second. Castle urged that 11,500 cubic feet a second be drawn from the lake. He said the increased flow from Chicago through the Illinois river would raise the channel level to improve navigation and correct unfavorable health conditions in communities along the waterway.

Barge Problem at Alton.

Castle reminded the commission, a co-operative advisory body representing Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Indiana, that many river barges must be relieved of their cargo in order to get the craft through the low water at the Alton lock.

Approximately 60 barges are being delayed at the lock today by such lightering operations. The cargo is returned to the barges after they are floated through.

A fully-loaded barge requires about 9 feet of water for passage through the lock. The depth at the lower sill today was 7.75 feet, as compared to 8.1 feet about 20 days ago. The river depth at St. Louis, as measured by the gauge at Eads bridge, is minus 2.6 feet.

The Army Engineers district office here has warned that any stage lower than minus 7 feet here would result in a serious cut of electric power generation and a major industrial shutdown in the metropolitan St. Louis area.

Stored Water to Be Used.

Col. George E. White Jr., the district engineer, recently announced that use of water stored in Missouri river main stem reservoirs is planned to help ease critical low river stages which could develop here within the next few weeks.

The Weather Bureau's five-day forecast released today which indicates an inch of rainfall in southeast Missouri, may mean that enough rain will fall north and west of St. Louis to cause a temporary improvement in river levels here, Army engineers said.

The Great Lakes Commission conference in Chicago yesterday took no immediate action on the Illinois request for increased lake water diversion. It also heard Oliver T. Burnham of Cleveland, vice president of the Great Lakes Carriers Association, predict vigorous opposition by Great Lakes vessel owners, to "unnatural lake water diversion."

Burnham said the current minimum channel depth of interconnecting lake waters is 23 feet 6 inches, and that 45 Great Lakes vessels have never been able to operate fully laden because of shallow depths. He said each inch of lessened draft "represents the loss of 1,500,000 tons of cargo per season."

MURDERED BABY'S MOTHER HAD NO SIGNS OF PSYCHOSIS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14 (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Ruotolo, who was admitted to a mental institution after her infant daughter's body was found in a lake near here, showed "no symptoms of psychosis," said a report today.

The report was made in a letter from Superintendent Edgar C. Yerbury of the Connecticut State Hospital in Middletown and released by State's Attorney Abraham S. Ullman. Mrs. Routolo spent 13 days at the institution at her own request after the kidnaping and murder of her daughter, Cynthia, six weeks old, last August.

"During the short time Mrs. Routolo was observed she presented no symptoms showing mental illness or psychosis," Yerbury said. "It was believed at the time she applied for release there were no indications for this hospital to seek any additional commitment."

U.S. AGENT'S SUICIDE LINKED TO DR. JOHN

Planned Death After German Security Chief Defected, Witness Says.

KARLSRUHE, Germany, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Supreme Court was told today that a former United States intelligence official committed suicide because of the alleged defection of Dr. Otto John, former West German security police chief, to the Communists.

John is on trial on a charge of treason.

The court heard the officer identified as Capt. Wolfgang E. Hoeffer, a German-born agent of the United States counter intelligence service and a friend of John.

Fritz Wussow, a former liquor manufacturer and official of John's Office for the Protection of the Constitution, testified Hoeffer indicated to him that he planned to kill himself.

John is charged with leaking state secrets and denouncing three of his former officials to the Russians after crossing to East Berlin July 20, 1954. He has denied all charges and said he was drugged and abducted. He returned last December and surrendered to West German authorities.

On the witness stand, Wussow, who had been John's driver at that time, quoted Hoeffer, as saying the day after John's disappearance:

"If he has defected to East Berlin, I have to draw the consequences."

Shortly after that conversation Hoeffer committed suicide, Wussow said.

United States authorities, on July 27, 1954, disclosed that the captain shot and killed himself one day after John's disappearance came to light.

By the United Press.

A nurse who served John coffee shortly before he went to East Berlin said she doubted the coffee could have been drugged. John has said he was taken to the east by Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth.

Ursula Gohrbrandt said she made and served the coffee John drank in Wohlgemuth's office. She said that in her opinion it would have been impossible for the coffee to have been drugged, without John's knowledge, from the time she made it until he had finished drinking it. But she admitted she was not present when John actually drank the coffee.

ROCKWELL KENT CONTESTS DENIAL OF U.S. PASSPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Counsel for Artist Rockwell Kent and Dr. Walter Briehl, psychiatrist, contended yesterday the State Department has no right to withhold their passports on the ground they have not submitted non-Communist affidavits.

Leonard B. Boudin, New York attorney, told the United States Court of Appeals that the department "lacks the power" to demand such affidavits.

The case was brought by Kent, of Au Sable Forks, N.Y., and Briehl, of Los Angeles, both of whom have been seeking passports since 1955.

B. Jenkins Middleton, Justice Department attorney representing the State Department, said the men did not comply with regulations and did not exhaust their administrative remedies.

Under a 1952 regulation, the passport division of the State Department was empowered to require an oath or affirmation on whether an applicant is or ever has been a Communist. Current party membership automatically disqualifies an applicant for a passport. In July of this year, the regulation was tightened to require that all passport applicants must submit non-Communist affidavits. If an applicant says he is not now a party member but has been at some previous time, he must give the date. It is up to the board to decide whether a former Communist should be issued a passport.

FRESH OUTBREAK OF LEG-SMASHING IN GEORGIA PRISON

ATLANTA, Nov. 14 (UP)—Prison officials today urged shifting of hardened criminals from barracks to new individual cells to end an outbreak of leg-smashing at Georgia's Rock Quarry prison.

The latest incident occurred Monday when five convicts at the Buford (Ga.) prison attempted to smash their leg bones with sledge hammers.

Department of Corrections Director Jack Forrester said blocks of individual cells would prevent such plotting. He appealed to Gov. Marvin Griffin for funds to build them.

Forty-one convicts at the Rock Quarry prison tried to shatter their legs last July. Guards have been under orders ever since to prevent further self-mutilations, which prison authorities say are intended to arouse unwarranted public sympathy.

Inmates at the Rock Quarry prison are incorrigibles who have been sent there from other state prisons because they were habitual troublemakers.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 14—The work of razing the fire-blackened walls of North Jones and South Jones halls, dormitories on the campus of William Woods College for Women, was begun today. At the same time architects started plans for three new dormitories at the school.

College officials were told by insurance adjusters that the two dormitories, swept by fire Monday night and early yesterday, were a total loss. About 200 of the junior college's 386 students fled to safety when the fire was discovered. None was hurt.

Dr. Tilford Swearingen, college president, said a dormitory that had been planned for construction sometime in 1957 would be started Dec. 1 and be ready for use when school starts next fall. It will be paid for with a $210,000 Government loan, granted two days ago.

Architects also are planning two other dormitories, probably to occupy the sites of the 66-year-old, burned-out buildings.

Following a student assembly yesterday, the college's Thanksgiving holiday was started. When the students return Nov. 25, a mobile kitchen will be moved onto the campus to replace the kitchen destroyed in the fire and a large improvised dining room will be set up in the library, Dr. Swearingen said.

He added that he had moved to the first floor of his home on the campus to provide rooms on the second floor for eight girls. A large recreation room in the gymnasium will be turned into a dormitory and some of the students will be housed at the Missouri School for the Deaf, 10 blocks away.

Robert Martin, an official of the college, denied that any false alarms were turned in from the school Monday prior to the fire. He said the students that day had observed "Help Day," in which the campus is cleaned up and a large bonfire is built in the evening.

FIVE-YEAR MORATORIUM ON DEATH PENALTY URGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14 (AP)—A five-year moratorium on the death penalty in California has been recommended by the state attorney general and seconded by the director of the Department of Corrections.

Attorney General Edmund G. Brown told an Assembly subcommittee on capital punishment yesterday "inconsistencies—particularly long delays for appeals—have brought the law into public disrespect." He asked for the moratorium to study the death penalty's effect on the crime rate.

Richard A. McGee, corrections director, said he did not think capital punishment was a deterrent to crime. Life imprisonment without possibility of parole might be a stronger force, he added.

CLIVETTE TO VOTE ON CHANGE IN FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The Olivette Board of Trustees last night adopted unanimously a resolution calling for establishment of the council-manager form of government and for shifting from its present classification as a town to a third-class city.

The board directed that the propositions be submitted to voters at a special eletcion Jan. 22. The board said the change is needd because of the rapid growth in the community's population in recent years. The change had been recommended by a citizens committee appointed in February, 1955, to study the matter.

Objections to a proposed ordinance setting up new regulations governing the issuance of special building permits for schools, churches and ohter institutions weer voiced by representatives of three church groups last night. The proposed measure previously was reported erroneously to apply to taverns. The board deferred action on the proposal.

BENSON LEAVES CABINET FUTURE TO EISENHOWER

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said yesterday that whether he remains in the Eisenhower Cabinet is up to the President.

Benson, the target of heavy drumfire from farm state Democrats in Congress for his flexible farm price support policies and his handling of drouth relief, was asked at his first news conference since the election whether he intended to remain in the Cabinet during the next four years.

He indicated clearly his availability for further service to the Administration with the observation he had given no thought to leaving, and added: "My resignation has been on the President's desk since the day after the election and decision on what to do about it will be his. I think the President should have full freedom to reshape and revamp his Cabinet for the new term."

Likely to Remain.

It is customary for all cabinet members to submit pro forma resignations at the end of a presidential term. Some have been picked up, but Benson's great personal popularity with Mr. Eisenhower weighs heavily against his being replaced.

Benson described Mr. Eisenhower's smashing victory Nov. 6 as "deeply gratifying to me as it is to most Americans."

As fo rthe Administration's farm program, he said that some incumbent Republicans in Congress and state offices who favored it were defeated as were some who opposed it. Hence, he continued, it would be difficult to prove that the controversy over rigid price supports versus the Administration's flexible supports was a decisive factor in any of these contests."

A major factor in the defeat of some Republicans, he said, was the drouth which has gripped areas in the West and Midwest over a protracted period.

Cites Drouth Factor.

"No Government drouth relief program can ever be a satisfactory substitute for rain," Benson went on. "And when a man sees his crops and his range burned up year after year, he may decide that he has nothing to lose by switching his vote. That apparently happened in enough cases to defeat several Republicans by very narrow margins."

But, he continued, the farm vote held well for the Republicans despite "a desperate effort on the part of some to stir up a farm revolt and a spirit of depression," plus these factors: farmers have been going through a serious cost-price squeeze; farm income has decreased every year since the period 1947-1951, "at the peak of the Korean War," and 1956, "a year of peace."

Benson said that he visited 17 states just prior to the election and saw "some very serious situations" in drouth areas. He said it was possible Mr. Eisenhower might tour the stricken sectors before the end of the year and if the President makes the trip he will go along.

CLAYTON BARBAGE CONTRACT

A three-year contract for twice-a-week collection of garbage and rubbish was awarded to George L. Cook, operator of the Busy Bee Hauling Co., by the Clayton Board of Aldermen last night. Cook's bid of $64,000 a year was the lowest of four submitted.

The board also approved expenditure o f$12,000 for grading, paving and improving the old Rock Island right-of-way between Central and Meramec avenues for parking facilities for about 200 automobiles. The area is two blocks south of the courthouse.

BONDSMAN TO PRODUCE CHECKS FOR GRAND JURY

Roy Graham, a St. Louis county professional bondsman agreed in United States District Court today to produce for a federal grand jury five checks totaling $3154 which he paid to Philip A. Foley, an attorney, in 1953, and also his records pertaining to the checks.

In appearing before the grand jury yesterday Graham had refused to answer questions about the checks, about which he had been asked by agents of the Internal Revenue Service who were checking Foley's income tax returns.

The refusal was cited to Judge George H. Moore today, and he asked Graham whether he would produce the checks. Graham said he would have to consult his attorney. Judge Moore then told him he would have to make the decision himself, and Graham agreed to do as requested.

Air Force Stumbles In 'Attack' TV Film

By Jack Gould

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.

THE United States Air Force lost its head in cooperating with a highly theatrical and artificially melodramatic simulation of "The Day North America Is Attacked." The simulation was in the form of an hour-long television film Sunday which marked the debut of a series entitled "Air Power."

WALTER CRONKITE . . . A VOICE OF CALCULATED URGENCY.

The Air Force should get out of show business and stay out. The sight of officers of the Air Force trying their best to be actors and stumbling awkardly and hesitatingly through their prepared lines was anything but an edifying picture.

Politically, the wisdom of presenting "The Day North America Is Attacked" must be open to question. Coming directly after an hour-long summary of the tragedy of Budapest and the crisis in the Middle East, it was hardly the most appropriate moment for the Air Force to play at war on coast-to-coast television. With delicate deliberations pending in the United Nations one might further ask the need for stressing the obvious—that Russia is our enemy.

"AIR POWER" constituted a parade of our defense planes, radar and communications installations and rockets; in this respect it was informative. But its dominant theme was unfortunate. The Columbia Broadcasting System and the Air Force could have served the same educational purpose by employing the technique of a documentary. The identical points could have been made but with dignity and calmness.

In using what would be civilization's most fateful hour—the opening of atomic warfare—as a theatrical backdrop for a commercially-sponsored television show, the Air Force displayed lamentable judgment in its public relations. The military cannot afford to condone a histrionic approach to a matter of such crucial and terrifying moment. That is a task for dramatists, not generals.

"The Day North America Is Attacked" employed Walter Cronkite with a familiar voice of calculated urgency common to "You Are There." Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander-in-chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, was the principal member of the real life cast. For the sake of the cameras he pretended to be giving the necessary commands, but he understandably appeared uncomfortable in his role. Gen. Nathan Twining, chief of staff of the United States Air Force, similarly seemed very ill at ease in making believe about a subject which necessarily must be uppermost in his thoughts.

A WHOLE SUCCESSION of junior officers were shown talking about "Roger" and "over-and-out" in the accepted style of aviation in war dramas. But the stiffness and formality of laymen trying to be performers could not be concealed.

Repeatedly there was flashed on the screen the following admonition: "An attack is not taking place." To heighten the program's melodramatics, the audio portion of the program from time to time was purposely cut off. Cronkite said that the deleted portions were top secret, though presumably a Russian lip reader could have taken much of it down.

By all means the Air Force should have an opportunity to tell its story on TV as the Navy did in "Victory at Sea" and the Army in "Crusade in Europe." But it should be done factually and reportorically, not with contrived stagecraft designed to assure a rating by invoking the element of shock and terror.

CHET HUNTLEY, over the network of the National Broadcasting Co. spoke out boldly the other day on a matter which certainly should concern every thoughtful viewer. After presenting a half-hour summary on the Hungary story, he asserted bluntly that perhaps America was not entirely free of responsibility.

"Should our radio have dangled freedom where we ourselves were not prepared to follow?" Huntley asked. His meaning was this: Should "Radio Free Europe" and "The Voice of America," directly or indirectly, have fanned the hopes of freedom among the Hungarian people when we knew we couldn't help them realistically without starting World War III?

If "Radio Free Europe" and "The Voice of America" mislead the people of satellite nations as to our true intentions, their policies would seem in need of urgent re-appraisal. Huntley has had the courage to bring to the fore our use of psychological warfare on the air—both by the privately-controlled "Radio Free Europe" and the Government-controlled "Voice"—in light of the tragedy of Hungary. It is a matter on which the two agencies themselves now should wish to shed further enlightenment.

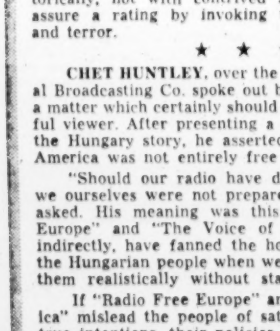
A State of Mind

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

FORTY is a state of mind, a challenge. You wake up one bright morning and know that you are forty but you won't feel it unless you dramatize it. A busy woman of my acquaintance glanced at her calendar one day, and suddenly realized the awful truth—it was her birthday—she was forty. She collapsed and took to her bed, dissolved in tears. She felt that she could never face it. When her husband came home, in a rush for a dance at the country club, she said tragically, "I'm not going—I just can't." To his amazed, "What's the matter with you?" She tearfully answered, "Today is my birthday, I am Forty." "Huh," said her unfeeling husband, "you've been forty for the last five years, according to your family Bible!"



EDYTH THORNTON McLEOD

So, you see, Forty is a state of mind.

Forty has had so much publicity that it has really come to mean something, although those of us who get over on the other side can't see or feel anything so very different if we refuse to enter a Forty state of mind.

There are certain changes—mostly physical and mental. Forty is a signpost on the road to maturity for men and women alike. This is the time to take stock of your health, mental agility and to step up your interest in life, love and the pursuit of happiness.

Your first concern should be your physical health. Long past Forty, you may not be able to run as fast as you did, or do as many things as you did before Forty, but there are so many new things and new interests for you after Forty. Why not face them with enthusiasm and receive them with an open mind and with open arms?

Don't fear maturity. You can approach and enter this period of your life with poise and dignity, and you can do and say a lot of things you couldn't do or say before.

Sparkling Themes Mark Holiday Fashions

By Sylvia Stiles

HOLIDAY glitter is flashing early this year. Not only are the Christmas decorations on display in the stores, but festive attire for the holidays is appearing in a glamorous array. Sparkling themes predominate as sequins, crystals and metallic embroidery adorn many of the evening dresses. A flutter of chiffon relieves the sheath-like slimness of many of the new fashions. Flounces and bouffant sashes are noteworthy, too, as silhouettes add grace and movement. Illustrated are some of the handsome models available in the St. Louis stores.

1—Pale pink satin is the glistening fabric used for this sheath dress that has glittering trimming and a wide draped sash with a bow at the back. Streamers of the sash extend below the hemline. The bodice has wide straps at the shoulders.

2—The new front drapery is a feature of this royal blue chiffon dress that has a draped bodice wide at the shoulders. The skirt indorses the new longer length. A velvet ribbon bow holds the front fullness at the high waistline.

3—Silver cloth looks regal in the design of this slender dress with high, draped neckline and brief, set-in sleeves. There is shirring at either side of a graduated front panel to give a flattering drapery at the midriff section. Skirt has a hemline sash at the center back.

4—Simply cut but handsome in its appearance is a slender white satin dress embroidered with silver threads that form a flower pattern. Bodice has rounded neckline extending low at the back, and very brief sleeves. The neckline is edged with silver sequins.

5—Black point d'esprit is the sheer, crisp fabric selected for a youthful dress with moulded, unbelted waistline. The high, round neckline provides the popular cover-up emphasis of many of the short evening dresses. Very full flounce animates the silhouette of the skirt.

6—The halter neckline is a popular accent on many holiday evening dresses. Sketched is a different version of the halter. Wide bands extend under the arms, tying at the back. Fabric is white poie de soie. A graduated band of embroidered crystals, pearls and pailettes adorns the front of the slender, unbelted dress.

The fashions illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call MAin 1-1111, Station 586, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

One Step Beyond Mediocrity

By Fulton J. Sheen

ONE of the most profound of French writers, Leon Bloy, once wrote: "One step beyond mediocrity and we are saved." The assumption here is that most people are in the sloughs of despondency, mediocrity, tepidity and ordinariness. Peace, joy, happiness and inner tranquility of heart are all dependent upon crossing that line which divides the mediocre from the happy.

Fulton J. Sheen

If fewer today are crossing that line it is due to an error in our basic psychological outlooks, namely, that human beings are simple and not complex in nature, or that we have certain basic strivings and urgings, the most of which are related to sex, security and self-esteem. Happiness, we are told, is in giving expression to our simple animal nature. Every repression of our carnal insincts is regarded as harmful and therefore productive of inner discords and tensions.

This false philosophy makes man very much like a moth. A moth is happy either when it finds a good woolen garment on which to feed, or else when it dashes madly into the light to be consumed.

THE TRUE PHILOSOPHY of life is that man is not simple but complex; he is not an animal, but a personality. Being composed of matter and spirit, body and soul, he has two tendencies—one toward truth, love, life, justice, in a word the Infinite, which is God; the other tendency very often conflicts with this, namely an urge toward pride, egotism, avarice, lust, anger, jealousy, excesses in eating and drinking and laziness. These tendencies and urges to that which is lower in us are not in themselves wrong; it is only the giving way to them, when they are contrary to right reason and to the Law of God, which makes them wrong.

Since we are complex and not simple, it follows that one of our basic problems is to resolve this tension between that which pulls us to the Infinite and that which pulls us to the dust. We are very much like a radio which can be tuned into two distinct stations, thus producing only confusion and disorder. We may be likened also to a team of horses, one horse pulling in one direction, and the other in another.

There is not a person in the world who has not felt this tension between the higher and the lower in himself. The great Latin poet expressed it: "I see and approve the better things of life; the worse things of life I follow." St. Paul also said that the good which he willed to do, that he did not; and the evil which he willed not, that he did.

Our characters are not just like the characters that appeared in the nineteenth century novel in which one set of persons was good and the other set was bad; nor are they like the characters of the twentieth century novel, where there is neither good nor bad. Rather, some personalities which are good, nevertheless, have hidden in them a capacity for what is bad; those characters which are very bad have in them an urge for the best. A saint has never reached a point where he no longer has to struggle against evil, and evil men never reach a point where they do not have some kind of actual grace calling them back again to a life of peace and happiness.

PEOPLE ARE UNHAPPY not because they resist their lower impulses or their ids or their animal instincts; very often this is one of the principal causes of happiness.

Happiness requires effort, just as a knowledge of music or a foreign language requires effort, and this effort must be directed to the subordination of our lower instincts to our higher instincts, of our animal cravings to reason, of our reason to faith and ultimately, of our whole personality to Divine love. As Our Blessed Lord said: "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence and only the violence shall bear it away."

Force, self-denial of lower instincts, the crushing of our egotism and selfishness, the repression of self-will and of contempt of neighbor, the desire for attention—all of these have to be controlled, strangled and put to death, for they are weeds, before the seed of goodness, peace, love of justice and of neighbor and God can begin to flourish. Most marriages settle down to a mediocrity and an ordinariness because there is never any attempt to destroy that mediocricy by some form of healthy abnegation and denial which allows the higher love to emerge. No one ever mounts to a higher love, whether it be of neighbor or of God, except by a death to a lower love.

Cold Room Registers.

THERE are all sorts of reasons why certain rooms or certain areas in a home never get comfortably warm in winter and one good reason is that no heat ever comes out of the register in said room or rooms.

A register will fail to deliver heat for a variety of reasons and one of them is that it's just too far away from the furnace. The heat leaves the furnace and starts traveling along the duct but by the time it gets to the register it's stone cold. The solution here is to insulate the duct so that the heat is not lost in transit.

Another cause for trouble is that a duct will slant downward at some point between the furnace and register. Warm air, unless forced by a blower, won't flow downhill and that means that unless the duct slants upward along its entire length from furnace to register, heat won't reach the register. It's usually possible to get the duct into the correct position and then hold them there with metal straps run from the ceiling joists.

In newer warm air heating systems, dampers are installed in the ducts close to the furnace for the purpose of balancing the system. Now and then one of these dampers is turned too far and this cuts off the flow of air to a certain duct. Opening the damper is all that is required to get heat on the way to that cold register.

Sometimes the trouble is due to the fact that the ducts to certain registers are too small, that there are too many sharp angles for the air to travel, or that some error was made in the ductwork.

Broiled Peaches Florida

Ingredients: Six drained canned peach halves, one and one-half tablespoons butter, one-fourth teaspoon curry powder, guava jelly.

Method: Place well drained peach halves on broiler rack. Cream butter and curry powder; put a dollop of the mixture into the cavity of each peach half. Broil peaches several inches from heat until hot through and tops are touched with brown. Remove peaches carefully with wide spatula to serving plate, being careful not to spill butter mixture in cavities. Top each peach half with about one-half teaspoon guava jelly. Current jelly may be substituted for guava jelly. Makes six servings.

Problem Child

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Behavior

"I HAVE a problem child," a mother writes. "He has just turned four. He is physically O.K. and average as to weight and height. But he will not eat, just plays with his food at meal times. Between meals he wants cookies, etc. When he doesn't get them, or anything he wants, he screams and stamps his feet. When going for a walk with his older sister, he cries and screams if she wants to go one way, and he another. He acts like a wild boy when he gets into a store. Runs around, won't come when called, opens cabinets, etc. He cries and screams when told to go to bed for a nap. He will continue to do things even when told not to.

"He teases his 18-month-old brother. Takes things away just to hear him squeal. Sister, the oldest, tolerates him and three other brothers. The boys 11 and 9 are rough and have been with Four ever since he was small. We think Four is the way he is because of his brothers. We seem to be always punishing him, but think perhaps the older boys should be getting it as they sometimes put him up to some mischievous act. By punishment I mean being spanked, going to bed and being talked to. None of these seem to help. At times if you sit down and talk to him, play with him or read to him, he is as good as can be. He is probably jealous of the baby. How can we help this little boy of ours?"

YOU DO INDEED HAVE A PROBLEM. You probably are not aware of it, but like many correspondents you actually give the answer (or one answer) to your problem in your own letter. You realize that your 4-year-old son is jealous of the baby, and you admit that he is good when you sit down and talk to him, play with him or read to him.

It seems relatively clear that this little boy is "bad" in an effort to get more attention. Although he gets attention of the wrong sort, he apparently feels that it is better than none at all.

COULD YOU POSSIBLY PLAN a week or two when he is the center of all your interest, and give him an excess of attention? This will take a lot of work and planning on your part, but will probably pay good dividends. You could give your other children some reward to help take care of the 18-month-old baby, with someone to take over the housework, and in this interval you could pretend that the 4-year-old was your only child. Take him for walks, buy him special little toys, take him to the library, to visit friends, to the park or the beach—but always alone—with your undivided attention. You could plan to have a meal or two alone with him at a restaurant.

This sort of treatment should make a dramatic impression on your child, and if he is really impressed, and reassured of your love, he may then be able to change his pattern of behavior. In addition, such a procedure on your part may make you aware of little things you could do to give him your attention even after you return to your normal routine of giving your care to all your children and your household.

'We Die Alone'

Invalid Jan Dragged Up the Mountain

Underground Men Lash Him to Sled for Desperate Climb; Frozen Feet Make Him Helpless

PHOTOGRAPH OF JAN AND FOUR OF THE MEN WHO HAULED HIM UP REVDAL. THE PICTURE WAS TAKEN IN THE SAME AREA 10 YEARS AFTER THEIR EXHAUSTING AND HAZARDOUS JOURNEY.

THE SLEDGE HIT HIM HARD AT THE CHEST AND RAN OVER HIM.

Before writing this story the author went to Norway to see Jan Baalsrud, hero of this great adventure. Then, because Jan had forgotten some incidents and there were others he had never known, the author and a photographer retraced the fugitives route to get the facts of this fantastic flight from the Germans (1943) who occupied his native country. This is the fourth installment from the book, "We Die Alone."

By David Howarth

ALONE in the hut at Revdal, a period began which Jan remembered, after it ended, with the utmost horror. It was the first time that he sank into absolute despair of coming through alive. At first, he waited for each night with the hope of hearing Marius. After five days, he could only believe that Marius and everyone who knew he was there had been arrested and shot, and that he was quite forgotten, condemned to lie in the desolute hut until the poison in his infected legs killed him, or until he wasted away through starvation. Revdal, which had seemed safe, had turned into a trap.

There was nothing wrong with Marius. What had stopped him coming to see Jan was a storm. On the night when he had meant to cross the fjord again, there was such a sea running that the crossing was impossible. Nobody could get to Revdal.

Every day Marius watched the gray scudding water and every evening he went down to the beach to make sure there was no chance of going. But it was hopeless to try to launch a boat. Marius was not really worried, for when he had left Jan the latter's health had been improving. He reckoned Jan had enough food for some time. He did not realize that inside the log walls of the hut, with the snow banked up, Jan could not hear the howling of the wind.

A week after Marius's second visit to the hut, the storm began to end. He collected everything he had to offer Jan and packed it in his rucksack: food, paraffin, milk and a few cigarettes. At nightfall Marius put on his skis and went down to the beach. Two friends were there. Some sea was running. They began to row.

The crossing was peaceful. Marius had good news for Jan. He had just heard that Legland had sent a message to the schoolmaster in Mandal and that a favorable answer had come back. There were plenty of volunteers who would come to a rendezvous on top of the range between Mandal and Revdal where they would take delivery of Jan. The schoolmaster thought they would be able to escort him to the frontier. Marius imagined, as he crossed the fjord, Jan might be in Sweden within a week.

BEFORE he opened the door of the hut, Marius called, "Hullo, there!" There was no answer. He entered, it was pitch dark and the air stank of decay. He called Jan by name, and stooped over the bunk. As he felt the bundle of blankets, he heard a faint sound as Jan turned his head.

Marius lit a lantern. Jan's face was like that of a corpse. He opened his eyes and made a feeble movement. The blanket around his legs was dark with blood. Jan seemed unwilling to be dragged out of his coma and forced to make the effort to live. But when Marius made him a hot drink, he revived a little.

Jan said he had not had anything to eat or drink for several days. This puzzled Marius, but the fact was that three or four days before what was left of the food had fallen off the table, and Jan had been too bemused to realize what had happened. Marius set himself the unpleasant job of looking at Jan's feet. Before he saw them, he knew they had gangrene.

He had reasoned that he must draw off the blood, as people did with snake bites. So he had pulled up his legs and stabbed his feet with the knife and let them bleed. Marius washed them up. Both he and Jan knew, without having to say it, that Jan would never walk or ski to Sweden.

Marius could not stay long because of the daylight, but he promised that he would get a doctor or arrange for him to be carried to Sweden. In any case, he would return in two or three days. The mere sight of Marius had brought back Jan's will to live. He began to come to terms with the idea of living as a cripple.

Marius knew he had made promises to Jan without any idea of how he could fulfill them.

He informed his friends in the organization that Jan was helpless. Messengers were sent to Tromso and to Mandal. The news of the problems spread, whispered from one to another of the trusted people who might have help to offer. During the following evening, the messengers began to return and the plan took shape.

THE man who had been to Tromso brought back a message promising financial aid. A party of four Mandal men was ready to make the climb to the plateau at any moment. If Marius and the Furruflaten men could get Jan up there and bring a sledge, they were willing to try to haul it to the frontier.

None had ever tried to haul a sledge across the plateau. Furthermore none of them knew the Swedish side of the mountains, and while the frontier was only 25 miles away, men who did not know the country might easily have to go 100 miles down into forests toward the Baltic before finding any human habitation.

If that happened, the journey would take so long that their absence could not pass unnoticed, which would mean that none of them could come back. This, they were unwilling to do because they all had dependents. But they had a better proposal—to get the Lapps to make the journey.

The Lapps they had in mind were nomads who live by breeding reindeer. They spend summer in Norway and the winter in Finland or Sweden. National frontiers mean nothing to them, because they have been making their journeys since long before frontiers existed. To stop them would mean that their race would die out—the reindeer cannot survive without a seasonal change of feeding ground. The Germans wisely never tried to stop them, and all through the war the Lapps wandered unconcerned between Finland, which was fighting on the side of Germany, and Norway, which was fighting as best it could on the Allied side, and Sweden, which was neutral.

So Marius and the rest of the conspirators welcomed this suggestion. The message from Mandal said that the best skirunner was ready to set off to try to locate the herds. A message was sent back asking him to go at once.

Meanwhile, the main problem for Marius and the Furuflaten men was to get Jan up to the plateau. The place for meeting the Mandal party had been agreed—a shallow depression on the plateau, half-way between Revdal and Mandal. To get there from the Revdal side was a steep climb for the first 2000 feet, and then a more gentle slope across about three miles of the open snowfield. The actual meeting place was at a height of 2700 feet. A stretcher would be needed to get Jan up the first part of the climb and a sledge would be easier for the last part. They decided to compromise by constructing the lightest possible sledge.

ALL this discussion about transporting Jan had been happening in the midst of German garrison areas—also the coming and going of messengers. In building the sledge, the plot was carried even further into the German camp. The best joiner was Jensen, caretaker of Legland's school. The school buildings had been requisitioned by the Germans, but Jensen worked there and still had access to the school workshop.

He undertook to build the sledge, and did so inside the German headquarters. The impertinence of this filled everyone with a certain glee. But the joiner could not take the risk of putting the sledge together. He made each piece to careful measurement, guaranteeing that every part would fit. Events proved his workmanship was good. The sledge was ready in the third day after Marius's latest visit to Revdal, and plans were completed on that day, too, except that the ski-runner had not returned from his search for the Lapps.

Marius's three neighbors—Alvin Larsen, Olaf Lanes and Amandus Lillevoll—were prepared to go over with him to Revdal that night to make the attempt to haul Jan up the mountain. Legland telephoned to the schoolmaster in Mandal to say that "the parcel he was expecting" was being sent at once. Larsen fetched the sledge.

Marius's sailing boat crossed the fjord again, ladened with gear for the attempt to climb the mountain—the sledge still in parts, a 60-foot rope, an old canvas sleeping-bag and fresh blankets for Jan, two rucksacks containing spare clothing, food and a bottle of brandy, and the skis for the four men who were making the attempt.

Marius and his friends walked up to the hut. Marius was afraid of the effect which another three days of isolation might have had on Jan. They found him cheerful, but physically he was weaker.

While two of them assembled the sledge, the others wrapped Jan in two blankets and then pushed him into a sleeping bag. When the sledge was ready, they put him on it, lashing him down with ropes, so that not much more than his eyes were showing and he could not move.

They maneuvered the sledge into the snow, took a hold of the short ropes attached to it and turned toward the mountain. It was a little after midnight, but there was still the afterglow of the sun in the northern sky. There were roughly 15 degrees of frost.

The first part of the climb up from the hut at Revdal was covered by a forest of birch scrub, with a matted tangle that gave no foothold. So they had to go with care. It would have been impossible to fall more than a foot or two, but it would have been easy to break a leg. Getting Jan through the forest was a matter of brute strength and endless patience.

The leaders, treading through the virgin snow, often fell into holes. Before they had gained more than a few hundred yards, they began to be afraid they had started something impossible to finish—not because their stubbornness and strength would be unequal to the job, but because they were afraid Jan would not survive it.

When they cleared the forest, at a height of 1000 feet, they had to rest. The climb had taken nearly three hours, and it was day. Immediately above the treeline was a sheer face of rock, but to their right it was broken by a steep cleft with a frozen bed of a stream at the bottom of it. To get to the bottom they would have to traverse a steep snow slope about 200 feet high and about 100 yards across.

Crossing the slope was a nightmare, like walking a tightrope in a dream. Very slowly they edged across the slope, kicking steps and moving one man at a time until the slope yawned below them. If the sledge had begun to slide, they could have saved themselves by falling on their faces and digging their hands and toes into the snow, but they could not have stopped the sledge. Before they reached the other side of the slope the men were sweating and trembling with the effort and tension.

Somewhere near the upper reaches of the cleft, Jan came as near to death as he had anywhere on his journey. All four climbers by then were in the dilemma of knowing that they had outreached their strength. But it was too late to go down, so they had to win through to the top or fail.

It was at this stage that what they had dreaded happened. One man slipped and another was off-balance—in a fraction of a second the sledge shot backward and Amandus happened to be below it. It hit him hard in the chest and ran over him. Somehow his body acted as a brake for the sledge. In a few seconds the others had it under control again. The climb went on. Jan did not known what had happened because he was unconscious.

The cleft ended and ahead of them was a frozen waterfall. There was no hope of hauling the sledge up there. But at the bottom of it was a boulder projecting through the snow and with a final effort they heaved the sledge on top of it, wedged it—and were able to rest. They looked up at the next stretch. It looked the worst difficulty of all. To the right of the waterfall was one possible way—up a narrow slope that had an ice cornice at the top. As it turned out this was easier than it looked.

THEY went up methodically side by side, hacking out steps in the hard ice crystals. The slope was too long for the 60 foot rope and they had to stop, dig themselves in and haul the sledge up after them. If they had slipped they would have gone down to the bottom of the bowl, but it would not have done very much harm. For Jan, trussed up on the sledge, it was a different matter. He would have gone down faster, head first and would surely have broken his neck. But they took the risk and got away with it. They were standing at last on the icy, windswept ledge of the plateau. Ahead, the slopes were gentle and the snow was firm.

As soon as the sledge was clear, the men put on their skis and the climb took on a totally different aspect. On skis they felt more able to cope with any new crisis. The remaining worry was a matter of time. The climb had taken hours longer than they expected, and with 1000 feet still to go they were late for the meeting with the Mandal men.

Fear of missing the Mandal men made them press on. All four made themselves fast to the sledge with short ropes tied around their waists. They started at top speed inland across the plateau.

The size and barren loneliness of the plateau is appalling. It stretches into Finland and Sweden and far to the eastward toward the border of Soviet Russia, and then again beyond the narrow lowlands of Petsamo, to the White Sea and the vastness of Siberia. Into these dreadful surroundings the little group of men crept silently, dragging the half-conscious body of Jan.

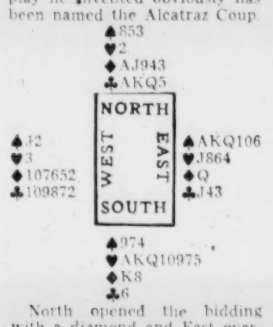
Contract Bridge

By Sam Fry Jr.

TODAY'S hand has been in print before, shortly before South was sent to Alcatraz for 20 years for some minor crime such as mail robbery. We are re-recording his major bit of thievery in honor of his recent release from prison. The play he invented obviously has been named the Alcatraz Coup.



North opened the bidding with a diamond and East overcalled vulnerable with one spade. South's bidding wasn't as enterprising as his play. He just bid four hearts, without bothering to explore slam possibilities.

He was right in that respect. When the jack of spades was opened he saw that even game wasn't sure. Three spades had to be lost and there was a possible trump loser if trumps broke badly. The normal play, missing only five trumps to the jack is, to be sure, to play for the drop.

The man sitting South, though, wanted a sure thing. Here's how he operated (and if the parole board hears about it, back to Alcatraz he may go): East overtook the spade lead with his queen and continued the king with everyone following. East now led the ace of spades and our boy, despite the fact that he had another spade, trumped with the heart 10. Believe us, he did not accidentally pull the wrong card. As South knew from the bidding, West honestly had no more spades. The latter, being unable to overtrump, discarded something or other.

Mission accomplished, our friend now apologetically corrected his revoke, which he was legally entitled to do without penalty since he hadn't played to the next trick. He followed suit with his last spade and West had the valueless privilege of changing his play. East now led his singleton diamond which was won in dummy. It took courage of a sort for South brazenly to take the "proven" finesse against the heart jack, but after all he hadn't gone through his earlier machinations for nothing. He chalked up game and rubber, collected his profits, and left the club before his opponents even recovered their powers of speech.

For the record, gentle readers, our reporting of the hand does not imply our acceptance of the Alcatraz Coup.

My Day

Brief Visit With Adlai Stevenson

By Eleanor Roosevelt

ST. CATHERINES, Ont.

I LEFT New York around noon Saturday for Chicago where I made a talk in the evening and in the afternoon had the pleasure of visiting for a short time with Adlai Stevenson.

Mr. Stevenson has taken defeat as I knew he would — philosophically, with a long look into the past and into the future and with a greater interest in what will happen to the country and its people than in himself.

It seems a shame the talents and minds of our defeated candidates are not utilized. Of course, Senator Estes Kefauver will be active in the Senate, so we do not lose his services. But I sometimes wish that we would be a less wasteful nation and follow certain precedents for the utilization of both parties in the field of foreign affairs.

For instance, Ambassador Warren Austin, a good Republican from Vermont, served many years with distinction and ability as head of the United States delegation to the United Nations under President Truman. Apparently there then was never any real clash of objectives in this foreign field.

Whether this could be done under the present administration is something only the President can decide.

I TOOK A PLANE Sunday morning from Chicago to Washington where, as usual, my dear friend, Mrs. James Helm, met me and took me to her apartment.

After a delightful luncheon, we attended the service at the cathedral to dedicate the Woodrow Wilson Memorial. My old friend, Bernard Baruch, spoke and I read a passage from John Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress." It is one of my favorite passages and was particularly suited for that occasion.

Woodrow Wilson never gave up his ideals in his pilgrimage on this earth, and I am sure that when he passed over, "the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

I was home in New York early Sunday evening, spent a busy Monday morning there, then left for Schenectady, N.Y., on a lecture tour.

TWO BOOKS have come my way lately which I think people will find "must" reading.

One is "The Big Thaw," a personal exploration of the "new Russia" and orbit countries by C. L. Sulzberger. The author has been a foreign correspondent for 19 years, during 10 of which he headed the New York Times Foreign Service Bureau. He now writes the foreign affairs column in the New York Times and has been back only a short time from a trip through Russia's empire.

The other book is autobiographical. It is "I Wonder as I Wander" by Langston Hughes, the world's most famous Negro poet.

No one who really wants to understand human nature will miss this book. It is such a very human document and full of interest, insight and adventure.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

WE ARE a small group of women who enjoy going to Dutch treat luncheons and playing cards. No matter where we go, one of the women will invariably engage the waiter or waitress in a conversation and to get more rolls or butter, will call the waitress, "Honey." She does not realize this shows bad manners but it is very embarrassing to the rest of us and it makes the person to who serves us very uncomfortable. What can we do?

PLEASE HELP.

Maybe, if you don't want son who serves us very to come right out and ask her not to embarrass you, an oblique approach would help. Without making it too obvious, couldn't you start talking about someone else, a mythical character, of course, who has this same habit? If she realized how every other woman in the group feels about someone who acts like this, she probably would stop. But if that doesn't work, one of you should get up the nerve to call it to her attention. Courtesy to a waiter or waitress is one thing, but familiarity is quite another and, as you say, it's as embarrassing to the person serving you as it is to the other members of the party.

Dear Martha:

I USED TO GO with a boy two years older than I. We got along very well together. Then a woman told him an awful lie about me and we broke up. Since then I've gone with a number of other boys but I always think of him. I've tried to forget him but I can't and I know, I still love him very much. The woman said she told him this lie because she didn't think he was good enough for me. She's his cousin and said his family is no good, but everyone else thinks the world of them. How can I get him to ask me for a date without being too forward?

WORRIED.

That's about the silliest reason I've ever heard of for telling a lie about someone. If members of his family are determined to interfere to that extent in his affairs, I'm not so sure that I'd want to be in the picture. The fact that he believed "an awful lie" about his girl doesn't indicate that he cared very much. So maybe you'd be wise to start looking in some other direction for a nice fellow from a nice family.

Dear Martha:

I READ THE LETTER written by "Mother of Three," but I'd like to hear the husband's side of the story. That letter sounded like the kind my younger sister would write. She has three of the worst little brats in the city, but it's entirely her own fault—not the children's. They do plenty of damage in a day's time, but instead of doing something about it at the time, she yells, "I'll tell your daddy when he gets home this evening." "Daddy" comes home tired, and sometimes grouchy. He's learned to expect, "The kids have driven me crazy today—I want you to spank them." By that time, they've forgotten what they're to be spanked for. If my brother-in-law does spank one of them, my sister yaps her head off, and the children have heard, "Mean Old Daddy" so often, if my brother-in-law gets anywhere near one of them, they start yelling "Daddy hit me." They'll fall on the floor and say their father knocked them down. After seeing them do that and get away with it, my own son tried it on me. I didn't wait to tell "Daddy." I spanked him right then and there. The very next day I heard him tell his cousin about it, and he said the spanking didn't hurt long but he still had a lump on his head from throwing himself on the floor and he'd never try that again. Children are much smarter than some adults think they are. They can, and do cause trouble, in and out of the home, and they do need discipline. I doubt that any woman worth a hoot will stand by and watch a man beat her children to death without doing something about it, whether it's the father or stepfather. After all, if she couldn't do anything else, she could move out sometime when the brute wasn't there, and she'd find help if she wanted it. Even if she's unable to work, she could still get help. If "Mother of Three" reads your column, she evidently reads other things, and should know we have laws and lawyers any time she needs them. Punching a time clock every morning is much better than living in fear—if the woman's story is true, and if she's willing to work for her children.

Busy Real Estate Convention Hostess

Mrs. Gladys Manion, County-Board President-Elect, Tells How Business Grew

By Mary Kimbrough

SEVENTEEN years ago, Mrs. Gladys Manion started hunting people for houses. Then she started hunting houses for people. Now she's doing both.

The energetic, pleasant Mrs. Manion, who heads her own real estate firm in Clayton, has come far in the house-and-people-hunting business since the days when she didn't know the difference between a warranty deed and a lease. So far, in fact, that her fellow realtors have recently elected her president of the St. Louis County Real Estate Board, the first woman to hold that office. By virtue of her present office of vice president and her new post, which she will assume in January, she is a busy, hard-working hostess at the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards now in session in St. Louis.

Mrs. Manion's happy hunting days in the real estate business began quite by accident on a trip to Minneapolis before World War II. There she met a woman who was operating a rental service, finding hard-to-get tenants for easy-to-get (remember?) property. As a tenants' market also existed in St. Louis with good houses and apartments standing idle and unoccupied, Gladys decided to try the same kind of service here.

"People thought I was crazy," she said, "but I made contracts with a lot of major companies to find homes for their incoming employes and our office soon was doing a good business. We would take prospects out in the car and show them a house or apartment for rent and take all the worry of searching off their hands.

"Then, of course, came the housing shortage of the early '40s and the picture was just the opposite. Then we were frantically trying to find homes for all the people who were coming into the city. It was a natural thing to go into selling at that point as people who were permitting us to rent their homes while they were stationed elsewhere realized what a good market there was so they would ask us to sell their houses for them. It all followed a sequence, from rental service to real estate sales.

By a Post-Dispatch Photographer

MRS. GLADYS MANION . . . SHE THINKS IT'S THE WOMAN WHO USUALLY DECIDES WHEN IT COMES TO BUYING A HOUSE.

"I will never forget the first sale I made. I didn't even know how to close the deal so I asked for help on that part of it. I was supposed to receive my commission check on the thirtieth of the month but I was so excited about it that I told them to hold it until the thirty-first, my birthday. I couldn't think of a better way to celebrate. That looked like a million dollars to me then."

LEAPING from rental into sales property work compelled the blue-eyed business woman to learn more about houses—from the foundation up. Admittedly, when she started, one of the few things she knew about a house was how to prime an oil pump. But today she can talk with authority about plaster cracks, water heaters, wall thickness or gas furnaces. Combining a strictly feminine point of view with a professional approach, she can quickly size up the closet space, number of electric outlets or kitchen equipment and put an appraisal on a piece of property.

"Those are things women want to know about," she said. "Men usually are interested in the construction. But women want to know the size and number of those closets.

"I think the woman is the one who really makes the decision most of the time whether or not they will buy the house. She's the one who will be living in it all day, so often the choice is up to her.

"After looking at so many houses, you usually can figure out in a second what the floor plan is and what doors lead to what rooms the minute you walk in the front door. We always want sales people to inspect a house first before they show it, but even in a strange home you can usually tell. Of course, it's a little embarrassing to open a door with a flourish, say, 'Now, just look at this great big closet,' and find yourself staring down the basement stairs.

"It's an interesting fact, too, that a trained sales person can tell the moment people walk into a house whether or not that's the place for them, whether they'll like it.

"But there's a lot of work before actually showing the house. You want to analyze the prospect and learn exactly what he or she wants in a home. You should know the kind of life those people live, whether they entertain a lot, what their hobbies are what they like in a home.

"And let them say first of all what price range they want, then show them houses in that range. Nine times out of 10, they'll decide they want something better and spend more than they had said they would. But we never encourage them to go overboard. They won't be happy with the house."

MRS. MANION, past district governor of the Women's Division of the national organization and past president of the Women's Council of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, is an apartment dweller herself. She lives at 7519 Wellington avenue, Clayton, not far from some of the first apartments she rented on behalf of clients of the Manion Rental Service 17 years ago. She has a son, Jimmy, associated in the real estate firm with her, and two daughters, Mrs. Everett T. Allen, of Winnetka, Ill., and Mary Ann (Muffie) who is at home.

Her family (which includes four grandchildren), the real estate business, Zonta Club (of which she is a past district governor) and bridge are her major interests. But even when she's at a club meeting or sitting in on a bridge game, she's apt to be looking at the house and checking its good points.

"You can't help it when you're in this business. Somehow you feel close to the houses as well as to the people who are your clients. You know the personal lives of the people to whom you sell homes, and you know the houses inside and out, their good qualities and their faults.

"Houses, you know, have personality. And when you drive by one you have sold, you somehow have a little feeling of friendship."

Your Food Problems

Cranberries as Sauce, Glaze

By Edith M. Barber

WHAT would Thanksgiving dinner be without cranberry sauce? There are the iconoclasts who choose some other meat besides turkey, but they are faithful to cranberry sauce or jelly. Turkey has, of course, not lost its popularity, but it is now so plentiful throughout the year that it is no longer reserved for special occasions.

If there are festivities outside the home, as there so often are over this long weekend, we are almost certain to see a large roast turkey grace a buffet table. There will be few of us that will be deprived of a taste, whether we serve turkey on our own Thanksgiving table or not.

While we make good use of the canned cranberry sauce and jelly during the rest of the year, now that the fresh berries are in the market, we are tempted to make use of them at this season. Some of us like a jellied sauce that can be molded, and others prefer a real sauce that is thin enough to ladle.

This can also be used as a glaze for a baked ham, the fat of which should be scored before a last-minute glazing in the oven. It is just as good with a lamb or fresh pork roast. I also like to use the sauce over cold sliced meat frizzled for a few moments in butter, before the sauce is added and heated.

TART FRESH CRANBERRIES ARE AS GOOD WITH HAM—AS A SAUCE OR GLAZE—AS THEY ARE WITH TURKEY.

Fresh Cranberry Sauce.

Two cups sugar, two cups water, four cups fresh cranberries.

Combine sugar and water in saucepan and bring to a boil. Cook rapidly for about five minutes. Add cranberries and continue cooking over moderate heat five minutes, or until skins burst. Yield: one quart sauce.

Cranberry Glaze Baked Ham.

After ham is baked, carefully remove skin. Score fat in triangles. Place in baking pan, and spread with cranberry sauce. Return to moderate oven (375 degrees) and bake 15 to 20 minutes until thoroughly heated. Baste occasionally with more sauce.

Rough Textured Walls

You can cover rough-textured walls with wallpaper, but first you must install a lining paper to provide a smooth surface. If the walls are so rough that even the lining paper fails to make them smooth, better sand down the high spots and then apply the liner.

Smoking Manners

By Amy Vanderbilt

MY mail and my own observations indicate that America's smoking manners are very bad. Smokers should never enter anyone's home and begin smoking without first asking permission, unless others are already smoking. Even when others are smoking cigarettes, a man who wishes to light a cigar should ask permission of his hostess first. A pipe smoker should do the same (and the cleaning of a pipe is a very personal operation that should not be practiced in the company of women, at least without permission).

AMY VANDERBILT

Smokers should not light up at close quarters, for example at drug store or restaurant counters, if there are customers immediately adjacent, without asking permission. It is not fun for the non-smoker to be forced to munch a sandwich through a cloud of his neighbor's smoke.

MAN OR WOMAN, a smoker should remove what he is smoking from his mouth before attempting to speak. I shall never forget the sight of a new parishioner at my church shaking hands with our rector after the service with his hat on his head and a cigarette in his mouth. (A man, by the way, always removes his hat when shaking hands with a clergyman and, of course, when greeting a woman on the street.)

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am a cashier in a restaurant, catering supposedly to a first-class clientele. Men will come to my desk with cigarette or cigar in mouth, mumble something which no one could understand and become very abusive when asked to repeat. Also, they let ashes fall on my desk and seem to think nothing of it.

"And, I am ashamed to tell you, women are just as bad. When I asked one woman to repeat, she replied, 'If you are so old and stupid that you can't understand a simple question, why don't you quit and go to an old women's home?' Then she deliberately blew a cloud of smoke in my face.

"So you see, it isn't always the poor mistreated customers who are without fault.—O.D."

There is not much I need say in comment.

NOT THIS
Mother: "No, you can't stay up until Daddy gets home. I think he could get home earlier if he tried. He knows you have to go to bed early."

THIS
Mother: "Daddy is going to get home a little later tonight and you may stay up until he comes so he can tell you a story and tuck you in bed."

Lemon Angelfood Cake

Method: Prepare the filling according to package directions for lemon meringue pie; cool. Split angelfood cake into two or three layers. Spread lemon filling between layers. Whip cream, sweeten to taste with confectioners' sugar and flavor to taste with vanilla. Use one cup cream if top only is to be frosted; 1½ cups cream if top and sides are to be covered. Sprinkle whipped cream with grated lemon rind. Refrigerate until serving time.

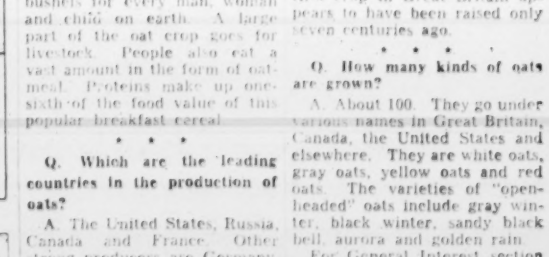
HENRY—By Carl Anderson



Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

MANY magazine and newspaper accounts appear about wheat and Indian corn, but it is somewhat rare to read of oats anywhere except in farm publications. Oats, nevertheless, rank among the important grains of the world.

Q. How large is the world's crops of oats?

A. About four and a half billion bushels each year, or enough to provide almost two bushels for every man, woman and child on earth. A large part of the oat crop goes for livestock. People also eat a vast amount in the form of oatmeal. Proteins make up one-sixth of the food value of this popular breakfast cereal.

Q. Which are the leading countries in the production of oats?

A. The United States, Russia, Canada and France. Other strong producers are Germany, Great Britain, Poland and Argentina. Saskatchewan leads all Canadian provinces in the production of oats. Alberta, Ontario and Manitoba also have heavy crops. The leading American "oats states" are Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Q. What was the original home of oats?

A. This grain is believed to have grown first in Asia, but there are indications that oats were raised in northern Europe during the Bronze Age.

Crops of oats are gathered in many parts of the world, but they do better in a northern than in a southern climate. The first crop in Great Britain appears to have been raised only seven centuries ago.

Q. How many kinds of oats are grown?

A. About 100. They go under various names in Great Britain, Canada, the United States and elsewhere. They are white oats, gray oats, yellow oats and red oats. The varieties of "open-headed" oats include gray winter, black winter, sandy black bell, aurora and golden rain.
